

Gold!

Gold! Gold! There's so much of it that they measure it by the millions of bushels—150,000,000 is one state's yield, says

The COUNTRY GENTLEMAN

Yes, of course, this gold is wheat—the second biggest crop ever harvested, and almost without exception Al grain. There's a message for every farmer in A. B. Macdonald's big Country Gentleman story of this large-scale success, entitled Rain-Made Gold.

This is just one of a number of striking articles in next week's issue of the oldest, biggest and best farm weekly printed. J. Sidney Cates tells a fascinating story of abandoned farms and blueberries in New England; Philip Rose has an illuminating study of Plows; Stuart Blythe adds to his splendid "cooperation" series; E. V. Wilcox continues his Farming With Water; Clyde Marquis points the connection between ships and soils; John R. MacMahon talks of farmer rule in Canada—and there are several other equally helpful and stimulating stories. Add to this art work unique in the farm-paper field, catchy humor, handy farm mechanics and a generous lot of the best fiction that's written these days and you will have some idea of the of the unmatched bargain you will get if you send me just $1.00 TODAY!
