Politics In Indiana.

It is settled now that there is more politics to the square inch in Indiana than any other state in the Union, even South Carolina in a Tillman campaign. When the rioting and fisticuffs occurred in the British house of commons a year ago, we Americans, Phariseelike, thanked goodness that such a scene could not occur in a legislative body in the United Christian Temperance union. Now we States. Well, it has occurred, and

> The Indiana legislature is Republican. Governor Matthews is a Democrat, and he wanted one of his officers to hold over after the assembly adjourned. The Republicans passed a bill legislating the Democratic appointee out of office. The governor would not veto it promptly, because then the legislature could pass it over his head. His scheme was to hold back the veto till just at the moment of adjournment and then send it in when the hour of 12 o'clock would arrive before the bill could be passed. At the last moment he sent his secretary to the house. The Republicans formed a mob around him to keep him back. Democrats fought to open a way for him. There resulted one of the bloodiest and most disgraceful scenes ever witnessed in a legislative body. Revolvers were drawn freely; fists, feet and nails were used. The representative from Parke county received a kick in the pit of his stomach and fell with a sickening thud. Men have fought for their homes, their country and their liberty, and the blood they shed was sacred. But here was a principle at stake greater than either home, country or liberty. It was an immortal principle at stake greater than either home, country or liberty. It was an immortal principle at stake greater than either home, country or liberty. The Chen Yuen Again.

It is hard to understand just why the reliable cable correspondent has such a spite at the Chinese crack battleship Chen Yuen. At the first skirmish on the water between the Japanese and Chinese, the correspondent told us the Chen Yuen was sunk to the bottom of the sea. This was very sad, and it was thought now that China must give up at once. But, behold, at the mouth of the Yalu river the Chen Yuen was hopelessly killed dead and sunk again. But the Chen Yuen has a remarkable faculty of lifting herself out of the depths of the ocean and sailing in and fighting anew. After she had been finally sunk at Yalu she appears serenely in the straits about Port Arthur and goes into the fight as desperately as anything Chinese can go into a fight. Again this much battered Chen Yuen is hopelessly sunk by the Japs at Port Arthur. We breathe a sigh to her memory and also a sigh of relief that this time her loss is a dead sure thing and we shall no longer be obliged to reconstruct our ideas over her. But no! The very latest is that she was not sunk at all, but is above water and that Chinese workmen are repairing her for the Japanese, who captured her. Great is the American cable correspondent at the seat of war.

New York city has quarreled chronically over allowing the flags of other nations, particularly the green flag of Erin, to wave over her city hall on holidays. Whatever nationality was able to muster a compact body of voters at election time wanted the right to exploit their birthplace by a display of their old country emblem on the city flagpoles on Washington's birthday and other American festal days. The Irish, being the governors of New York, gained their point. The green flag with the yellow harp flaunted proudly in the breeze alongside of the stars and stripes. Now it can do so no longer. The legislative act recently passed on the subjects prohibits the flying of any flag except that of the United States over public buildings.

The fate of . Wilbur W. Perry ought to be a warning to all men who desire to be members of a state legislature. Perry is said to have been the most promising student Yale has graduated in 25 years. All the world was before him. But in an evil hour he permitted himself to be elected a member of the general assembly of Connecticut. While a member of that body he acquired the taste for whisky and thence dates his downfall. From a member of the legislature he become a common drunkard, and in the cold weather this winter perished miserably. During a wild debauch he wandered one night into a vacant lot and was found there next morning with hands and feet frozen

The Astoria Railroad.

A. B. Hammond, the Montana capitalist interested in the Astoria-Goble railroad, arrived at Astoria from the east last week. As to the building of the proposed Astoria road, he said:

The option given to Mr. Bonner and myself, in which Mr. Stanton and I. W. GENTLEMEN—I cannot sufficiently express to you my gratitude for the benefit your medicine has conferred upon my daughter. Of late she has suffered no pain whatever. It is simply marvelous. You have just reason to call it your "Favorite Prescription," and to stake your reputation as a physician on it. A favorite Kimball, of Atlanta, Ga., were also associated, could not be financed. This was partly due to the restrictions contained in the agreement, but more particularly on account of the present condition of the money market, and the impossibility of now placing any kind of new securities. In consequence of this, all parties who were associated with me in the enterprise have withdrawn. I have great faith in the project of building the road, and am prepared to carry out the work myself, providing the Astoria people will make some concessions, that are now imperative.
