

HOW TO USE TELEPHONE TO GET HELP IN EMERGENCIES

The telephone is an invaluable aid in emergencies if properly used. It is used many times daily in summoning help in case of lawlessness, accident and fire and is, in fact, the only means of quickly securing the police and firemen in some of our small communities. But many persons, by improper use of the telephone, are deprived of the prompt aid it can bring.

In case of an emergency in which the fireman or a policeman or an ambulance may be needed, keep cool. Or if you can't keep cool, just keep as cool as you can and reach for your telephone.

Give your call for help to the operator in such a way that your need will be understood. Don't simply shout "Help" and then drop the instrument. The operator will not know what sort of help you want.

The right way to summon help is to say, for example: "I want to report a fire." "I want a policeman." "I want an ambulance."

If you are compelled to leave the telephone before your call is answered, be sure to tell operator where the help is wanted.

OPERATOR WAS HEROINE OF "MIDNIGHT FLYER" CRASH

The outstanding heroine of the wreck of the "Midnight Flyer" at Winslow Junction, N. J., on the morning of July 4th, was Miss Margaret Loughman, telephone operator at Hammononton, N. J.

Informed of the accident by railroad tower man at the Junction, she immediately summoned every doctor for miles around, put in a call for both ambulances of the Hammononton Fire

Department and aroused members of the American Legion Post and the Red Cross.

Because of Miss Loughman's prompt action the scene of the disaster in short time. The fire apparatus was hauled over three miles of muddy road, and the axes and crowbars of the firemen were used to extricate many victims from the overturned cars, long before the arrival of the railroad wrecking train.

Twenty-two World War veterans, a Red Cross nurse and eight physicians who responded to Miss Loughman's calls did efficient service in applying first aid to the victims and assisting in the work of rescue.

OPERATOR STICKS TO POST

Miss Minnie Clark, eighteen-year-old telephone operator, was the heroine of the explosion which wrecked the plant of the Diamond Match Company at Barberton, O., and killed a fireman. After the first explosion Miss Clark stuck to her post and called police, fireman and ambulances regardless of the fact that the switchboard was in the midst of broken glass by which she was severely injured.

PREPARATIONS BEING MADE BIG ROUNDE-UP

PENDLETON, Ore., July 29—Talent at the 1922 Round-Up will eclipse that of any preceding year according to word received from the son and daughters of the range and plain who will compete here September 21, 22 and 23.

Ray Bell, last year's champion, who first rode in the big show when he was a mere stripling of 14, will enter the lists again. "Yak" Canutt, thrice a champion, will be here as will be Hugo

Strickland, also a former champion. Added to these stars of the Round-Up constellation will be scores of others who have won laurels in the bulldogging, broncho riding, steer roping and races, and still others who will make new records. Tom Mix celebrated motion picture star, and 50 cowboys, skilled in the art of throwing a rope, and riding bronks, will be entered in the contests.

Pendleton is making extensive preparations for the show. The grounds and grandstands are being put into shape and everything placed in readiness. The Round-Up is strictly a community show, staged by an association of Pendleton's prominent citizens, who serve with at salary, and who have the backing of every citizen of the town. The show pays no dividends, all profits being used for prizes and improvements to the grounds.

Happy Canyon, the "little brother of the Round-Up," which will provide entertainment for the evening hours, will be staged in improved quarters. The old pavilion is being re-built and a balcony constructed.

"MICKEY" IS PEEVED

Due to lack of space we have been compelled to leave out the "Mickey" strip the last two issues but that young gentleman has raised such a howl and has threatened to "can" the whole force if it happens again, that we have decided to let him occupy his regular space after this "whether or no."

CARD OF THANKS.

Ella Brown, the little girl that was accidentally shot with a 22-calibre rifle by her little brother recently, was sent home a week ago last Sunday sound and well. Now the family, including her immediate parents and brothers and sisters, grandmother and three uncles, wish to thank Mrs. Burgess and Carter and Mrs. Alice Waugh at whose home the child was nursed back to health. Sunday a big dinner was served. A number of friends were invited in and religious services were held in the old-fashioned way by Mrs. Alice Catfish. This service consisted of prayer, chants and songs, coming to them through visions and dreams from the Great Spirit, who cares for His children. The Indian is truly a child of nature.

SILETZ

(By Dr. Carter)

Died at the home of Ed. Altred July 26, 1922 Frank Jones, age 73 years 3 months and 21 days. Deceased is survived by two daughters and one son who live in the state of Washington. The interment took place in the Riverside Cemetery and the funeral was conducted by Rev. C. W. Pogue pastor of the M. E. Church at Siletz. Mr. Jones was a veteran of the Spanish-American War, because of some error in his papers he never received a pension.

The Minniti Brothers in Christ will hold an old fashion candy meeting at Siletz commencing Thursday evening August 3rd, and will continue for ten days. The big tent will be put up on the lots that belong to Arthur Bensell just south of the King hotel. Rev. J. G. Grant presiding.

A basket dinner will be served on Sunday and everybody is invited to come bring their baskets and enjoy the meeting and the outing. This invitation extends to Toledo, Newport and the intervening communities. All are welcome. This is an ideal place for such a meeting at this season of the year. The roads are good. This bridge is up and the autos can come right to the camp ground and there is a good place to park your cars. Good preaching and good singing are assured. The singers and minister will come from a distance. This is one of the most delightful places in Oregon to hold such a meeting. The scenery is good the water and air are pure and invigorating and the cool breezes blowing in from the ocean, will keep the temperature just right for ones comfort and happiness. When the services are not on you can stroll in the shade on the banks of the beautiful Siletz or fish in its rippling, sparkling waters that flow on to the sea, except Sunday, then you must go to church and say your prayers.

