An attached couple—Oyster-shells.
Green corn is in season. [Applause by delighted physician. "Ear-ear!"]
Colorado girl, Miss Eulice Stone, always kisses the editor she visits. Oh! Eulice Stone.
A certain California school-ma'am is said to be able to sing hymns like a tenor-voice angel.
Riches will take to themselves wings and fly away, unless you sprinkle the salt of economy on their tails.
It was a Massachusetts tramp who, when caught stealing watermelons, said that he was in favor of greenbacks.
"When is a man a coward?" asked a teacher of mental philosophy.
"When he runs away from a cow," answered a pupil.
The individual who called tight boots comfortable defended his position by saying they made a man to get all his other miseries.

The London Correspondent of the Chicago "Journal" speaks of a lady who has named her carriage horses "Hell" and "Damnation." They must be fiery steeds.
"Is Satan married?" asks an exchange No. He is a stingy, immoral old bachelor, and penning paragraphs about molasses in laws, in order to scare young men away from matrimony.
A disgusted and disconsolate editor thinks that the proper time for a young lady to marry is after she is counted up her cash and found that she can support herself in case her husband should become a newspaper man.

"Being asked, at one of his meetings, whom he meant by 'Graham,' to whom he alluded, Mr. Kearney replied: 'You polluted that and vamped! Graham, or O'Ramus, which was his real name, was was of the old Kings of Ireland!'"
An old Irish soldier who prided himself upon his bravery said he had fought in the battle of "Bull Run." When asked if he had treated and made of his escape others did on that famous occasion, he replied: "Be jabbers, those that didn't run are there yet!"
"You want to brake on this road, do you? Well, you can sit down there. We have no vacancy just at present; but I will kill about two brak-men a day, and I dare say in a few minutes I shall be of some one loyng an arm or leg, and then you can have the job." The man thought he would not wait.
The phrase "I have a bone to pick with you" is traced to its origin: "At the marriage banquet of the Sicilian poet, the bride's father, after the meal used to hand the bridegroom a bone, saying, 'Pick this bone, for you have taken in hand a much harder task!'"
Kearney to the Heathen Chinee: "By the heavens above the stars that are in it; by the moon, that pale empress of the night; by the sun that shines by day; by the earth and all its inhabitants, and by hell beneath us, the Heathen Chinee must go." Heathen Chinee O' Kearney: "You no M'Hean man; dastee you see!"
Horny-handed son of a hod-carrier (top) —"Share all the money equally, that's what I say." Wife of same—"And what would you do with your share, Michael O'Shannessy?" "Spaid it like a brick, ye could see!" "And what would you do then?" "Share it all over agin as course; hand me down that pipe!"
Mr. Troy Dye turns out to have been, at one time, the Superintendent of a Sunday School, a man of exemplary piety and religious life. He then became a butcher, then a saloon keeper, then an office holder, and finally a murderer. His course has been ever onward and upward, Young man begin at the bottom of the ladder.—[Argonaut.]

When people see a tall man at a church social sitting on a low hassock and trying to hold a plate of cake, a saucer of ice cream and a cup of coffee in his lap, they kill their brows and think there is a mistake somewhere, and that a young man's knees should have been made like a beaver's tail flat as a single, eight inches wide and turned at side eye.
This was told of Gilbert White, the naturalist of Selborne, by one of his nephews: His old servant came to him one day and said: "Please sir, I've been and broke a glass." "Broke a glass, Thomas! How did you do that?" "I'll show you sir." So he went and got a wine glass, which he threw on the floor, saying: "That's how I broke it, sir." "There, go along Thomas. You are a great fool," said his master; and then muttered, "And I was as great a fool for asking such a foolish question."
At a matrimonial agency in Paris:
"We have just the thing you want—an orphan of twenty next grass."
"Pretty?"
"No-no, not exactly."
"Worth?"
"Half a million francs, in governments. Then she is consumptive."
"Consumptive, eh? Well, that's always something. Perhaps however, you are only exciting my hopes."
"Sir, the house always guarantees its goods to be as represented."
Rev. Henry Ward Beecher left for the East yesterday morning. And now it is order to call attention to the fact that the much-denounced Colonel Bob Ingersoll before leaving San Francisco gave the proceeds of a well-attended lecture to several charitable institutions, not discriminating against those under the control of religious denominations. Beecher's lectures were undoubtedly a greater pecuniary success than Ingersoll's although the latter drew big houses. But Beecher has given nothing. The ministers will now please rise and explain why so bad a man as Ingersoll could be so charitable, and so eminent a Christian as Beecher forgot all about charity.—[S. F. Call.]

DETROIT, September 20.—A special to the Free Press from East Saginaw says: Sherman City, a small village in Isabella county, Michigan, was annihilated yesterday by a terrible tornado. Every store, dwelling-house and shed in the village was swept clean except one frame dwelling, which was partially destroyed. The air was thick with timber, boards, brick and stone. The inhabitants took refuge in the cellars. Mr. Tryo, his wife little girl and baby were badly injured.

MEMPHIS
MEMPHIS (Tenn.), September 20.—Rain began to fall this morning at 9 o'clock, which is unfavorable both to the sick and those who yet remain well. Up to noon to-day 23 deaths have occurred. This however, is not in full, as it is very difficult to get a correct number, owing to looseness which characterizes the management of two of the undertakers. An increase in the number of deaths will follow the change of weather.

