MORE ABOUT FT. KLAMATH.

Those persons in Klamath county who are trying to persuade themselves that Fort Klamath is not abandoned, assume that it is not true that the Klamath military reservation is to be sold.

The estimated value of the land office before we gave the news of the order to sell the land, and doubling the amount may see the ideal order on application.

There are always plenty of people to deny the truth, but few are able to do so in this instance.

The latest information received in Ashland concerning the proposed short line to the coast that after it was learned that the secretary of war had concluded to disapprove the recommendation of Gen. Miles that the post be garrisoned again, Gen. Miles renewed his recommendation.

When the first attempt was made to have Fort Klamath post abandoned the trustees noted the fact that there was strong suspicion of the movement being organized with certain large land and live stock owners who have a covetous eye upon the Klamath marsh and other lands embraced in the military and Indian reservations.