On last Thursday the Ladies Aid gave a basket dinner at the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Colvin. The spread was placed in the shade on the bank of the Siletz river. It was a chicken dinner and of course everyone enjoyed it. After dinner a number went in swimming while others enjoyed themselves sporting on the banks of the river or strolling in the green forest. The Siletz people are learning how to get the most pleasure out of life, now in a while we have a scrap but not often.

Friday evening a bunch of about 20 of our people got in their cars and went to Newport to attend the dance given at the new pavilion and to take a plunge in the water of the new natatorium. All had words of praise for the beauty and elegance of the new building and especially of the new dance hall with its equipment, its elegant ash floors and the beautiful grill room, kept by Mr. W. H. Evans, where all kinds of sea foods and delicacies are served. The party came back well pleased with their trip and the fine time they had at the dance. The bonds of co-operation and friendship between Siletz and Newport will grow stronger as time goes on.

Mr. and Mrs. Chalcraft returned from Grande Ronde reservation on an official visit Monday evening.

Baby Wants Name, Not Gold, says mother.

CORNELIUS VANDERBILT WHITNEY

MISS EVAN BURROWS FONTAINE

MISS MARIE NORTON

The son of multi-millionaire Harry Payne Whitney, Cornelius Vanderbilt Whitney, has been asked to give his name to the 18-month-old baby of Miss Evan Burrows Fontaine, noted Oriental dancer of New York.

The action was started when the engagement of young Whitney to Miss Marie Norton, society girl of New York, was announced.

The dancer claims young Whitney wanted to marry her while he was student at Yale but she refused as theirs was a true love match and she didn't want to hurt his career. He grew cold, she says, when she told him of the baby, which she now calls Cornelius Vanderbilt Whitney, Jr.

It's a name not gold that my baby wants, she says. Miss Norton says her friendship for young Whitney is unchanged.

A CLEAN MOUTH

By ARTHUR M. HUNTER, D. D. S.

A FEW years ago Dr. Mayo, one of America's foremost surgeons, said that the next step in preventive medicine must be made by the dentists. In line with this prophecy, the new campaign for mouth hygiene aims to teach three things:

1. How much damage is done to the general health of the body by an unclean mouth, with teeth badly broken down, large cavities or inflamed gums.
 2. Proper methods of correcting mouth diseases.
 3. How to prevent dental disease.
- Very few persons realize that the three vital sources of life, food, water, and air, are affected by mouth conditions. No one can live without these three things. The Government spends enormous sums to insure the cleanliness of food and water. Housewives see that cooking utensils, china and cutlery are washed so that the food may be served clean. All the details of bringing pure food to the mouth are carefully looked after, but when it passes the lips the food is abandoned and left to its fate, for most mouths are unclean, and food, however clean before, becomes quickly contaminated after it passes the lips.

How can the mouth best be kept clean and dental decay prevented? Here are four practical suggestions:

1. Have the mouth put in good condition by a good dentist. Go to the best man that you can find. It is economy of health and pocketbook to go to him often. Three or four times a year should be the minimum.
2. X-Ray examinations of the teeth should be made to ascertain the condition of root-fillings, and the condition of bone surrounding the root-end of the teeth, for it is these areas that may cause systemic disturbances which will lower resistance to disease. All teeth with the pulps removed (nerves killed) must be held as suspicious characters until proven innocent. The lack of pain is not a safe sign of no infection. There may be a "blind" abscess, which only the X-Ray can discover.
3. Get your dentist to give you minute directions as to the proper way to perform your mouth toilet. It is necessary to spend at least three minutes every night and every morning brushing your gums and teeth, in order to properly cleanse them. That amount of time and energy will give you big dividends in good health. Remember a clean tooth will not decay, and a clean mouth will not pollute the food.

Stop the use of free sugar because sugar will cause the decay of teeth more than any other one thing. Nature never intended that we should use sugar in a concentrated form, but preferred to give it to us in its natural state; namely, in fruits and vegetables.

I would like to paraphrase that well known quotation from Robert Burns, "Oh, would the gift the good God give us to see our mouths as the dentist sees them." The dentist not only sees the unclean mouth with inflamed gums, but he sees the long chain of events, namely, an unclean mouth, small cavities, large cavities, pollution of food with digestive disturbances, death of the tooth pulp, abscesses at the end of the root, absorption of the poison, lowered resistance against disease, and finally broken down health.

The late Professor Oster, who held a place at the head of the profession of medicine, said: "You have one doctrine to preach, and you have to preach it early and late, in season and out of season. It is the gospel of cleanliness of the mouth, cleanliness of the teeth, cleanliness of the throat. These three things must be your text through life. Oral hygiene—the hygiene of the mouth—not one single thing is more important to the public in the whole range of hygiene than that."

A Junior White House At Washington

This structure is to be the official home of our vice-presidents, according to Washington reports. Vice-presidents have never been furnished with quarters. Mrs. Calvin Coolidge is said to have already inspected this home which is now nearing completion.
