

Payrolls and Prosperity

Oregon needs more and larger payrolls. Prosperity is a concrete condition, not an abstract thought. It is created by the opportunity for work, the investment of money in new and enlargement of old projects, the development of trade, the meeting of producer and consumer, the exchange of labor for purchasing power.

The Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Company, representing a payroll of approximately $3,000,000 per year in Oregon, has reached a point beyond which it cannot go with its present income. It has asked for higher rates which will enable it to maintain its service, meet its payroll obligations and earn a reasonable return upon its investment in Oregon. If it obtains this it can carry on its construction program, offer more work in Oregon, enlarge its payrolls and take its proper part in the progress of this state. If it cannot secure adequate rates it must limit its expansion in every way, abandon its plans for extensions and lay off its construction crews.

The rates asked for will not work a hardship upon any individual; they represent but a small increase per station over present rates, but in the aggregate would permit the telephone company to continue to fully serve the public, carry out its plans for the development of Oregon, and do its part in creating and maintaining the prosperity which is essential to this state.

Adequate service is dependent upon adequate rates.

The Big Country Merchant

It is service to the rural community that makes the big country merchant big. That's what A. B. Macdonald discovered when he began writing the stories of their success for

The COUNTRY GENTLEMAN

He found that the rural merchant prospers as he helps his neighborhood and county to prosper; that his custom will grow as his ability to render prompt, efficient, thorough and fairly-priced service increases.

In next week's issue Mr. Macdonald tells of a small-town hardware store that has, by honest dealing and constant endeavor to serve, established itself in a wide and secure trade. Clarence Budington Kelland, in the same issue, tells of a village general store that weathered mail-order and chain-store competition by making itself a vital factor in the lives of its patrons.

For every farm-community problem THE COUNTRY GENTLEMAN offers week by week guidance—pointing the practices that pull counties, as well as individuals, "out of the rut." This is just one aspect of a service as broad as our whole farm industry. To enjoy it for a whole year just send me, today, $1. for the next 52 issues of this big, practically helpful weekly.

It saves you time, worry and money