NEW ORLEANS, September 20.—Deaths to-day, 69; new cases, 165; of which 81 were reported prior to the 17th. The weather is cloudy and warm threatening rain. The death list includes 22 children under seven. From noon to 6 P. M. there were 17 deaths and 46 new cases reported. The Board of Health's reports indicate a decrease of the fever in the central portion of the city and an increase in the extreme upper and lower limits. It is stated that of every 21 persons attacked by the fever in the Second District, in the vicinity of the French market 10 have died. Dr. John Carter, an old and successful practitioner of the Fourth District, reports that the fever is spreading in the Fourth and Sixth Districts, above Jackson street.

TRUNDRER AND LIGHTNING.
VICKSBURG, September 20.—The sky was cloudy all day; thermometer, 88. A heavy rain, with lightning, began at 8 o'clock to night, with prospect of a continuance all night. No abatement to-day of new cases of fever. Twelve deaths are reported, ten white and two colored.

A STAMPEDE
NASHVILLE, September 20.—The people of De-catur, Ala., stampeded the town to-day on account of the yellow-fever cases, one of which, Ludwig, a railroad employe, died. All business has been suspended.
GREENVILLE (MISS.)
NEW ORLEANS, September 20.—The following dispatch was received this morning via Vicksburg, having been mailed from some point between that city and Greenville. The wire between these places has been down for some days:
GREENVILLE, September 18, 1878.
Out of 500 people who remained here nearly 100 cases and 162 deaths have occurred up to date. The fever must abate soon for want of material. Twenty-two deaths in last twenty-four hours.

THE MAYOR.
GREENVILLE, September 20.—The following is the record to date: Total cases, 350; total deaths, 133. In the last twenty-four hours there were eighteen deaths. We are out of medicine and ice, and have not been able to get a message through for nine days. We could have got relief but for this.

Tim's Kit.
It surprised the shiners and news boys around the post office the other day to see "Limp Tim" come among them in a quiet way, and to hear him say:
"Boys I want to sell my kit. Here's two brushes, a hull box of blacking, a good stout box, and the outfit goes for two shillin's!"
"Goin' away, Tim?" quired one.
"Not 'xactly, boys, but I want a quarter the awfallest kind just now."
"Goin' on an 'scursion?" asked another.
"Not to-day, but I must have a quarter," he answered.
One of the lads passed over the change and took the kit, and Tim walked straight to the counting-room of a daily paper, put down his money, and said:
"I guess I kin write it if you'll give me a pencil."
With slow-moving fingers he wrote a death notice. It went into the paper almost as he wrote it, but you might not have seen it. He wrote:
Died—Lital—Ted—of scarlet fever; aged three years. Funeral to-morrow, gone up to Hevin; left was brother.
"Was it your brother?" asked the cashier.
Tim tried to brace up, but he couldn't. The big tears came up, Litchin quivered, and he pointed to the notice on the counter and gasped:
"I—I had to sell my kit to do it, but he had his arms around my neck when he d—died!"
He hurried away home, but the news went to the boys, and they gathered in a group and talked. Tim had not been home an hour before a barefooted boy left the kit on the doorstep, and in the box was a bouquet of flowers, which had been purchased in the market by pennies contributed by the crowd of ragged but big hearted urchins. Did God ever make a heart which would not respond if the right chord was touched?—Detroit Free Press.

Washington's great grandniece, Mrs. Fanny Washington Smith, is keeping a boarding house in Washington, D. C. and recently had her furniture attached by her landlord for rent.
A man never knows what real agony there is in small parcels till he gets married and has a tooting baby howl all night in the room with him.

Few schools are even aware of the great change through which the English language has passed in successive centuries. Following are specimens of the Lord's Prayer as used at various periods in English history:

A. D. 1158.—Fader ur in heuene. halewede beith the reane, canin thi kunnerriche, thi will beoth idon in heuene and in erthe. The euren dawe brid, gif ou thilk dawe. And vorzuer detes as we vorfene ure deteburs. And leno us nouht in temptation, but delvour ens of evil. Amen.

A. D. 1300.—Fadir ure in heuene. Halewyd be thi name, thi kingdom come, thi will be don as in heuene and in erthe. Our erche days bred give us to-daye. And forgive our detebours. And lead us not in temptation, bute delvour us of yvel. Amen.

A. D. 1370.—Oure fadir that art in heuene hallowid be thi name, thi kingdom come, be thi wille done in erthe as in heuene, gere to us this day oure bred our othe substance forgerne to us our dettes as we forgaun to oure detebours, lele not in temptation; but delvour us of evil. Amen.

A. D. 1542.—O ure father which art in heven hallowid be thy name. Let thy kingdom come. Thy will be fulfilled as well in earth as it is in heven. Give us this daye oure daily bread. And forgive us our trespasses even as we forgive our trespasses. And lead us not into temptation but deliver us from vell. For thine is the kingdom and the power and the glory forever. Amen.

A. D. 1581.—Our father which art in heaven sanctified be thy name. Let thy kingdom come. Thy will be done as in heaven, in earth also. Give us to-day our super-natural bread. And forgive our dettes. And lead us not into temptation. But deliver us from evil. Amen.

A. D. 1611.—Our father which art in heaven, hallowid be the name. The kingdom come. Thy will be done in earth as it is in heaven. Give us this day dayly bread. And forgive us our debts as we forgive our debtors. And lead us not into temptation but deliver us from evil. For thine is the kingdom, and the power, and the glory for ever. Amen.

The above is worthy of preservation. It shows very vividly how the English language, as we now have it, has changed and grown in 700 years, and it has reached its present form and shape. All living languages are subject to such slow change—hardly noticed by one generation of men, but plain enough when we institute a comparison between distant times. The English language is not yet perfect, and will probably undergo as great changes in the future yet, as in the past.
