Myer, of Ashland, is a lady well known and highly esteemed in Linn county, and the ceremony was witnessed by her many friends. Mr. Myer will be ready to congratulate him upon the union, and wish for him and his bride many years of happy wedded life.

The Railroad Commissioners.
Hon. G. W. Colvig, of the railroad commission (legislative board) spent yesterday with the many members of the commission. Mr. Colvig states that the commission proposed will be held in Medford, Oregon, on the 27th of April. The district judge has passed upon the question, the losing party will carry it to the supreme court without waiting the usual time allowed for making appeals. This is in agreement between the contestants, all of them being anxious to know whether they hold their positions lawfully.—(Umpqua Herald.)

An Exciting Runaway.
The most exciting runaway of the season happened yesterday afternoon. A team of horses, owned by the driver, was driven by Andy Conway, was leaving town with a heavy wagon, when the driver started on the run about the railroad crossing. The driver was thrown out on his face, and the wagon passed over his back. The horses circled through the streets and started back Main street into town. Dashing down the hill at a terrific speed they ran directly into the front of the Wood Mills office in Masonic hall. The end of the tongue struck one of the brick columns and almost tore it two, but through the miracle of fate without giving either of them a scratch, or breaking anything about the harness or rigging, the wagon was work each side of the brick pier was shattered. The driver was not seriously hurt.

The Cannery Matter.
A number of letters from the people who want to go into the cannery business have been received by the publisher and other citizens of Ashland. Most of the writers say they have a stock of produce which they wish to combine with capital furnished by the people here in starting the cannery. Some of the writers have been subscribed by other citizens upon the basis of a $100.00 plan to be put in by responsible parties. Getchell & Miller, who first made the offer to put in a cannery if such a bonus could be had, have not yet come to the city, but are corresponding with citizens who have the matter in hand. If they, or any other party, should be successful in negotiating at once, it would be best to try the plan of a stock company, and not to wait until a competent man to manage the business for the first year. A cannery is needed, and should be started as early as possible. If anything is to be done this season, a beginning must be made at once.

Funeral of Mrs. Ewing.
The funeral of Mrs. Ewing, who died on Monday, will be held at the residence of her mother, who has been left in her home a week or two before, and who reached home to find her dead. The casket was taken from the train to the residence of J. E. Fountain, and thence to the Presbyterian church, where funeral services were conducted by Rev. E. G. Strang, the pastor, and Rev. J. A. Lowrey, of the Ellensburg Presbyterian church. From the church the funeral cortege proceeded to Ashland cemetery, where the body was laid to rest beside that of the husband who died in Ashland some fifteen years ago.

Its Opening a Great Success—A Crush of People to Inspect the Hotel—Ready Now for Business.
The Oregon ran up its flag last Wednesday evening for the first time, and about 3 o'clock p. m. the handsome new hotel which had just arrived from San Francisco started out with the band and made a drive throughout the city. When twilight came, the hotel was a scene of light from office to attic, and the music of the band at 7 o'clock was the signal for the assembling of the guests of the evening. It was reported that perhaps two hundred people would be present, but the crowd kept growing and did not seem to abate, nor did four hundred people were in the house. A program had been arranged including vocal music, recitations, etc., but the crowd was so great that only a few heard any portion of this, and the guests enjoyed themselves in roaming through the corridors, inspecting the rooms and having a jolly informal time generally, as is only possible on such occasions when there is a crowd.
