Mrs. Davis of Alsea passed through town last Saturday morning, homeward bound with the body of her son who died in Camp Lewis of pneumonia and measles. This boy was the mother's only support on their ranch. She had tried to get him exempted but failed. Her grief was deep and sharp as she took his lifeless remains back to the little mountain home he left a few short weeks ago. Thus may we realize the crushing blow that is sure to come to some other home in our midst. Let us help one another when the blow comes. Thus, too, must it be until the insolence and brutality of autocracy is over come. As each boy lays down his life we should renew our inviolable oath to fight on and on until we conquer or die.
