

THE ASHLAND TIDINGS.
FRIDAY.....MAY 10, 1878

LETTERS FROM MILTON.

BONANZA OR. April 25.
Rev. Mayfield paid a flying visit to this place a day or two ago.

The weather is warm now and the mosquitoes are presenting their bills.

The new bridge at Bonanza will be completed to-day, which will be a great help to this place.

Handy & Roberts are rushing their new store; they will have plenty of ideas which they propose to sell cheap for cash.

The saw mill at Bonanza is now owned by Mr. Gordon. Mr. G. is an experienced mill man and will no doubt change the looks of things in a year or two.

The new saw mill at Ball Mountain is a failure. There is plenty of timber, a good fall, but no water. They talk of moving it to some place on the Columbia river.

Ranches are still being taken in this vicinity. Three of the Ashland boys have located near here. They are pleased with the country, but think their girls are too far away. They are building houses and will ere long expect to bring their darlings home.

MILTON.

IMPORTANT LAND DECISION.

Washington, April 29.—The secretary of the interior has just rendered an important decision in the case of Sullivan et al. vs. Walter Osmer et al. involving title to certain lands formerly within the limits of the Stockton and Copperopolis railroad grant, and establishing a precedent which substantially decides forty or fifty similar cases now before the department, on appeal from various parts of California. This railroad grant was declared forfeited by congress in June, 1874, and the lands were restored to pre-emption and homestead entry September 4th. Prior to September 4th the parties executed declaratory statements dated ahead and alleging settlement as of September 4th, and left these papers with the register of the land office to be filed on that day. They procured lumber and teams and started for the lands, arriving there at sunrise, and commenced to build houses before 12 o'clock, noon. The general land office, in successive decisions, held these filings valid. Secretary Schurz now reverses these decisions. He holds that the declaratory statements were executed before settlement; that the executive order of restoration prohibited the local office from allowing any filings on entries prior to the day of restoration, and that its action in receiving declaratory statements prior to that time, and afterwards placing them on record, was contrary not only to the spirit and intent of instructions, but to the just and proper administration of the law of congress. Schurz emphasizes his opinion by the following language:

These officers have no authority to receive applications to file or enter lands which are in the seat of the restoration, and hold such filings until the restoration is removed, and then place them on record in order to advance the interests of any individual. Such an act of favoritism is contrary to the proper administration of the public land system and cannot receive the sanction of the department.

THE EASTERN PUZZLE.

The Oriental riddle over which European diplomats are now racking their brains is apparently no nearer a solution than it was at the end of hostilities between Russia and Turkey. The news transmitted by cable is so conflicting as to make it utterly impossible to form a clear opinion on the subject. The English and Russian press evidently place no confidence in the reported argument upon a simultaneous withdrawal of the land and naval forces around Constantinople, and the expression of hope that the Congress will yet meet comes from Vienna. The chief difficulty only in the way of an agreement seems to be the locality to which each Power is to retire, and it cannot be denied that with the fleet at Besika Bay, England would have the advantage of Russia in a possible race race for the Bosphorus, should the Grand Duke's troops retire to Adrianople. — S. F. Chronicle.

A BIG DROVE.

Sixteen thousand head of cattle will be swam across the Columbia river, driven out of Eastern Washington through Idaho, over the Rocky Mountains and to Cheyenne in Wyoming Territory, during the next three months, under the direction of Chancy Gooden, ten thousand head are for Lang & Ryan, and six thousand for Edwards & Edenharter. These men have been buying up all the best stock they could secure in the past six months, and the drove they take out this time will beat anything in that line ever seen on the North Pacific Coast. — Standard.

Why is the letter B like hot fire? Because it makes oil boil.
