

ASHLAND TIDINGS.

FRIDAY, APRIL 27, 1888. REPUBLICAN STATE TICKET.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND NEWS.

Carlisle says Cleveland wants to find a western man for the vacant Chief Justice's chair.

John P. Irish has had dates arranged for his canvass of Oregon, but the appointments have not yet been made public.

General Crook will be assigned to the command of the division of the Missouri, and General Howard will remain at San Francisco.

W. H. Barnum, chairman of the Democratic national committee, will yield that place to W. L. Scott of Pennsylvania, in accordance with Cleveland's wishes.

Since his retirement from politics Coakley is credited with having made large sums of money in his own practice, and his income has been estimated at $100,000 a year, yet his estate is small, less than his estimated yearly income, it is reported.

Representative Anderson, of Iowa, introduced the other day a bill providing for the forfeiture of the Union Pacific to the government, and directing the attorney general to institute proceedings against the stockholders to recover money fraudulently withheld from the government.

"In union there is strength" is an old maxim which is appreciated by the Democrats and Prohibitionists. It is announced that Geary and Miller Democratic and Prohibition candidates respectively for Congress, will travel together in this campaign in their mutual effort to defeat the Republican nominee.

The attitude of the Democratic politicians and Democratic journals of Oregon is well expressed in the remark of a prominent member of the party in Jackson county on the subject. He said "We are not in favor of prohibition, but we believe in encouraging the prohibition party."

Congressman Herriman was warmly congratulated upon his re-nomination by the Pacific Coast delegation in Washington. Mr. Herriman is recognized as one of the most energetic and earnest members from the Pacific slope, and the determination of Oregon to retain in her service so valuable a representative in the House is remarked as judicious and wise.

"Free trade is not the question. The democratic party is not for free trade." So says a democratic paper of Oregon. But the democratic party is for free trade in wool, lumber, fruits, metals, and pretty much everything else that Oregon produces. Still it is "not a free trade party" at all. It is for protection of Southern sugar and Eastern manufactured goods.—[Oregonian.]

A. S. Hammond, who was nominated upon the Republican ticket for district attorney of the First Judicial District, declines to be a candidate. The nomination was made by the district delegation without his knowledge or consent, in the hope that he could be induced to make the race, but Mr. Hammond's decision was made by the district delegation before he had received any notice of the nomination. The Times regrets that Mr. Hammond will not permit his name to go upon the ticket.

The Chinese have already made preparations to evade the Anti-Chinese treaty in the case of its passing. A "bureau of convenience" will be started to accommodate Chinamen who wish to return to the United States who have neither wife nor $1000 worth of property here. The bureau will furnish them with temporary wives and $1000 worth of property for a consideration, and thus enable them to comply with the requirements of the law.—[Philadelphia Times.]

Senator Stanford said to a Washington reporter the other day: "I fear that our friends in California are talking of me as a candidate for the Republican nomination for President. I am very glad to see in print all the kind things they may see fit to say of me, but I do not wish it to be announced that I am a candidate, for I am assuredly not. I do not mean to say that I would not be glad to do the thing if it were tendered me, but I am not seeking it, and have no expectation that it will be offered."

Seeing the damage from extensive droughts in other states, Oregonians occasionally become alarmed over a continued dry spell here, but the trouble ends with alarm. The term, "land of never-failing crops," can not be so truthfully applied to any other part of the continent as to Oregon. In other states crops have in some years almost or quite totally failed in large districts. In Oregon this has never been. The rains manage to arrive every year in time and quantity needed. Oregon is a grand state, and this is one of her greatest features. Keep it always in view.

In undertaking to say something complimentary of a Democratic candidate in Lane county last week, the party organ in this county called him a "stick"—a "stick of timber." It is generally considered especially pleasing to be called a "wooden man," but the Times editor has no doubt been thinking that any kind of a stick put upon the Democratic ticket in this county will get an office, and in his far reaching "fit" for the party he forgot that he was stepping over the county lines. Perhaps he may find that the ticket will not bear too much wind-shaken or rotten timber even in Jackson county this year.

WHAT KIND OF A TICKET?

During the past week office seekers and politicians have been actively laying plans to manipulate the primaries to be held tomorrow.

It is a question of great importance in Jackson county whether the better element of the party should have more special men than obtain control in the conventions which are to make the tickets to be submitted to the voters of the county next June.

General Crook will be assigned to the command of the division of the Missouri, and General Howard will remain at San Francisco.

W. H. Barnum, chairman of the Democratic national committee, will yield that place to W. L. Scott of Pennsylvania, in accordance with Cleveland's wishes.

ANOTHER CIRCULAR.

The activity of Cleveland's conspicuous friends in making his civil service reform gospel a "dead letter" is very offensive to the able magnum opus of the strength of their faith that he was too much of a gentleman in politics to make a promise to their ear and then break it to their hope.

The Linkville public school which commences the 25th of this month, will be well patronized by W. T. Bateaux of Callahan, and Miss Mary Verlage.

George are congregating in the valley by the thousands. In the course of a week the atmosphere will be full of them taking their leave northward. Numbers are making ready for the occasion.

R. S. Moore, county surveyor, will, on Monday next, commence the survey for a second ditch, to extend from Upper Klammath lake to the ranch of Thomas D. Carr, and if, after the survey is made, it is found to be practicable, Mr. Carr will immediately commence work thereon.

A stage route is to be established from Montague, via Ball's, through the Linkville valley, to Reno. We understand stages will be running shortly. The people along the route have long since been in need of mail facilities, and the invention for Blaine, with the expectation that if he refuse the nomination his declination cannot be considered as not a candidate.

One of the most intimate friends of Blaine said to-day that he did not think the candidates for the Presidential nomination ought to be deterred from entering an organization for themselves on account of Blaine. He ought to be taken at his word and should be considered as not a candidate.

Speckles will begin the construction of his sugar refinery in Philadelphia this week. If Phelps should be appointed Chief Justice, Lowell might succeed him as Minister to England.

Geo. H. Paulleton, American Minister to Germany, had a slight stroke of apoplexy while traveling from Berlin to Frankfurt on Monday last. He had about recovered at last report.

The Atlanta Constitution says that when President Cleveland and his wife returned from the Southern trip, Senator Colquhoun asked them what they thought of the South. The President said: "She is solid," and Mrs. Cleveland replied: "Keep her so."

St. Louis Globe Democrat (Rep.): Judge Thurman would make a wise and upright Chief Justice, but it is objected that he is too old. The "old Roman" has been too old for any office, by the way, ever since the present administration took charge of things, but his age does not incapacitate him from rendering good service as a prosector of Democratic election corruptionists.

Says a Washington dispatch of April 20: To-day was the one hundredth day of the present session. The total number of bills reported in the House to date is 12,568, exceeding by more than 200 the total number introduced in the first 100 days of the last Congress. So far the House has passed 425 bills and the Senate 185. House bills and 24 Senate bills have been sent to the President for his approval.

Deaths of Dexter. Dexter, the famous trotter, died this morning at the residence of Robert Bonner, in this city. He died of old age and exhaustion. Dexter was the greatest trotter of his day. The first horse to trot a mile in 2:17 1/2, and for a long period that remained the best time on record.

NEIGHBORING COUNTIES.

The steamboat is expected to arrive in Linkville from Reno Monday. It will be finished by the 25th.

Pluma postoffice was moved first of the month to the ranch of O. A. Stearns, who is postmaster.

The Linkville public school which commences the 25th of this month, will be well patronized by W. T. Bateaux of Callahan, and Miss Mary Verlage.
