TIDINGS,

FOR ONLY $5.00.

WHY PAY $12 for a dictionary when we make you such a liberal offer of a book that will answer your every purpose as well as the high priced luxury that few can afford.

Special Announcement.

Within a few weeks past the copyright which has covered the great WEBSTER DICTIONARY has expired, and the Pacific Publishing Company, San Francisco, has taken advantage of this circumstance to put a reprint of this great work upon the market at a considerable reduction upon the price which heretofore ranged from twelve dollars to fifteen dollars per volume. The re-publication of the dictionary in this way is not in any sense an act of "piracy," but is legitimate in every way. Those who had any proprietary right to the work, save as a mere matter of business, are long since dead, so that no injury is done to the authors by re-producing it. We have arranged for a large number of copies, and propose to give it as a premium, in connection with the regular weekly paper. It is of course impossible to make an actual donation of so large and valuable a book, and it will be issued upon the following terms: Each new subscriber to the weekly paper for one year, or each old subscriber renewing for the year, will be given the dictionary and the paper together for the sum of five dollars, postage on the paper and express rates on the book prepaid. This will enable any person wishing to get it with the weekly for one year for one-third the price heretofore currently charged for the dictionary alone. The price is marvelously low. The book is an exact reproduction in size and general form of the standard WEBSTER'S DICTIONARY, with only this difference, that the reprint is printed upon a lighter paper. The letter press is an exact fac simile of the dictionary which is familiar to all. Subscriptions will be received, either through the agents of the paper or direct from this office. Anybody caring to take advantage of this offer may do so by addressing us and enclosing the subscription price, $5, for the book and paper.

INVESTIGATE The merits of this offer and you will lose nothing by it anyway. Remember, we give you this book and one year's subscription to the TIDINGS for $5.

The Road to Wealth

Cannot be successfully traveled without good health. To reach wealth or any coveted position in life requires the full possession and operation of all the faculties kind nature has endowed us with. These conditions cannot exist unless the physical being is in perfect working order, and this is impossible when the liver and spleen are torpid, thus obstructing the secretions, causing indigestion and dyspepsia, with all of their accompanying horrors.

DR. HENLEY'S English Dandelion Tonic exerts a specific influence over the liver, excites it to healthy action, resolves its chronic engorgements, and promotes the secretions; cures indigestion and constipation, sharpens the appetite, tones up the entire system, and makes life worth living.

COUGHS, SORE THROAT, WHOOPING COUGH, INFLUENZA, CROUP, BRONCHITIS, ASTHMA and every affection of the Throat, Lungs and Chest, including CONSUMPTION, are speedily and permanently cured by the use of WISTAR'S BALSAM OF WILD CHERRY, which does not dry up a cough and leave the cause behind, but loosens it, cleanses the lungs and allays irritation, thus removing the cause of complaint. The genuine is always signed "I. BUTTS" on the wrapper. SETH W. FOWLE & SONS, Prop's, BOSTON, MASS. Sold by dealers generally.

MEANING OF THE ELECTIONS

According to the latest reports the next house will stand 242 democrats to 94 republicans. But these figures may yet be somewhat changed. The number of republicans is smaller than in 1874, when they mustered only 98. The democrats of the house in the Fifty-second congress will have the two-thirds majority which rarely falls to the lot of any party. But it is quite evident that the classification now in vogue is not strictly correct. The late election for representatives is generally taken as a democratic revival. That is the view that mostly prevails abroad. But it does not mean that immense numbers of citizens who have heretofore acted with the republicans have gone over to the democrats. There has been, in fact, no such thing as a political revolution on the lines usually understood. On the contrary, the result is due to the appearance of a new factor in American politics.

The new factor is known as the Farmers' Alliance. That organization has been in course of formation for two or three years past. It has now come to the front with force, because the period known as the "off year" is favorable to new political growths. The Farmers' Alliance first saw the light in Texas. It took originally the form of a trust to which the farmers consigned their products. The trust undertook to make sale of these products to the best advantage and at the proper time. But its financial affairs were not conducted with skill and it met with a severe set-back. Latterly it has taken up with the notion that the government should do for its members what its own organization failed to accomplish—that is to say, store its products and issue to it money to 80 per cent. of the value. The proposition is, essentially, that the government of the United States shall be converted into a huge warehouse concern. Roger Q. Mills some time ago took occasion to exhibit the inherent absurdity of the scheme.

