The Ashland Machine Shops.

The extensive machine working plant heretofore conducted in connection with the Ashland Electric Power and Light Co., has been leased by the company's efficient electrician and machinist, S. J. Tuttle, who is prepared to take orders for machine work and repairing.

E. A. Sherwin desires us to publish the following extract from a letter of Chas. M. Gantard, of Reedley, Fresno county, Cal., as he handles the remedy referred to and wants his customers to know what a splendid medicine it is. "It is with pleasure I tell you that by one day's use of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy I was relieved of a very severe cold. My head was completely stopped up and I could not sleep at night. I can recommend this remedy. A cold nearly always starts in the head and afterwards extends to the throat and lungs. By using this remedy freely as soon as the cold has been contracted it will cure the cold at once and prevent it from extending to the lungs."

They Want Letters.

The following quotation is from the Rural Northwest: "We are desirous of securing a series of letters from practical men of your state, devoted to the discussion of our intensive farming. In our various publications which we freely distribute throughout the east, we have made the broad claim that ten acres properly cultivated to vegetables and fruits will make a good living for a family. This we have done on account of the many instances of success attending the tillage of small areas, and more or less, which have come to us from nearly every part of the Pacific Northwest. There is more waste land from an agricultural standpoint in your state than in the Mississippi valley. All country should be in small holdings and made to produce to the limit. Small farming means much. It means sociability, companionship and touch with the world; but I need not enlarge upon the importance of increased population and well managed acres."

"Your climate invites out-door life; it invites people from more rigorous sections to come and prolong their lives and usefulness. Your varied resources invite capital, industry and development. New men will uncover new avenues to wealth and happiness. We believe in building for the future, in laying sure and firm foundations; but while doing it we should share some of its benefits. Let us ourselves partake of the fruits of the tree of the garden and enjoy while we live, some of the beauty and perfume of the flowers. We therefore respectfully invite contributions from farmers, fruit-raisers and gardeners, showing what can be done on one acre and upwards, and how to do it, so that others may be instructed in the art of right living and labor."

"Ten Acres Enough" gave an Eastern writer material sufficient to prepare a very readable and useful book. We believe volumes can be written upon your resources and possibilities. We do not want a book from a single person; matter to fill a newspaper column will be plenty from each one, and our hope is we may be favored with enough short articles to fill a book. Address F. I. Whitney, G. P. & T. A., Great Northern Railway, St. Paul, Minn."

OUR WINES AGAINST THE WORLD. California Will Have a Full Exhibit at the Bordeaux Exposition.

The viticultural commissioners have decided to make an exhibit of California wines and brandies at the exposition which is to be held at Bordeaux from the 1st of May next until the 1st of November. Secretary Scott received a cable dispatch last week from Bordeaux to the effect that the Societe Philomatique has accepted the terms offered by the viticultural commission, and that California wines and brandies will be accorded a full and complete representation at the forthcoming exhibition. This is the first opportunity which has ever been accorded local wine growers and distillers to display their products in Bordeaux. During the last two years substantial recognition has been accorded California wines and brandies in various European centers. Gold medals have been awarded at the exhibitions in Genoa in 1892, in Dublin in 1892, in Antwerp in 1893 and in Lyons in 1894, but the California wine and brandy makers have never before had an opportunity of showing their best products to the winemakers of the world in the center of the greatest claret market in the world—Bordeaux.

Secretary Scott of the viticultural commission said: "California wines have already received splendid recognition from foreign experts. We intend to carry the battle right into the heart of the finest producing district of clarets in the world. Five years ago an effort to convince the bottlers of French wine that we had wines worthy of their recognition might have been hopeless. There are, however, in this state 100 or more men who have in view the production of the very highest types of wine, whether these types be of claret, Burgundy, Rhine wines or any other kind. These people know that we have an area of country suitable for winemaking as large and as varied as all of the countries of Europe outside of Russia. "We want to put samples of all of our wines before the countries of the world, and we have never before had such an opportunity as is now presented in the Bordeaux exposition. We do not claim that we have the very best of everything, but we do want to show to all comers that we have at least as good wine as can be shown by any country. All that we ask is an equal and fair chance with any country, and I think it is fortunate for the state that the means exist for inviting such a comparison without any undue expense to the individual winemakers. The commission intends to collect all of the samples. The samples will be sent on, and due care will be taken that fair play is done to all concerned. All that we are waiting for is for complete particulars as to the expense."—San Francisco Chronicle.

