

GRADUATES HEAR BEAUTIFUL SERMON ON SUNDAY EVENING

The Methodist church of Toledo was beautifully decorated with flowers, ferns and shrubbery on Sunday evening in honor of the graduating class of the Toledo high school. Rev. Pogue of the Siletz church delivered the baccalaureate address and was one that might well be remembered with profit not only by the graduates themselves but also by the parents, teachers and school officials. Rev. Pogue's remarks were filled with optimism and he urged the graduates that now that they have finished high school to not let anything stop them in carrying their education to a still higher plane. "because," he said "the lower levels of education are overcrowded while the higher you climb the greater your opportunities in life will be." He made a strong plea for closer cooperation between teachers, parents and school boards.

Following the address of Rev. Pogue Rev. Cain, of the local church made a few remarks for the benefit of the graduates.

SEEMS RATHER HOPELESS

The only opportunity we can see for the return of a national Democratic administration during the present generation is for the pro-Wilson Democrats to convince the anti-Wilson Democrats that they are right and for the anti-Wilson Democrats to convince the pro-Wilson Democrats that they are right. Unless such a settlement is reached the cause is a lost one and all the notes which Mr. Wilson can write and all the oratory which Mr. Reed can orate will be consumed by a body of such digestive construction that one part of the organic system must expel what the other retains, and vice-versa.—Clayton (Mo.) Watchman-Advocate.

Old Pioneers

In 1866. A low platform was erected for speakers and grouping of pioneers, and ample grounds prepared for the O. A. C. military band which provided the music, and for the big crowd gathered to witness the ceremonies.

Dr. F. M. Carter, an employe of the federal service for more than a half century, spoke on Sheridan's construction of Fort Hoskins and of a wagon road over the mountains from Kings valley to the Siletz agency.

Dr. William Henry Ellison, associate professor of history at the college, spoke on disappearance of one particular American institution—the frontier.

John G. Flook, pioneer and author of the legislature bill locating the agricultural college at Corvallis, reviewed some of the early events.

W. I. Stoddard read Joaquin Miller's tribute to the "Mothers of Men."

Wiley Norton, a pioneer of '44, made an impromptu talk certifying to the accuracy of the site selected as the former location of the Fort. Mrs. James Plunkett also made a few remarks to like effect, after the statement by the chairman, Professor Horner that Mr. Plunkett used to run horse races with Phil Sheridan.

George H. Himes, secretary of the Oregon Historical society ever since its founding—and in a like position with its predecessor since '86—told of the work of the society in promoting a better understanding of local history.

"We crossed the plains in '44," said Wiley Norton, who was born the year before in Missouri and spent nine months of his babyhood on the long road. His father moved to the Luckymute the following year, '45, and Mr. Norton still lives at Airlie. His father knew Phil Sheridan well, and also a Mr. Carroll who owned and ran the sawmill that cut the lumber for Fort Hoskins in 1866.

Mr. Wiley was about 12 years old when Sheridan came to the country and began erection of the fort which he called Fort Hoskins. He saw the young lieutenant about frequently and has seen him directing the work of putting Indians on the Siletz and the Grande Ronde reservations.

Most interesting of all however, was Mr. Sci. Tantom's clear recollection of the location and character of the various buildings. He was not a member of the committee on reconstruction and replica of the old army post by Professor Horner, yet he gave an account that tallied exactly with the findings of that committee. Yet he took the correspondent over the grounds and pointed out and described the three headquarter buildings, soldier quarters, commissary, guard house, hospital, powder house, and animal quarters. This was before the replica had been displayed by Professor Horner and agreed with it in all essentials.

The sawmill built by a Mr. Carroll was later owned by Mr. Tantom's father. This old mill, established to cut lumber for the army buildings, was later rebuilt and then sawed the lumber for the first Oregon Agricultural college building now standing—the administration building in which President Kerr still has offices.

OLSON THROWS "BEARCAT" AT ALBANY ON JUNE 3

A crowd estimated at 400 people, including many women, saw Charles Olson, local wrestler, throw the "Oklahoma Bearcat" twice in 5 1/2 tense moments at the Baseball Festival Saturday night, which resulted in the loser challenging the victor to a match in ten days from Saturday.

