LETTER FROM FLORIDA.

MELBOURNE, Fla., April 15, 1886.

Editor Tidings:—I write from the famous Indian River country, a region which enjoys the reputation of producing the finest oranges grown in Florida, and that probably makes the finest oranges grown in the world, as Florida oranges seem to hold their own with the best of those grown in other countries.

At the spring exhibit of fruits held in Jacksonville a couple of weeks since there were on exhibition on one table oranges from California, Nasosa, Messina, Valencia, Jamaica and Florida. A separate pile of each variety was prepared by the managers without any comment from the exhibitors.

Although the "big freeze" of January 10 will not be long forgotten, and although the state, its injury to the orange-growers was confined to the loss of the season's crop, or so much of it as had not been picked. The trees are now all clad in fresh leaves, even the orange stock having most of it escaped unhurt.

The weather since our arrival two weeks since has been exceedingly comfortable. We have plenty of breezes, but there is nothing chilly about them, and there is nothing but a fine exception for cooking purposes.

The Portland Oregonian having published something which annoyed Lord Douglas, that excellent nobleman asked what he was going to do about it.

Lord Douglas glanced at the Oregonian editorial and said: "That article ever had in his life, but he is not to be taken into consideration in this case. I have just sent a dispatch that cost over $18 to the editor of that paper, demanding that he make an immediate retraction. I expect to receive an answer promptly and then I will know how to act in the matter."

Lord Douglas arose from his chair and he paced the room anxiously: "I will take the next steamer for Oregon and seek an answer at the Oregonian in his office. I will then demand an apology, and if he refuses to give it, I will start in and give him the best flogging he ever had in his life."

Harvey Scott, the editor of the Oregonian, is a man about forty-years of age, weighs 180 pounds, stands five feet six inches high, and is justly regarded as one of the best men in the State of Oregon. His strength is not in his arms, but in his mind.

Why the Boys Leave the Farm. "Why do the boys leave the farm?" asked a well-known agricultural journal. Well, dear brother, there are several reasons. One is because the boy is not 60 years old at his birth. Then, if there is any one who has not taken the change in the money of those days is perhaps as important to poor people as any.

Look at Goldendale. A prominent resident of North Yakima, who has returned from the city, says: "I saw a prospectus for a town with gold, silver, and copper. I went to see it, and found it was a town with gold, silver, and copper. I went to see it, and found it was a town with gold, silver, and copper."

Costly Catalogues. Catalogues are increasing in cost, beauty and extravagance. One New York silver house is paying out $100,000 for an edition of 7,000 copies to contain 400 pages, or 4,000 words, with steel engravings, photographs, and lithographic sketches. This book weighs fourteen pounds.

Sam Jones and the Lawyers. Sometimes I've asked everybody that never told a lie to stand up. Every fellow was looking around to see if anybody was going to get up. If any body had got up I'd a given him the floor and sat down. If you'd all stop lying you'd save the lawyer to death.

JAY GOULD.

Senator VanWye's opinion of Jay Gould and his faults, delivered in the U. S. Senate recently. He says: "The senatorial committee on education had obtained from that worthy a complete history of his life, probably for the purpose of America to imitate. The committee had tremulously and hesitatingly asked him to give a minute account of his dating operations, and he consented. Early in life, when half-paired for dinner, he adopted his sister's method, and went to bed, and the next morning he was up, and in a few years the tanning business in which he was engaged was in a financial straits so overwhelming that his partner had to get up to see to it."

Do you know that in fourteen years you will write 1930, and will have jumped into the 20th century? How full of strange events and how grand is the history of the last century! Away back in the early part of it steamboats and railroads and telegraphs were unknown. Now the world is full of them and you not only can talk across the ocean, but you can talk with your friends at home while you are traveling on a railroad train at the rate of sixty miles an hour.

CRUELTY TO CHILDREN.

Governor Pattison of Pennsylvania recently completed an investigation of the orphan schools of that State, and his report shows that the bounty of the state has been misused by speculators and that the children have fared worse in these schools than they would if left to the tender mercies of strangers.

In a fierce gale off Cape Hatteras a schooner was saved by towing bags of oil astern for two days. Hoboken, N. J., has a Mayor who was first elected upon a Democratic ticket and next on an Independent ticket, and now the Republicans have nominated him for a third term.

The people of Atlanta, Ga., amok $26,000 in an artesian well 2,000 feet deep, only to learn from a professor of the State University that the city stood on granite rock, and the shock of the contentment.—[Chicago Times.]

The work of the immense clock which has been put up in the Board of Trade building in Chicago, is pronounced a most perfect reproduction of that of the great Westminster Palace clock in London, but with some additional and improved features.

In New York last year there were 35,696 deaths, 30,030 births and 11,716 marriages, as against in the preceding year, 33,854 deaths, 29,527 births and 11,805 marriages. Thus the death list increased 662, and the number of births fell off 497, due possibly to the sudden cessation of foreign immigration.—[N. Y. Tribune.]

Final preparations are now making at Philadelphia for an expedition to Vagu, Spain, in search of the Spanish treasure galleon sunk in the bay in 1702. An engineer, who visited the spot last summer, declares that he has positively located eleven of the sunken treasure galleons, and in a diver's net, went down upon the decks of several of them, which were lying at the bottom of the bay in a very shallow water. He also picked up coins from the deck, and iron balls, mementoes of the sea fight of 183 years ago.—[Philadelphia Press.]