Lake Co. Beef and Eastern Markets.

Cattlemen and beef-buyers are agreed upon the fact that the beef from this region is the best that goes into the San Francisco market. Men who are posted will tell you that Lake county steers make the best feeders and turn out the best on the block. Yet heretofore our people have been handicapped by depending entirely upon the San Francisco market. They have gradually fallen into the idea of thinking that there was no other place to sell their steers, and consequently the buyers have sat down in Shasta valley and quietly folded their hands, while the Lake county men drove their beef to them and accepted their price. But this year the probabilities are that much of the beef from this locality will go the other way. It has been demonstrated that it is an easy matter to take good feeders across the desert from Wagontire mountain to Huntington or Ontario, and get them to the road in fine condition. This season the range promises to be unusually fine, and feed will be abundantly abundant the entire distance. We are informed that the Carr company has contracted to furnish 2000 steers from their Silver Lake range to Chicago buyers, and that they will be started out in June. And it is more than probable that Chicago buyers will reach this county during the summer, and will be willing to pay good prices. In any event, we are assured by practical cattlemen who know whereof they speak, that it is not a difficult undertaking to run good beef into the Kansas City market, and realize from five to eight dollars per head more than they will fetch here.

The Shasta valley people, who quietly wait for the Lake county men to drive into their little net, this year are apt to find, like Othello, that their occupation is gone.

Mr. Geo. Small, of Silver Lake, and Mr. A. Bradshaw, of Berkeley, came down last Saturday and remained here until Monday. Mr. Small has recently returned from his trip to Kansas City and the southern states, where he took five carloads of horses and mules last December. He started from Silver Lake on the 21st of December and drove across to Ontario, where the animals were "carred" to Kansas City. The most of them were sold in Kansas City, but Mr. Small visited Alabama, Georgia, and Florida, and shipped a portion of his stock to Georgia. The freight to Kansas City was about one dollar per head, and the other expenses run it up to nearly twenty dollars per head before the stock was disposed of. Mr. Small says that the right kind of mules and horses find a ready sale, but he don't want anybody to run around with a notion in his head that there is any bonanza in the proposition. He also has a very diminitive opinion of the liberality of southern railroad management. The freight rate from Kansas City to Kansas City, and they refuse to give the shippers of the stock a pass, even if he has a whole train.

An Odd Collection. A man in Colorado has a quaint collection of bottles. It is divided into two sections. Section one is large, Section two is not. Section one contains hundreds of bottles, the contents of which his wife swallowed hoping to find relief from her physical sufferings. Section two is a collection of bottles of medicine, some of which were filled with Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It was this potent remedy that gave the suffering wife her health again. It cures all irregularities, internal inflammation and ulceration, displacements and kindred troubles. It has done more to relieve the sufferings of women than any other medicine known to science.

Gold Coins in a Beam. Some time ago two brothers, who were builders in a small way of business in Herefordshire, estimated to pull down and rebuild some very old premises. Their estimate was accepted, and the work commenced.

While the demolition of the roof was proceeding they came across a heavy oak beam, which ran the length of the building. On this being removed it was found that a piece had been cut out of the center of the beam and the hole thus made filled up with old golden coins, the wood being replaced so as not to be noticed.

Some idea of the value of the coins may be gathered from the fact that the builders received about $200 as their share of the find.—London Answers.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease, and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials. Address: F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O. Sold by Druggists, 75.