The alliance in time spread to other states, crossed the old line of Mason and Dixon and advanced northward quite rapidly, especially in Kansas and the middle northern states. At last accounts it had secured a footing in twenty-five states. But it does not present the same front in all of them. In Kansas and other Northern States it rather favors the notion that the government should go into the business of loaning farmers money at extremely low rates of interest. In the New England States the alliance offered an indirect method of political action to those who believe that the states which produce raw materials should be delivered over to New England, which is to work them up and is to be highly protected; in short, that the states which produce iron, coal and wool should be uncovered for New England's benefit.

The greenback element also played its part in the seeming democratic reaction, but instead of fiat money it is now aiming at the single standard of silver. National happiness, according to these queer economists, can only be found in 75 cent dollars, which may run down to 50 cts. or less. At bottom there is not much more than the old scheme of the debtor to scale his debts under the pretense of promoting the national prosperity. The only democratic factor that can be found distinctly in operation in the late political upheaval was the gerrymander, which has proved potent in Ohio and Indiana. The republicans themselves in Pennsylvania took the opportunity of the off year to destroy republican bossism, which was the political evil that at the time was the most seriously pressing upon them.

All these causes working together have according to the present figures, given us a house of 242 opposition members. Of these, nine are directly the members of the farmers' alliance. The democrats elected in republican districts are indebted to the diversion of the alliance for their success. Upon these 242 opposition representatives pretty nearly all the isms of the country have been unloaded. Some of them have sought at various times to secure shelter in the republican party and mold that organization as the party wishes. The democracy will ... to their now to have come ... may be said pretty much ... into possession of ironical ... all the cranks. It may be ... congratulated on its acquisition. No variety of them can any longer be utilized as political sideshows. The republicans are confronted with the most motley array to be found in the history of our politics. What is going to happen those 242 representatives in congress when all the isms begin to pull on them can easily enough be imagined. The record they will make for the next presidential election will be certain to be pretty much what the republicans desire. A new political vista will be opened which cannot fail to startle the country from end to end. But the performance will not commence until December, 1891.—[S. F. Bulletin.

"Is this the best?" Is a question often asked, when medicine is wanted. The following are a few of the medicines of known reliability sold by Chitwood Bros., druggists of this place. They have many other excellent medicines, but these are worthy of especial mention:

Chamberlain's Pain Balm, a general family liniment and especially valuable for rheumatism. Price 50c per bottle.

A Sure Cure for Piles.

Druggists or mail; treatise free. Dr. Bosanko, Piqua, O. Sold by T. K. Bolton.

The Southern Opinion of Blaine.

The exposition will be notable for the visit of two men of national reputation—Mr. Blaine, who is secretary of state is a more striking figure than the president, and Senator John W. Daniel, of Virginia, who has a reputation for eloquence and profundity of thought second to no man in public life.

Whatever may be said against Mr. Blaine's politics, there is no doubt that he is the most liberal and the most enlightened man in his party. The south will not soon forget that he threw the weight of his influence against the infamous force bill, and so far as we are concerned, this action on the part of Mr. Blaine will cover a multitude of party sins.

Mr. Blaine stands for all that is progressive in the republican party, and his efforts to build up a trade between this country and Spanish America can be appreciated by the people of the south Atlantic and Gulf states, who must be among the first to profit by such a trade. In his efforts for the enlargement of commerce he has good democratic company.—[Atlanta Constitution.

A continual coughing is very annoying to persons sitting near you in any kind of a gathering; besides, it is of great damage to the throat and lungs, and is exceedingly dangerous at this season of the year. One-half bottle of Beggs' Cherry Cough Syrup will relieve any ordinary cough, and this remedy costs no more than the inferior grades that are thrown on the market to sell at enormous profits. For sale by all druggists.

People troubled with constipation should be very careful what kind of a laxative they use, as so many medicines are put up to sell which are absolutely without any merit or value, and which, if taken, will get your bowels in such a state that you will be compelled to keep on using physic the year around in order to enjoy any health. Beggs' Liver Pills will do more to keep a family in good health than any other pills on the market, as they are put up with the utmost care, and are guaranteed to give satisfaction. Sold by all druggists.