The match was hard-fought from start to finish, and although Olson was much handicapped by the superior weight of his opponent, nevertheless he carried the fight to his man all the way and was roundly cheered by the crowd as he clamped the fatal holds on the "Bearcat."

Olson meets Chas. Miller of Toledo at that place next Saturday night for a purse of $300. Many Albany fans are expected to make the trip to witness the contest.—Albany Exchange.

When to Cut Various Hays
When intended for dairy cattle, clover hay should be cut at the time of all blossom or soon after. Vetch and oats are ready when the grains are in the early dough stage, while grasses may best be cut when in blossom or as soon afterwards as possible. After cutting, protect the hay from excessive bleaching and the quality will be high.—O. A. C. Experiment Station.

The regular meeting of the Southside Improvement Club was held at the schoolhouse on Saturday afternoon. Among the questions discussed was the sending of a school exhibit to the county fair in September. All the ladies and children of the neighborhood are earnestly requested to meet with the Club on June 15th to make arrangements for the exhibit.

The question of the building of the bridge, and the Roosevelt Highway were discussed and it was decided to urge the County Court to have all plans, estimates, and surveys made as soon as possible as a letter from the Highway Commission had started that a preliminary survey of the highway was to be made this summer through Lincoln Co. If our arrangements are made before that time we will be prepared to cooperate with the highway without any delay. But on the other hand the highway may not be constructed for five years or more. In that case it would certainly be a piece of foolishness to wait for it before building the bridge, now that the bonds have been voted. The sooner it is built, the quicker the southern part of the county will be settled, thus dividing the burden of taxes by reducing the rate. Every taxpayer should demand immediate action in the construction of the bridge. A number of families who had left their homes on Mill Creek and Drift Creek are talking of returning when the bridge is constructed.

fish and untainted services that he has given this community in the last six years, without hope or expectation of reward, financial or otherwise; when I remember the dark days of 1917-18, with the world in flames, and Charlie Gates with his only son in France and one daughter nursing in the army camps, was giving every waking hour, every ounce of energy, every dollar of resource he possessed, in the righteous cause of his country, leading and stimulating every movement and activity that was put forth by the people of Jackson county to support the mighty armies that his country was rushing to the battlefields of France—with all these things fresh and vivid in my mind, I do not feel that I care to have my freedom of action hampered by being connected with an administration that sees fit to play politics with the reputation and standing of one of Southern Oregon's best known and best loved citizens.

"Previous to the primary, I voluntarily wrote you, tendering my support. That pledge has, to this moment, been fulfilled to the limit. Your action, which cannot be interpreted other than a direct insult to the citizenship of southern Oregon, and has been so accepted, compels me to withdraw that pledge, reserving the right to use the prerogatives that are possessed by every citizen.

"It is with sincere regret that I sever my connection and association with the splendid men who make up the game organization of the state of Oregon and with the wonderful work in which they are engaged."

grading and surfacing 13.54 miles of the old Oregon trail in Umatilla county between Deadman's Pass and Kamela were rejected. Bids will be readjusted.

Lincoln county made many requests of the state highway commission yesterday afternoon. A delegation from that section explained that through an error when highway bonds were voted on the entire length of the Lincoln county part of the Roosevelt highway was omitted in the bill. As a result, more money will be needed from the state funds to complete that part of the road Lincoln county folk are most anxious to have done.

A Benton county delegation appeared to ask that the piece of winding road between Corvallis and Albany, now very rough, be taken over by the commission as a part of the state highway system. The delegation also asked that this road be paved. They were told this is impossible as funds are lacking.

The state commission offered to keep this bit of road watered during the summer months on a 50-50 basis. The Benton county delegation said the matter will be considered. It wasn't so very long ago that the highway commission wished to take over the twisting road between the Linn and Benton counties' capitals, but then the Bentonites didn't see it that way. Now, they say, they are sorry they spoke so hastily.

Coos county wants the Oregon commissioners to take up with the California state highway board the matter of improving a ten-mile stray road south of the line that connects the Grants Pass-Crescent City highway with the Roosevelt highway—Portland News.

Judge James and Court Commissioners Dunn and Warren arrived home from their successful road mission at the Rose City on Saturday.
