PORT MOVES TO BUY BOAT

If deal completed or go to owner if deal not completed or we will hold price for thirty days and extend to sixty if needed without deposit in which case vessel is offered subject to prior sale.

E. K. Wood Lbr. Co.
 NOW THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED by the Port of Toledo, that the said offer contained in the said telegram be and the same is hereby accepted as follows: That the Port of Toledo will pay to the said Company, the owners thereof, the sum of $50,000, within thirty days from the adoption of this resolution, or within sixty days if we need such extension, and this acceptance of said offer is without the deposit mentioned in the said telegram, and the offer is subject to a prior sale; provided, however, that the acceptance of this offer is upon the condition that the said motor ship PIONEER conforms, upon a survey made, to the following specifications, which are herein recited, and made a part of the acceptance; and this acceptance is also on condition that the said Company accepts this proviso:

The specifications are too lengthy to publish in full but recite among other things:

That the boat is 21 years old.
 That the original dimensions of said boat were, length 102 feet 1 inch, beam 25 feet 8 inches, depth 9 feet, 2 inches. Registered tonnage 195 tons.

That nine years later she was cut in two in the middle and a 50 foot section added.

That the vessel was again launched in 1919, and since which time has lain in the Kewalo Basin.

Our understanding after reading the Marine Surveyor's report is that at present the boat is without engines and is incomplete in other respects, but that she could be completed in not to exceed eight weeks.

We could find nothing in the report with regard to the amount of water which the boat draws when loaded.

The resolution of the Port continues as follows:

RESOLVED that J. W. Parrish and Guy Roberts are hereby appointed a committee to send a copy of this resolution to the said owners, through the E. K. Wood Lumber Company, at once.

RESOLVED FURTHER, that J. W. Parrish and Guy Roberts are appointed a committee to arrange the details for the purchase of the said motor ship PIONEER as soon as and if the proviso herein contained shall be accepted by the owners, and to sell so many of the issue of bonds for $50,000, heretofore authorized, as may be necessary to provide the $50,000 purchase price of the said motorship, together with the expenses incurred in having the survey made, and the other incidental expenses necessary to complete this contract.

IT IS FURTHER RESOLVED that J. W. Parrish and Guy Roberts be appointed a committee to employ competent surveyors to make the survey of the said motorship at Honolulu, and report to the said committee whether the said survey shows that the said motorship PIONEER answers the specifications contained in this resolution.

RESOLVED further that if the said Company accepts the proviso contained in this resolution, and if the survey shows that the said motorship PIONEER answers the specifications, then the said committee shall report the facts to this Board at its next or any subsequent session.

After extended discussion of this resolution by the members of the Port of Toledo the president ordered the secretary to call the roll for a vote. The vote being taken on the resolution to be J. W. Parrish, W. H. Hall, W. E. Ball and Guy Roberts, opposed Peter Frederick. Whereupon the president declared the resolution duly adopted.

Taste is a matter of tobacco quality

We state it as our honest belief that the tobaccos used in Chesterfield are of finer quality (and hence of better taste) than in any other cigarette at the price.

KEEPING YOUNG

Dr. Charles W. Elliot, president emeritus of Harvard University, celebrated his eighty-eighth birthday by doing his regular day's work. Edison, seventy-five, confessed somewhat shyly to being a few minutes late for office because his family was "celebrating."

Two men, both long past the age when most men are useful, continue to live and work and make the world better. How do they do it? A stagnant pool is one into which no water flows, from which no water runs. A fresh, clear pool is one into which water runs and from which water constantly flows. Edison and Elliot have minds through which thought, ideas, pictures, conceptions constantly flow. To stay young, read, think, educate your brain. You will never be an Edison or an Elliot, probably, but you will be of use, and live long enough to make that use count in proportion to what you know, what you learn, to what purpose you use your brain.

ODDITIES IN THE DAILY NEWS

Newspaper Pages a Fund of Laughter and Amusement to Careful Readers
 Washington, April 27 (Capitol News Service)—A New York bootlegger, giving his occupation as "professional," paid more than $2,000 income tax to the United States—and the United States took it.

Side by side in a Washington paper is the announcement that a bridegroom of eighty filled his bride-to-be of one hundred at the altar, and the story of Mr. and Mrs. Alex Duncan, who live near New Market, Iowa, and their married life of seventy-three years. Mr. Duncan is 96 and his wife 91.

A cat in Birmingham, Ala., proud possessor of five kittens, adopted two baby rats given her as food and is now raising her strange family in peace and amity.

American girls, take notice of the emancipation of your French sisters. All citizens of France, regardless of sex, may now marry after reaching the age of twenty-five years, without the consent of parents. This reduces by five years the age limit previously obtaining; members of the French Chamber of Deputies, who have passed the new law, naively hope it will result in more marriages!

In Bend, Oregon, two moving picture houses have installed a "pay as you leave" scheme by which each patron stays as long as he likes and pays as much as he thinks the show is worth. According to the manager of the two houses, the receipts are larger than under the old plan of buying a ticket in advance. Bank presidents needing cashier material are respectfully referred to the population of Bend!

A WOODSMAN REFORMED

Paul Bunyan was a famous logger. As the story goes, he had a camp on the moon and brought logs to earth with a "skyline." Anyhow, back in 1765, Paul did accompany General Craddock over the Allegheny mountains. He was head swamper then and the forest was so dense that the army made only a mile a day. "Slash 'em and burn 'em," said Paul. "It'll be a million years before anyone will need these trees." Nevertheless, we are now paying $50 per log for dining tables made from what little is left of those hardwood forests.

But Paul moved on to the pine forests of Michigan. "I will get me an ox team," he said, "and I'll have my profits in real estate. The timber here will support mammoth cities." So he hauled logs day and night, the city grew, Paul got rich, and would have lived happily ever after, thus ending the story—if the timber had held out.

But it didn't, and Paul went flat broke and hastened away to the yellow pine woods of the south, where he took a contract falling timber. "Cut the stumps high," quoth Paul. "There is timber enough here to supply the earth forever." But soon the camps began to close down and the mills began to disappear, and when the boss said "Cut 'em low," Paul Bunyan quit and started for the Pacific Northwest, where there was plenty of timber and no need of being so particular. But he got an eye opener when he crossed the treeless plains. It gave him something to think about. "Great Scott," cried Paul, as he slid over the Cascades. "They are burning the forests out here! We have no wood to waste!" So Paul got a job as fire warden, the moral of which is that it is a wise man who knows to change his mind!

NEW GUIDE BOOK

Camping, Fishing, and Hunting Guide, is the title of a sports booklet, reissued by Southern Pacific Lines, with the aid of the U. S. Forestry Service.

It is nicely illustrated with sketches and maps; containing articles on the playgrounds in Western Oregon, within and without the National Forests, and directions as to reaching the hunting and fishing places; how to make camps, and what to use in doing so. It tells about roads and trails; outfit and clothing; food supplies, recipes, cooking equipment and how to use the cooking utensils.

A part of the booklet is devoted to packing; protection of game and fish; the handling of killed deer; how to rescue revive and carry injured companions; prevention of forest fires; game laws and licenses, and a number of other interesting points for an outing.
