low lever, yet there is a disease con-stantly at our doors and in our houses far more dangerous and destructive. Most people have in their own stom-achs a poison, more slow, but quite as fatal as the germs of those maladies which sween men into storming by fatal as the germs of those maladies which sweep men into eternity by thousands without warning in the times of great epidemics. But it is a mercy that, if we are watchful, we can tell when we are threatened. The fullowing are among the symptotes can tell when we are threatened. The following are among the symptoms, yet they do not always necessarily ap-pear in the same order, nor are they always the same in different cases. There is a dull and sleepy feeling; a bad taste in the mouth, especially in the morning; the appetite is change-able, sometimes poor and again it seems as though the patient could not eat enough, and occasionally no appe-tite at all; dullness and sluggishness of the mind; no ambition to study or work; more or less headache and heav-iness in the head; dizziness on rising to the feet or moving suddenly; furred and coated tongue; a sense of a load on the stomach that nothing removes; hot and dry skin at times; yellow tinge in the eyes; scanty and high-colored urine; sour taste in the mouth, frequently attended by palpitation of colored urine; sour taste in the mouth, frequently attended by palpitation of the heart; impaired vision, with spots that seem to be swimming in the air before the eyes; a cough, with a greenish-colored expectoration; poor nights' rest; a sticky slime about the teeth and gums; hands and feet cold and clammy; irritable temper and bowels bound up and costive. This disease has puzzled the physicians and still puzzles them. It is the common-est of ailments and yet the most com-plicated and mysterious. Sometimes it plicated and mysterious. Sometimes it their alliance with vice is inevitable, plicated and mysterious. Sometimes it is treated as consumption, sometimes as liver complaint, and then again as malaria and even heart disease. But its real nature is that of constipation and dyspepsia. It arises in the diges-tive organs and soon affects all the tive organs and soon affects all the er is dependent on the latter. The surplus in our national treasury others through the corrupted and pois-oned blood. Often the whole bodynow amounts to not far from $100,-000,000 every year. Our national debt can only be paid as fast as our bonds including the nervous system-is literally starved, even when there is no

Whenever, during the last fateful days, there occurred, by day or night, an interval between appropriation bills and conference committee reports, from fifty to a hundred members from fifty to a hundred members sprang at once to their feet, rushed in-to the space before the Speaker's desk, with upturned faces and uplifted arms, waving bills in the air, beseechingly shouted, "Mr Speaker! Mr. Speaker!" The fortunate man with a bill which the Speaker approved was recommend the Speaker approved, was recognized, Thus a few measures became law, but not the Educational bill. It is only biding its time. One of the worst enemies in the House said, "The tide has risen so high for it here that if the session had been a little longer it would have passed in spite of us. I suppose it will go in the next Congress if you folks keep at it." He was right; the stifling process could not succeed in a long session, and we shall "keep at it." This great and we shall "keep at it." This great nation from its surplus wealth should provide education for its otherwise neglected children. The patriotic, child-loving, God-fearing womanhood of America has espoused the cause, and they know no defeat. Their campaign for it in the last Congress, in arousing public sentiment, in clearing away the mist of mistaken ideas and in remov-ing prejudice, was victory at every step—essential to the culminating act of triumph in the Fiftieth Congress.— [A W. George W. Peck at the President's Reception. (Peck's Sun.)

I had thought of several things I wanted to say to Mr. Cleveland. Sev-eral of the boys in Milwaukee had told me give their love to Grover if I saw him, and I intended that the few remarks I should make would be the greatest effort of my life. My idea was to wait till all the gang had passed him, and then bring up the rear, and when he took my hand I would hold on to it and speak about as follows: "Mr. President, I cannot let this co-casion pass without saving to you that "Mr. President, I cannot let this oc-casion pass without saying to you that the people of Wisconsin are very proud that you have got along as well as you have." Oh, I had a speech as long as your arm that I was going to fire at him, and I fell in the crowd and went along. A big hand was reached out, and mine was clasped by the president. At last I had his hand. I had my head down to keen me from stamping head down, to keep me from stepping head down, to keep me from stepping on the trail of a woman ahead of me, who seemed to linger longer than was necessary. As her trail disappeared I was just going to look up to say my speech, when he let go my hand and reached for another fellow just behind me, and the other fellow stepped on a stone hruise on my heal the only stone

MR. JOHN W. FURBUSH, An Army Veteran,

OF WAKEFIELD, Who has probably suffered more than any man or woman in America to-day. Taken slock while in the Army, he has endured untold agonies since. Describing his first symptoms he said: "My head ached and my appetite was poor. I felt a faintness at the pit of the stomach, and bad taste in my mouth, while my skin was sometimes hot and sometimes cold. I next felt pains in my body, and noticed a peculiar odor and color in the water I passed, which was scanty atone time and free at others. Some-times it pained me to void it, and again it was atomest impossible to do so at all. Fri-nally I began to pass clear blood accom-mended Mr. Furbush at various times, but not one of them could help him. He was near death's door. And yet he says: "I am all y ower of Hunt's Hemedy which wonderiul ower of Hunt's Hemedy which to a me from the verge of the grave."
