

Lincoln County Leader.

VOLUME 29

TOLEDO, LINCOLN COUNTY, OREGON, FRIDAY, JULY 1st, 1921

NUMBER 19

SILETZ

Married, at the Methodist Episcopal Parsonage, June 24th, 1921, at 8 o'clock, Mr. Joseph Freitas and Miss Elizabeth Adams. Rev. Walter Ross officiating. The happy couple will make their home at Siletz. The groom is noted for his enterprise and the bride is educated, a former student of Chemawa, and is known as a good home keeper and a charming young lady. Every one wishes them happiness and prosperity in their new venture. The young people here would be better off if they would go and do likewise.

Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Crawford have returned to Siletz and opened up the Crawford house as a hotel and will make their home here at least for the present.

The people of Siletz will celebrate the Fourth of July at Newport, and we in turn invite the Newport people to attend the community fair that will be held at Siletz the last days in August. Later Toledo is to hold a County fair and it would be nice for us all to attend that fair. We should all work together to build up Lincoln County. We don't get anywhere when we oppose each other. In this reconstruction period we should all make some sacrifice for the general good.

The roads are now getting in fine condition and the auto travel is increasing right along. There is a beauty and charm about Siletz that every one enjoys. The cool shady nooks, the pure sparkling streams of water, the green forests and gentle elevations of the mountains and the splendid fishing in the rivers and the pure bracing air make it a paradise for the one seeking health and the sportsman.

Nicolas Stemple will build a nice bungalow on his fine farm bought a few weeks ago, known as the George Wilbur place, or better known by old settlers as the John Vinyard place, located one mile from the Agency on the road leading to the Upper Farm. This place has on it the celebrated rifles where so many trout are caught. The Indians have a legend connected with the place that kept them from fishing here. At these rifles a subterranean channel runs from the rifles to the ocean. Long years ago a huge monster came up this channel and caught an Indian that was in bathing and took him back to the ocean and he was never heard from again. For this reason the Indians never fish at this place or go in swimming. Mr. Stemple is going to make a fine farm of it.

PROF. MCINTOSH OFFERS VALUABLE SUGGESTIONS

The growing of high quality, disease free seed potatoes on the great areas of new lands in the vicinity of Toledo offers possibilities of developing a profitable money crop for which the market is practically unlimited," said C. J. McIntosh, agricultural press editor of the State College experiment station who was a visitor here the first of the week.

"This crop would also help develop a good tonnage for establishing a regular water service as soon as the harbor improvement is completed."

The market cited by Mr. McIntosh was the California demand. Growers there produce vast stores of potatoes for the world trade, but because of climatic conditions, must get new seed from northern grown stock practically every year. Central Oregon, Idaho and Washington contribute to this demand, but in yield, quality and especially in shipment costs, none of them can compete with this district when water transportation is established.

"The harbor needs the crop, the crop the harbor, and the farmer could probably use the money," was the way it was put.

Another advantage of the potato crop is the opportunity it offers for clean cultivation to help hold the wild fax plants in check.

The growing of purple vetch seed for the California market is another possibility mentioned for the agriculture of this district. California orchardists must grow cover crops and plow them under occasionally. This destroys all chance of growing their own seed, and they have made several trips to the experiment station to try to arrange for a big supply of seed.

As with the potato seed business, California growers are begging Oregon to supply seed for a crop they must produce.

Attention was also called to the value of trying out the station pasture mixture on the hill lands. The various plants are well calculated to supply a fresh feed almost all seasons of the year, and the ryegrass forms a mat that retards erosion and trampling out by hoofs of animals. The formula for the mixture as given by J. E. Cooter, county agent, in the June number of

MISTAKE CORRECTED

In reporting the school election last week we stated that R. A. Arnold had been elected director for a three year term, when we should have said R. A. Andersen.

The following teachers have also been elected: S. B. Robertson of Dawes, Iowa, has been elected to the principalship. Mr. Robertson is 34 years of age, is a graduate of the University of Iowa, and has been in charge of the Dawes schools the past three years, having 17 teachers under him.

Prof. Victor Shaw, former supervisor of Crook County, will be in charge of the Grammar School. Mr. Shaw is also a young man, is married and comes highly recommended. His wife will teach in the High School.

WATT SHIPP ON ROCKS

Watt Shipp of Salem narrowly escaped drowning in the Siletz river last Sunday, and owes his life to the efforts of a more skilled navigator, W. C. Burcroff, who was fortunate enough to be near at hand to aid him in his moment of distress.

Judging from information available we cannot but feel that Salem is fortunate to be able to welcome Mr. Shipp back to their fold.

It seems that Mr. Shipp and Mr. Burcroff were fishing on the river and attempted to run the rapids in a boat. The gold-darned boat was contrary and insisted on going over the rapids broadside on, and when part way thru struck a rock and dumped the bold navigators out into the icy waters. They crawled out on a rock and finally managed to get their errant boat hauled out and proceed with their fishing.

While at camp several promotions were made. As Lieut. Rice was not in a position to go with the platoon, due to State Highway work, he resigned his commission and Dr. L. Hoyt Brown (Sergeant) was elected to fill the resulting vacancy. The non-commissioned officers were all advanced and several new ones were made. Serg. Hayden succeeded Serg. Brown and Corp. Johnston was made a sergeant. A number of privates received the rank of "first class." The names are not available at this time but will be published later.

TOLEDO PLATOON HOME FROM ENCAMPMENT

Last evening the 3rd Co. C. A. C. N. G. returned from the annual summer encampment at Fort Stevens, where the boys have been since the 14th of June, receiving field and battery training. The trip was enjoyed by all, many new experiences and much benefit was derived by the training on the two big ten-inch disappearing guns of Battery Russell which were turned over to the Guards for instruction purposes by the Regulars stationed there.

The first part of the training was devoted to tracking target, sighting the guns, loading and firing, with dummy ammunition until the men became familiar with the routine of the battery and were quick and accurate in all of their various duties—the success of the whole depending upon each individual doing his part well. This practice was done by day and at night by aid of powerful searchlights which swept the ocean and skyline.

Second came what is known as "sub-caliber" practice. A one inch barrel was placed within the breech of the large ten inch guns and in this manner experience was gained with a great reduction in expense due to the difference in the one inch and ten inch projectiles and powder charges.

Third and last came the actual big gun firing. The powder charge for one shot weighed 187 lbs. and the projectile weighed 619 lbs. When in the firing position or "in battery" the muzzle of the gun is above the parapet but when the gun is fired the force of the recoil causes it to disappear down behind the parapet into the loading position. When ready to fire again it is raised by counterweights. The target was between three and five miles from the battery on the ocean, towed by a tug. It was made of canvas on a frame ten feet square. Four rounds of "service" ammunition were fired, one being a trial shot and three of them record shots. All four shots were direct hits. However the 3rd Co. lost the cup by a narrow margin of 3 yards—the Albany Co. making the nearest shot.

While at Fort Stevens the boys spent one day on the rifle range and had target shooting, showing good marksmanship. Corp. Lockwood making the highest score and many others of the platoon coming close after in number of points won. Nearly every man made at least one bulls eye.

Friday, the 24th, Governor Olcott was at Fort Stevens and the troops were marched in review, and Wednesday the 30th while enroute home, the Guards were paraded in Portland and were greeted with much applause by the people of that city.
