THE TOWN OF NO-GOOD

Kind friends, have you heard of the town of NO-Good, on the banks of the river Slow, where the Some-Time-or-Other scents the air and the soft Go-Easies grow? It lies in the valley of What's-the-Use, in the province of Let-Her-Slide; it's the home of the reckless I-Don't-Care, where the Give-It-Ups abide. The town is as old as the human race, and it grows with the flight of years; it is wrapped in the fog of the idler's dreams; its streets are paved with discarded schemes, and are sprinkled with useless tears.

HOW TOWNSPEOPLE AND FARM FOLKS CAN COOPERATE FOR BENEFIT OF EACH

PRESIDENT HOWARD, CHIEF OF FARM BUREAU, WRITES FOR THIS PAPER ON 20TH CENTURY SUBJECT,—DEVELOPING THE GREATER COMMUNITY SPIRIT.

tacked; much has been done in finding their solution. And not only is the farmer in a position to aid himself, but he now comes to the aid of his town brother. In a national way such programs as good roads, reduction of freight rates, taxation—all problems of vital concern to the town man—are receiving the heartiest support from organized agriculture.

THIS IS COOPERATION!

In the local units opportunity is afforded for the closest co-operation. Schools, roads,—the particular features on which such a co-operative spirit might be developed, are immaterial. Only yesterday from down in Missouri came the story of one example of town-country co-operation: Through its agricultural committee the commercial club of Columbia, Missouri, is furnishing a market news service to farmers. The plan is to list free of charge any grain, livestock products, farm machinery of all kinds, and even land or farms that the owner would buy or sell. The committee believes that owing to the almost prohibitive high freight rates existing today, that it is to the advantage of the producer, to sell or buy whenever there is an opportunity near at home.

By JAMES R. HOWARD
President of the American Farm Bureau Federation

Townpeople and farmers are not two alien races but brothers facing the same problems; a spirit of co-operation between them is absolutely necessary if our nation is to reach the Promised Land of Normalcy. One of the great tasks of our national farmers' organization—the American Farm Bureau Federation—is to bring to the town man a better understanding of the farmer and the farmer's problems, while we consider it equally our task to interpret justly to the farmer the town man and his problems.

but always, if we are good farmers, having in mind an accumulation of fertility on which the drafts of future generations may be drawn.

All know that the farmer is the principal producer of the fiscal wealth of the nation. The banker is interested in the fiscal wealth, and if the farmer fails to produce not only the banker's business but all business suffers. The farmer's problem is certainly the town man's problem. The period of stagnation from which we are just emerging is but sad proof of this.

SCHOOLS COME FIRST

When the question is asked me, "In what particular can country and town best co-operate," the word school immediately comes into my mind. "Country and town co-operating in the establishment of consolidated schools find a common ground. Even closer the tie can be drawn by making the consolidated school a real live community center.

EXAMPLE OF RELATIONSHIP

The relation of the farmer and the banker serves well to illustrate our point. Certainly their problem is parallel. The banker conserves the fiscal wealth of his community, storing and distributing it as need may arise and occasion justify. It is his business to use this fiscal wealth in such a way as will create new accumulations of wealth and safeguard the interests of the community. It is the farmer's business to conserve the soil wealth of the community, distributing the products as the needs of society may indicate.

FARMER WILL NOW HELP

For several decades cities and towns have had various forms of organizations to work on economic and social problems. They have accomplished much. Most of this time the farmer has been unorganized. His own problems have been neglected and he has been in no position to aid the townsman. That time has passed. American agriculture is now organized as agriculture never before in the history of the world was organized. Problems peculiar to the agricultural industry are being at-

My own home is on a farm out in Iowa, five miles from the town of Clements. There we have that real community spirit. We have a park—a community park built by farmers and townspeople—and it is a real park.

Townpeople and farmers are not two alien races, but brothers facing the same problem.