If you suffer pricking pains on moving the eyes, or cannot bear bright light, and find your sight weak and failing, you should promptly use Dr. J. H. McLean's Strengthening Eye Salve. 25 cts a box.

A South American Farm.

The following is taken from an article entitled "Agricultural Chile," by Theodore Child, in Harper's Magazine:

"Among the many hospitable farms and haciendas that I visited, we may take as a favorable specimen Senora Isidora Cousino's large and beautiful estate at Macul, near Santiago, which is rather, perhaps, a model farm than a commercial enterprise. The whole hacienda comprises 500 cuadras irrigated and 700 cuadras of mountain land without irrigation. Forty cuadras are devoted to vines, which produce over 350,000 litres a year; a certain portion is allotted to raising wheat, barley and oats for home consumption; a considerable space is laid out as a park, with very fine and picturesque ornamental gardens, and the rest is given to alfalfa and grazing.

"The stud farm at Macul is important, and the stock consists of imported Clydesdale, Percheron, Cleveland, Anglo-Norman and thoroughbred racing stock, including a Yankee trotter, in all 100 horses and nearly 200 cows, bred from thoroughbred French and English Durhams. This establishment being rather an exceptional one from many points of view, you might expect to find the farmers treated with the same care as the cattle. But no. They receive the usual 65 paper cents a day, with food and lodging gratis. The lodging consists of rooms in an adobe building, with a beaten earth floor, or a cane hut plastered over with mud; while the food is composed of a daily ration of two pounds of bread in the morning, and at midday an unlimited quantity of beans cooked in grease. This is all, the laborers receive neither tea nor coffee, much less wine or beer.

"The laborers who work permanently on the farm all the year round, instead of being lodged in barracks, have a cottage and a bit of land, which they are allowed to cultivate for their own profit; but in return for this privilege they have to work at the rate of 55 cents a day, or furnish a substitute. The laborers of this class are called 'inquilinos', and are considered to be the standby of every farm, because their service can always be counted on from years' end to years' end. Their cottages and plots are invariably situated on the outskirts of an estate, at intervals one from the other, so that, together with their families they form the natural guardians and watchmen of the hacienda."

Merit Wins.

We desire to say to our citizens, that for years we have been selling Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Dr. King's Life Pills, Bucklen's Arnica Salve and Electric Bitters, and have never handled remedies that sell as well, or that have given such universal satisfaction. We do not hesitate to guarantee them every time, and we stand ready to refund the purchase price, if satisfactory results do not follow their use. These remedies have won their great popularity purely on their merits. Chitwood Bros., druggists.

The Oldest Native Oregonian.

Linn, Oregon, Nov. 5, 1890.—Salem Journal: Much has been said lately through the different papers of the state, as to who is the oldest native Oregonian living, but the one who we believe has the right to claim that honor, has for some reason, not made herself known to the public until now. She is Mrs. S. O. Henness, living near Gates, on the Linn county side of the river. She will be better known to many as Miss Sallie Olinger, who taught long and successfully in the public schools of Linn, Lane and Marion counties. Her parents crossed the plains in 1843, swelling the number of those hardy pioneers who first made the perilous journey across the continent with ox teams, hewing their way as they came. And it was while the weary, half fed emigrants were making their laborious way through the Blue mountains, that amid the height and depth of that vast wilderness Mrs. Henness first drew the breath of life. The lady physician who attended her mother at her birth, and who christened the youthful mountaineer, giving her her own name, "Sarah," is still living, or was less than a year ago, in the person of Mrs. Owens, of Southern Oregon, mother of the well known lady physician, Dr. Owens Adair of Astoria. These are facts well known to a few old Oregonians still living, and if anyone can beat this let that one come forward and Mrs. H. will step gracefully down and out, yielding the honor of being the "oldest Oregonian" to the more deserving.

A FRIEND.

A prominent physician and old army surgeon in eastern Iowa was called away from home for a few days; during his absence one of the children contracted a severe cold and his wife bought a bottle of Chamberlains Cough Remedy for it. They were so much pleased with the remedy that they afterwards used several bottles at various times. He said, from his experience with it, he regarded it as the most reliable preparation in use for colds and that it came the nearest being a specific of any medicine he had ever seen. For sale by Chitwood Bros.

