GOVERNMENT BUYS BIG TIMBER TRACTS

PURCHASE OF 12,731 ACRES ON ALSEA SOUTHERN LINE IS MADE AT PORTLAND

Negotiations were closed in Portland this week whereby the Government became the owner of 12,731 acres of timber land in Lincoln County, paying therefor $775,000. This was the termination of a deal that was begun several months ago and in which the contracts had been entered into and which was carried to completion, although hostilities ended before the payments were made.

The sellers are the Blodgett Company with headquarters at Grand Rapids, Mich., and the Coos Bay Lumber Company of Marshfield. The latter company is said to represent the interests of C. A. Smith and A. H. Powers, of Marshfield, and the firm of Lyon & Geary, Chicago. John W. Blodgett put a price upon the tract bearing his name with the stipulation that he would sell to no one but the Government, and fixed a price of $635,000 reputed to be less than its market value, because it was desired for production of airplane stock.

The Blodgett tract comprises 10,285 acres and is reported to cruise 650,000, 000 feet of merchantable timber, of which more than 40 per cent is Sitka spruce. The smaller tract is 1745 acres and cruises more than 100,000,000 feet of timber similar in character to that of the larger body, and to which it is contiguous.

The Alsea Southern line taps both tracts and it is supposed that the railroad and spurs will be sold at the same time that the timber land goes under the hammer.

He gave his life for humanity's peace. Now, he rests in Eternal Peace. No, he's not gone, but is always near. He's entering upon his spiritual career. Free from all toil, on earth he trod, Tenderly sheltered at Home, now with God.