New South Wales Scenery. Words cannot do justice to the wondrous charm of New South Wales scenery, which in many places combines the grandly romantic with sylvan beauty in a fashion which would delight the eye of an artist in search of the picturesque, says John Plummer in his "Australian Notes." In the writings of visitors who have not had time to become acquainted with the real attractions of the Australian landscape we frequently find allusions to the brown, dried up appearance of the country, the absence of herbage and the want of variety in the foliage of the forest, but there are periods when the same may be said of English scenery. During a considerable part of the year, save on the great plains of the interior, the grass is as bright and green as in an English park, while the profusion of native flowers of every size and hue testifies to the luxuriant character of the soil. A trip up the Parramatta or Lane Coveriers near Sydney is suggestive of the appearance of the Thames above Richmond, but the Australian riverside scenery is more varied and picturesque.

Work of the Legislature.

The press, with a few honorable exceptions, has been filled with vituperation and unjust criticisms of the 18th biennial session of the Oregon legislature which closed at midnight, Feb. 23. It seems to be fashionable of late years to sneer at the legislature and whatever it may do or leave undone. With an air of superior wisdom and virtue, which seems to afford them great pleasure and adds largely to their self-importance, certain editors who know little and care less about the interests and wishes of the people, assume that everything that was done was wrong, and they object to all that was done and to all that was not done. They charge sins of commission and sins of omission, and find nothing to their liking. They are shocked beyond measure at the extravagant and unprofitable of the men they helped to elect. They declare they never saw anything like it before—they are the worst lot of men that ever disgraced legislative halls.

At every succeeding session these slanders and silly lies are repeated and worked over in every conceivable form. Unlike the tailings of a placer mine, the more they are worked the richer they appear to be. As far back as the memory of man runneth, these birds of evil omen, who defile their own nests and assume that they are the only truly good and perfectly honest people on earth, have declared that each legislature was the worst ever known and the like of it could never be seen again. But at the next session they contradict themselves, and say it is far worse than the other, which they said could never be equalled, and so on from one absurdity to another, always declaring that the last was the worst. A man who maliciously misrepresents and slanders a private citizen and injures him in the eyes of his neighbor can be prosecuted and punished in the courts. But the men who are elected by their fellow citizens to make laws, elect United States senators and perform other important duties, have no protection in the courts. This system of misrepresenting and grossly slandering legislators, in a manner that would not be tolerated among neighbors, has become an evil and needs reforming more than anything in American politics. It is corrupting the minds of the people and breeding discontent, suspicion, jealousy, envy and crime. The men who start these slanders through disappointment and malice, engendered by the defeat of some pet scheme by which they hoped to plunder a city, in the name of "economy and reform," or elect a man who would favor financial system which constantly makes the richer richer and increases the burdens of nine tenths of mankind, are worse than common bar-room or gutter-sneep liars. They do much harm and no good. The men who repeat these lies, ignorantly or mechanically, without investigation, are not so bad although their work is none the less injurious.

As every legislature is worse than the preceding one, in the eyes of these bogus reformers, it is not surprising that they have had to search the dictionaries and the slums to find language disreputable enough to apply to the legislature which followed this eruption of abuse and filth, it is doubtful whether Oregon ever had a better set of men in any legislature than in the last one or ever had better work done. In the matter where the most fault has been found, it was just the opposite of what has been charged. It has been criticised more for "extravagance" than for any other thing, when in fact it was one of the most economical legislatures this state has ever had. The estimates made by the outgoing secretary of state, Hon. Geo. W. Melburn, now United States senator, for the next two years, amounted to about five hundred thousand dollars less than they were for the last two years, and the legislature followed his estimates almost to the letter and appropriated about half a million dollars less for the years 1895 and 1896 than the preceding legislature appropriated for the years 1893 and 1894. This is one of the greatest reductions ever made in Oregon, and it is doubtful if there is another state in the Union where the expenses are less in proportion to the population than they will be in this state during the next two years. The state tax levy for the present year is only three mills, one of the lowest ever known.
