How's this—The other morning when most Toledoites were bundled up in their warmest we beheld a sight that made us ashamed of our heavy overcoats and anti-B. V. D's. Three boys were on their way to school—one of them, coatless, with his sleeves rolled up, as if Old Sol was beaming forth in all his glory, seemed to be enjoying life as only a "kid" can and, to top it all off, he was eating an ice cream cone.

A recent arrival from South Dakota stated, when asked how he left that country, "20 below and the thermometer still going down." Our 20 above weather seems like the good old summer time to him.
