SILETZ

The community served a basket dinner Sunday afternoon in the Chalcraft Park in honor of the pastor, Rev. Walter and Mrs. Ross, who will retire from this mission at the close of this conference year. Mr. Ross preached his farewell sermon Sunday at eleven a. m. to a very interested and appreciative audience. The sermon sparkled with the gems of truth as taught by the Great Master. Brother and Sister Ross have been at this mission for four years and by their efforts and the loyal support of the community back of them caused Mr. Danford, the superintendent of this district to say when he was here last that he had been on an official visit for six months, and in all this time he had not found any of the churches in such condition financially; with all claims paid up to date and the church property newly painted and everything in first class order; as he found it at Siletz. This was a very fine compliment and the people greatly appreciated it. The board of stewards who handled this matter and brought about such a fine condition of finances were composed of the following ladies: Mrs. E. L. Chalcraft, Mrs. Anna Bell Hall, Mrs. Alec Catfish, Mrs. Jessie Brassfield, Mrs. Warren Cobb and Mrs. M. S. Collins. Mrs. M. S. Collins has been recording secretary for three terms. The Ladies Aid met at the Warren Cobb home Monday and elected the following officers for the ensuing year: Mrs. Anna Bell Hall, President; Mrs. E. L. Chalcraft, Vice President; Mrs. M. S. Collins, Secretary; and Mrs. Swisher, Treasurer. Rev. Walter Ross left Tuesday to attend the Annual Methodist Episcopal Conference which met at Forest Grove Monday morning.

The road work from Siletz to Toledo is now completed for this year. It is a Market road and Andrew Porter had charge of the work. It is said about twice as much gravel had been put on the road this year as there was last year, and if the people who have passed over the road are good judges they all say the road is in fine condition and will stand the winter travel if trucks and wagons are not loaded too heavily when going over it. This, of course, is a matter that will be looked after. A part of the Klamath Grade has been rocked and about one quarter of a mile north of the first bridge on the road leading to the Lower Farm has been rocked also and these roads now are in good condition. Francis Altreg who has the contract for transporting the children from the Lower Farm to school says this improvement is a great benefit to him as well as to the whole community.

Grant King made a trip to visit his family who live in Portland. He says they have a good business and are getting along fine. Grant says his folks are no strangers in Portland—his wife and daughter are located very near to the place his Uncle Amos King took a donation land claim in 1847. This is the old donation claim of 640 acres took by Mr. King almost in the heart of the city. At that time a few log houses in the big timber was all that marked the site of the great city of Portland as it is today.

Mr. Hillman and family who came here from Oregon City, will move to Grand Ronde from here. He will leave Thursday morning—Jess Daniels will move them out in the big truck. Mr. Hillman was occupying the house that belonged to Mr. Thompson who moved to Canada last spring because it rained too much in Oregon but he found it too cold and it snows too much in Canada and he is coming back to make his home at Siletz. The weather has been fine for road work with plenty of sunshine and but little moonshine.

The few that attended the dance up the river Saturday, don't seem to want to express their opinions toward it. Possibly the cider mill went dry and the moon didn't shine.

Fishing about Taft is at its highest. Some excellent strings have been brought in all ready this fall.

MOHAIR AND WOOL SHIPPED TO ASSOCIATION FARM BUREAU NEWS

Two shipments of mohair and wool have already been shipped by members of the Oregon Wool and Mohair Growers Cooperative Association from Lincoln County by way of boat to headquarters in Portland. These shipments are now being graded and as soon thereafter as a satisfactory market is available will be sold. To date, the new organization has gotten along very nicely, having already disposed of several hundred thousand pounds of coarse wool at from 3 to 7 cents per pound more than the same wool could have been sold for locally. In addition to handling the regular affairs of the Association, Mr. Ward, the Manager, is now deeply engaged in gathering statistics and facts to assist the Oregon delegation in Congress to secure legislation favorable to the wool and mohair grower.

LAST CALL—COWS FOR ALFALFA HAY

Through the columns of the News and through the Press we have announced several times that there was an opportunity for the exchange of milk cows of which many farmers of the County have a surplus every winter, their feed and milk considered, which cows could be readily exchanged for alfalfa hay in the hands of Eastern Oregon farmers who have no cows to feed to and no money with which to buy cows. The plan is to have the cows appraised in Lincoln County and offer them to the Eastern Oregon farmers at the market price for hay according to U. S. grades. If you have cows or other cattle which you would be willing to exchange on a fair value basis with your Eastern Oregon farmer friends send in the following information to the County Agent's office at once: The sex, age, breed, approximate weight, and estimated value of each animal. It would be well, also, if you have it, to give the butter fat test and the amount of milk the cows give. Any other information that you think would be of value to the prospective purchaser should be given.

ALBANY HAS FOOTBALL FIND IN WILLARD CARSON

Albany, Or., Sept. 30.—(Special.)—Albany college apparently has a football find in Willard Carson, a new student from Toledo, Or., who enrolled in the sophomore class a few days ago. Since he appeared he has become one of the leading players.

Coach McNeal has him playing half-back. He is a good runner in a broken field and a good punter. He weighs 170 pounds.

Carson played in 1916 on the freshman team at Oregon Agricultural college. Since then he has been in the service most of the time and played two years on service teams.

More pep was apparent in practice yesterday, due in part, Coach McNeal said, to the return to the lineup of Lester Wilcox—Oregonian.
