"Grim Like a Cheshire Cat."

"Well, well! Didn't ever hear of a 'grim like a Cheshire cat'? Why, you see, a man down in Cheshire had a cat which grinned and grunted until there was nothing left of the cat but the grin, just as some scrofulous people, who don't know of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, get a cough, and then cough and cough until there is nothing left of them to erect a monument to but the cough.

The "Golden Medical Discovery" is the most effective, anti-bilious, anti-dyspeptic, strength-giving remedy extant. For weak lungs, lingering coughs, spitting of blood, scrofula, sores, pimples and ulcers, it is a wonderful and efficacious remedy. Send 6 cents in stamps for a Book (100 pages) on these diseases and their cure. Address World's Dispensary Medical Association, Buffalo, N. Y.

Dr. Pierce's Pellets cure constipation, piles, sick headache, and indigestion, or dyspepsia.

His last work, completed just before his death, "Original Notes on the Book of Proverbs," contains nearly 16,000 illustrated quotations culled from the eastern fathers. In the Bodleian library at Oxford is a volume containing a psalm written by him in more than 80 languages. He was the son of Dr. Cesar Malan of Geneva and was born in 1812.—New York Post.

A Political Blunder.

[S. F. Call.]

The address of the Bimetallic League, published in the Call of yesterday, was undoubtedly the most important political document of the year. Its importance was due partly to the skill of the argument embodied in the address, but mainly to the signatures attached to it. A cause becomes great whenever great men advocate it, and the fact that such a statesman as Senator Jones of Nevada has signed his name to this document raises it to the rank of the highest political manifestos of the time.

With all due credit to the document and with all respect to those who signed it, however, we cannot regard it as other than a political blunder. The fundamental principle upon which it is based is an error in politics. Starting with the unquestionable statement that the money problem is now the dominant issue in the United States, it proceeds to argue that neither the Republican nor the Democratic party has taken a decided stand in favor of the reorganization of silver and therefore a new party is necessary to advocate the cause of bimetalism and bring about that change in monetary affairs which is necessary to the welfare of the people.

Conceding the dominant importance of the reorganization of silver, we cannot admit the conclusion drawn from it. Political parties cannot be founded upon a single issue, no matter how great and far-reaching the issue may be. Many things are to be done by the American people in the near future. The tariff must be reformed on the protective system, the Nicaragua canal must be constructed, the Hawaiian cable laid, American shipping fostered and promoted, and all vigorous foreign policy enforced in all quarters of the globe. To whom could the people look for these things if they elected a Congress pledged only to free silver? Such a Congress would speedily find itself warring factions worse even than that which has so recently passed away, and while it might do something to settle the monetary issue, it might also unsettle every other issue on which the growing welfare of the country depends.

No statesman nor any party is a more earnest or steadfast advocate of silver coinage than the Call. Nevertheless we can neither follow nor approve of the proposed movement. There is no need of a third party. The Republican party is pledged to bimetalism. The great leaders of that party have espoused that cause and the rank and file are in hearty accord with them. The surest and speediest way to return to bimetalism is through the return to power of the Republican party. At the present time every aspect of the situation and every prospect of the future promise a safe solution of all our problems by the triumph of Republicanism. It is a matter of regret, therefore, that any Republican at this juncture should talk of forming a new party or entering upon any untried experiments.

The way to win on this issue, as on all other issues, is to remain true to the party that saved the Union and maintained its prosperity unbroken for thirty years. That party will give the Nicaragua canal, the Hawaiian cable, the protective tariff, a subsidy for American ships and free silver as well.

Efficacy of the Lady Bug.

The Oregon state board of horticulture is the recipient of a letter from a Rogue river valley orchardist who makes a very troublesome suggestion as to killing off a troublesome pest that now infests his trees.

The letter is from William S. Crowell. Mr. Crowell asks the board to inform him as to the efficacy of the Australian lady bug, introduced some few years ago in California to prey upon the cotton scale that at one time threatened the utter extinction of the orange and lemon groves around and below Santa Barbara to the Mexican line.

A Southern Californian recalls the time when all the fruitmen and horticulturists of that section were mildly excited over the "lady bug colonies" that were received by the orchardist and that section, and remembers well the thousands of commendatory statements that were soon current all over the land, as to the certain efficacy of their use in annihilating not only the deadly cotton scale but the black and red scales as well.

The Californian claims that in those latitudes the brilliant and predatory little bugs from the antipodes was the sole salvation of the thousands of pest-ridden orchards there, and its indiscriminate attack on the various scales there safely presupposes its hearty attack on the pest that annoys and threatens the horticulture of Oregon.—[Ex.]

Jenny Lind.

Jenny Lind must have been the most simple, unpretending prima donna that ever lived. When she first came to England she was bound to sing only at the Royal Italian Opera House, and when commanded to sing at the queen's concert she was obliged to refuse. Very sorry to be compelled to notify this, she ordered her carriage and drove straight to Buckingham palace. She handed her card to an official, who, not unnaturally, declined to take it in. A higher authority happened to pass and took it up himself to present it. As soon as her majesty saw it she said, "Admit her, by all means." Jenny Lind appeared and said simply that she was so very sorry to be unable to sing at her majesty's concert that she thought it better to call herself and explain. The queen was charmed with her natural manner, gave her a cordial reception and promised to be her friend.—Today.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease, and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional disease and therefore requires constitutional treatment. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials. Address: F. J. The Nonprofessional Profile Head.

"I don't know how many times I have seen people—I don't mean artists, but all sorts of people, including children—draw profile heads. It is common enough for anybody to draw them on a slate, a scrap of paper, anywhere," said Mr. Billots, "but I don't remember ever to have seen any of them draw a right handed profile—I mean one facing to the right. I suppose there is some very simple reason for this, but I am acquainted only with the fact."—New York Sun.

Fate of the Bills.

[Baltimore American.]

In the house of representatives during the recent session of the legislature there were 384 bills introduced. Of these, 142 passed that body, 121 died in the hands of committees, and 121 died either in failure to pass, by indefinite postponement, by being tabled or being withdrawn. Of the 142 that went to the senate only forty-two passed that body, an even hundred going to sleep in the bosom of pig-headed prejudice. The senate passed 110 of its own bills, of which forty-nine were passed by the house, twenty-three died in the hands of the various committees and thirty-eight were disposed of in the various ways of indefinite postponement and want of passage. Thus altogether ninety-one bills passed both houses and eighty-seven became laws, but they are principally charter bills.—[Ex.]

Effects of the Tidal Wave.

[Baltimore American.]

Omitting the 10 populists of the 53d congress, and the seven populists of the 54th, let us compare the figures, just to remind ourselves of the greatness of the tidal wave in the elections of last November. This congress—Democrats, 219; republicans, 127; democratic plurality, 92. Next congress—Democrats, 194; republicans, 244; republican plurality, 140.

And perhaps more, American politics are full of great disturbances, but they present no parallel to this revolution. Logically, there should also be a republican in the presidential chair; but, after all, that is simply postpone a couple of years. He will be on hand on the 4th of March, 1897.
