

WASHINGTON COMMENT.

Not infrequently the proponent of a vigorous Americanization program is answered with "Oh, what's the use? A few foreigners, more or less, who don't understand us, won't hurt!" There are plenty of patriotic and sentimental reasons why "a few more or less" will hurt and hurt badly. And there are as many practical reasons. Bolshevism, Red propaganda, Sovietism of all kinds, are not spread in America by Americans, but by foreigners. Short of deporting all foreigners, which is unthinkable in peace times, there is no other plan save that of Americanization, which will keep this the America of Americans instead of a try-out station for wild communistic and anarchistic schemes. An instance of the need of greater vigilance in Americanization work is at hand in the funny reports printed. If all German, French, Austrian and Polish children in this country knew of their own knowledge, from proper Americanization education, the facts about this country, it is hardly possible that their parents and grandparents, in writing to Europe, could fail to give a true, rather than a false picture of political conditions in this country. It may be argued that it doesn't make any difference if Germany is told by her newspapers a sea of untruths about our domestic elections, but that is not the point. Misrepresentation and misunderstanding of one country by another, interfere with trade, cause friction, and sometimes war, and prevent the spread of culture and education, and thus of civilization.
