

STATE NEWS.

Prineville, Wasco Co. is said to be the champion gambling town of Eastern Oregon.

A rum-mania went howling through the streets of Salem one night, frightening the women and was arrested and kept in limbo until sober.

On Sunday last, says the Statesman, D. W. Jones while looking for a squirrel which he had treed accidentally fell, discharging his gun. A boy named Higgins standing near received the shot in his right leg, inflicting quite a severe wound.

The Jacksonville Times states that Robt. Curry living three miles above Bybee's ferry on Ragne River, while setting out trees the other day found the skeleton of a man a few inches below the surface. Nothing could be found by which to identify him.

Letter from Weston, Umatilla county: The weather is delightful; the farmers are plowing and sowing grain; cattle and horses on the range are fat. It is estimated that there will be 15,000 acres of new land broken this season, in this part of the country.

There seems to be a determination upon the part of all Saloon-keepers to keep minors out of their places of business. We are pleased to note this movement.

A prisoner at the State penitentiary named W. H. Sowell, while running a circular saw, a short time ago, lost four fingers of his right hand.

GENERAL NEWS.

(Condensed from Oregonian and O.R. Dispatches.)

London, Jan. 21.—A special from Shumla says smallpox has broken out there and in the surrounding villages. A number of refugees are arriving there from Bedrova and Osman Bazar, and many die on the road from cold and hunger.

London, Jan. 20.—Cleopatra's obelisk passed Margate this afternoon, and is expected in the Thames at midnight.

London, Jan. 22.—A dispatch from Constantinople announces the entry of Russians into Adrianople. The Austrian consul here telegraphed last night that the town was tranquil. No news of armistice negotiations.

Constantinople, Jan. 21.—The Turkish peace plenipotentiaries telegraphed the Port, announcing their arrival at Kezanlik, Sunday night.

A Simnitsa dispatch says the Danube is completely frozen over and transport wagons are now crossing freely on the ice.

FROM BIG MEADOWS.—On last Tuesday, Mr. L. Gates, one of Henry Rosenbrook's partners in a mine near Big Meadows, arrived in our city direct from the mine. Mr. Gates reports times lively about their camp. They find no trouble in making $350 to the hand on their claim. He says there are about two feet of snow on the Cold Spring mountains, over which the trail runs. A man's body was found by some miners traveling down the river not many days since. It had evidently received some very rough usage, for the skull was fractured in a terrible manner, and some of the limbs were broken. The body, when found, was perfectly nude, except that there was a belt around the waist. One leg had been caught in some willows near the bank, and there it hung almost a shapeless skeleton. It had evidently been in the water many days. Nothing is known of who it was. We understand, however, that a man was washed through the flame at Galice Creek about two months since and never found. Probably this is the body of the same man. In going through the flame he would have fallen in one place, fifty feet through a shaft, and this would account for the fractures and bruises. The body was decently buried.

Tyndall and Huxley have a vocabulary of their own; When they were sitting together on the Matterhorn, one day, the following conversation took place:

Huxley—"How is your molecular action this morning?"

"Thank you kindly," said Tyndall, "my bioplasts are pretty active just now. How is it with your own atoms?"

"Ah, my dearest friend, they are in a state of unstable equilibrium, and I must confess that the definite combination of heterogeneous changes, both simultaneous and successive, is not in correspondence with external coexistencies and sequence."

Tyndall simply replied with a sigh, and then they both sat down on another bit of ice.
