The New York Tribune tells of a revolution in the methods of education in the primary schools of Quincy, Mass., which has produced results eminently satisfactory and developed a system of elementary school training greatly superior to the "cramming, veneering" system common in American schools. Some of the school board being men of advanced ideas, employed a superintendent who had studied the science of teaching as men study the science of law, medicine or political economy, and his plans required essentially the abolition of the regular, orthodox, parrot-training system. The alphabet was no longer taught. The little ones, surrounding their teacher at the blackboard, learned to read as they had learned to speak, by practice. The complete official returns of the vote in Ohio show that Foster beat Ewing by 17,129 votes, and had a clear majority over the three other tickets in the field, Prohibitionist, Greenback and Democratic, of 3,855. Last year the Republicans were in a minority of 35,000. In the present legislature there are 93 Democrats and 48 Republicans; in the legislature just elected the Republicans have a majority on joint ballot and a clear working majority in each house.

The women and children of the At White River Agency, held as prisoners by the Utes, have been surrendered to Special Agent Adams. The women were saved from insult and injury by Douglas, head chief of the White River Utes, of whose efforts to prevent the murders and the destruction of the agency Mrs. Meeker speaks in high terms of praise.
