

FRIDAY, DECEMBER 1, 1880.
NORMAN SCHOOLS.

At the recent session of the State Teachers' Institute the committee on school law amendments brought up the question of normal training in the state in a report which recommended that the state make appropriations for the appointment of two normal professors...

The question of the special training of teachers for the work of education is the most important that is presented in the whole range of public school economy...

The late famine in China was awful beyond conception. Mr. Forrest, British Consul at Trenton, says the deaths from starvation reached a total of nine and one-half millions...

At a soldiers' reunion at Cambridge, Ohio, last week, General Ewing discussed the State Rights theory. He blamed the South for the radical views upon it...

We take the following from the Oregonian: For a few days past the weather in the Willamette valley has been all that could be wished by the farmers...

Census day will be June 1, 1880. On that date about twenty thousand enumerators will commence their labors...

Says the Boston Post: Everything seems to be "going again" the poor Greckbackers. Crops are abundant, business is in a hopeful condition...

SHERMAN DEFENDS HIS POLICY.

A press dispatch dated Cincinnati, Aug. 27th, is as follows: "Secretary Sherman visited the Merchants' Exchange to-day, and made a speech, explaining his action in extending the time for the payment by the National Bank of the proceeds of the sales of 4 per cents. He was fully convinced that this action had prevented a serious injury to business and the refunding operations have uniformly been conducted with the purpose of interfering as little as possible with the money market...
