HOME COMFORT RANGE.

By reason of its admirable adaptability to the kitchen of private families, this one Range has endeared itself to the hearts of over 75,000 good housewives of the American Union, Canada and Mexico. It is constructed of mallable iron and cold rolled wrought steel which render it practically indestructible; has four eight inch holes, a top mantle or closet shelf side, extension shelf and flue lined with asbestos (a peculiar mineral substance on which fire has no effect whatever) has hanging fire lining, protected from burning by being surrounded by a current of cold air from the outside, our own design dump grate and baled ash pan. The oven door drops to a horizontal position, projecting from the bottom of oven, and is braced so perfectly that no extraordinary jar or pressure will break or injure it. The oven is fastened to body of range by heavy angle trons, forming rear and oven door frames. By reason of its admirable adaptability fastened to body of range by heavy angle brons, forming rear and oven door frames. Top-plate is fastened to the body by heavy lugs, and bottom of oven is braced by heavy channel bars, preventing it from warping or twisting. In conclusion, we suggest that the testimony of the thousands bear us out in asserting that the series of "Home Comfort" manufactured by us are the BEST cooking apparatus ever placed on any market.

The following are testimonials of a few of the many residents of southern Oregon who are at present using Home Comfort Ranges: was visiting Ashland friends several days last week.

A. L. Willey has been on the sick list, but is able to attend to business again this week.

C. F. Blake came in from his Dead Indian ranch last week, and spent several days in town.

the many residents of southern Oregon whe are at present using Home Confort Ranges. The above Range after a practical trial proves par excellence in ever respect. The boss baker; plenty of hot water all the time does its work with less fuel than any range or stove I have ever used; easily manipulated; gives the very best satisfaction; truly a valuable acquisition for the kitchen. Ladies and cooks, don't be afraid to use it.