Progressive Conversation

A new amusement, suitable for an evening party, is "progressive conversation," which had its birth in the East. Its popularity is established by its possibilities to entertain any number of guests, though more than twenty cannot be easily managed. Its modus operandi is somewhat as follows:

As many chairs as required by the number of guests invited are arranged in pairs in a continuous line, one behind the other, and are yoked together with broad ribbons of different colors.

The topics of conversation for the evening are announced on invitation cards. A card on which is written a topic of conversation is tied with a narrow ribbon to the connecting ribbons on the chairs, and tally cards, as in progressive euchre, with a tiny ribbon bow, which matches the colors on the chairs, are arranged for both ladies and gentlemen, as in the game when played with cards. When all the guests have drawn cards, they take their seats according to the color designated by the tally card, the ladies on the left and the gentlemen on the right, the hostess taps a bell, and the buzz of conversation begins. Ten minutes are allowed to each topic and the topic on each set of chairs differs from all the others. The judges chosen pass down the line and criticise, and at the end of the time specified affix a gold star on the card of the best conversationalist, and a silver star on the card of the vanquished. The entire company change seats, the gentlemen retreating one seat, the ladies advancing one, and the buzz begins again.

When ten changes have been made, ten topics dished up and discussed, the person having the greatest number of gold stars is the winner.

Advice to Mothers.

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup has been used by mothers for children teething for over fifty years with perfect success. It relieves the little sufferer at once, produces natural, quiet sleep by freeing the child from pain, and the little cherub wakes "bright as a button." It is very pleasant to taste, soothes the child, softens the gums, allays pain, relieves wind, regulates the bowels, and is the best known remedy for diarrhoea, whether arising from teething or other causes. Twenty-five cents a bottle.

Easily Obtained.

Marriage licenses in some of the counties of Oregon are easily obtained, showing conclusively that the law on the subject of their issuance deserves a more strict interpretation by the officers granting the permit. For instance, at Albany, Friday, a divorce was obtained, and the next day a marriage license was issued to one of the parties to the divorce. The same thing occurred in Marion county a couple of times recently. The law says something about persons who have been divorced not being permitted to marry again until the time in which an appeal may be had shall have elapsed. But this is evidently overlooked. The matter of appeal is waived, so to speak.—[Statesman.

That sour-tempered, cross, dyspeptic individual, should take Dr. J. H. McLean's Sarsaparilla! It will make him feel as well and hearty as the healthiest of us, vitalizing that is all.

The Census

Washington, Nov. 11.—Superintendent of Census Porter has written an article in reply to the criticism of the census office in which he deprecates the idea that a partisan census is a possibility. He says: "To assault the census is to impeach the honesty of 60,000 intelligent working people who have labored faithfully. Those making charges are either reckless demagogues or ignorant partisans."

The whole country, including himself, is disappointed at the result, which is not surprising, as the popular key was pitched too high. The enumeration was not conducted in a partisan spirit. Many supervisors were indorsed by the leaders of both political parties, and the enumerators and special agents were mostly those who served in a similar capacity ten years ago.

Porter discusses the count in New York City and gives as his reasons why the police showed a greater population, the return of the summer absentees, and influx of 125,000 immigrants who have arrived during the interval. He says:

"From information I have, the rule adopted by the police when in doubt was to add one. In this way two doubtful cases in each hundred would add 75,000 to the population. A recount simply at the request of the mayor without proof would have brought the census office into disrepute."

Most of the article is merely a repetition of statistical information already known, and concludes:

"A careful and intelligent examination will satisfy the fair minded people of the substantial accuracy of the eleventh census and a verdict based on such study is all that can be asked."

Dr. Bosanko's Cough and Lung Syrup.

This syrup is composed of wild cherry, tar and balsam of tolu, which everyone knows are the best tonic and healing remedies known for the throat and lungs. To this we add just enough squills, ipecac and blood root to loosen and throw off the offending matter by expectoration. Ask your doctor if there could possibly be a more happy combination for the cure of coughs, colds and bronchitis, or to build up a weak and emaciated consumptive patient than this. For croup and whooping cough there is nothing better, and every mother who values the lives of her little children should always keep it in the house. It is perfectly harmless and the babies like it. Sold by T. K. Bolton.
