Cash Purchase. One of the most hopeful outgrowths of the hard times is an organization called the "Cash Purchase association," which has been formed in Kansas. Its members are divided into circles of from 5 to 20 families, who pledge themselves individually and collectively not to go in debt a dollar, but to pay cash for every article bought. Since dealers must put up the prices of their wares high enough to cover their losses on bad debts, they thus make honest people pay for their own goods and those of dishonest people, too, which is unjust, not to say sinful. In the case of the Cash Purchase association the members have this added amount taken off their purchases, getting a discount on the goods they buy. They buy somewhat on the co-operative plan. It is claimed that from $60 to $80 a year is saved thus to each family belonging to the association.

An initiation fee of $1 is charged to the applicant for membership. This goes into a fund for the help of any member's family that is in need. In such a case money for the support of the needy family is allowed for a month and in extreme emergency two months. The money is a loan, to be repaid without interest when the family becomes self sustaining again.

There ought to be circles of the Cash Purchase association all over this country. It was running into debt that brought on the hard times.

Getting the Best Out of Life.

Dr. B. W. Richardson of London gave, not long since, a lecture which he called "How to Make the Most of Life." He thought we could make the most of life by in the first place getting good health, in which he was quite right. He believed, too, that everybody could have good health who lived right. Undoubtedly he was right there too.

Living right, however, does not consist in merely taking care of the body. The best physicians understand the great influence of the mind and emotions on the physical health. Furious rages, a malignant hatred, evil passions of any kind, as also persistent worry and fretting, will destroy the most perfect physical body that ever was bestowed on a mortal. The mind should control the body. Unless the mind can control itself and its own emotions, then the body runs away with it and falls into

The system man should pursue to live out his natural term of 105 years of life Dr. Richardson suggests in the following paragraph: A man or woman who lives frugally, who takes sufficient of the simple food they are made to subsist on and no more, who drinks the one natural fluid, water, is fitted praiarily to make the best of life, the strongest, the most active, the most enduring life. Presum ing human beings are born of good and whole some constitutions, they are, except for accidental destructive agencies, in a fair way to live five times their maturity—that is, five times 21 years, the natural term of the anatomical life—namely, 105 years, a term few reach, but which is attainable as a matter of experience, and so attainable, as a matter of natural law, that the majority of men and women would attain it if they lived properly.

been invented by Mr. J. J. Hogan of the psychological department of Yale college. The idea of the invention is credited to Professor Charles B. Bliss of the University of the City of New York. The main features of the little machine are a pointer and a pendulum. It measures the time between the inception of an intention and its execution in muscular movement. For instance, it will tell how long a time after a sound has reached your brain will be required to act in accordance with the sound. One of the experiments is this: A white disk is suddenly uncovered before a man's face. The instance he sees the disk he touches a button on the machine. The little instrument measures exactly the length of time between the flashing of the white disk on his sight and the touching of the button. Thus it registers the swiftness with which the muscles obey the will and the swiftness with which one thinks. There is a great difference between the slow thinkers and the quick thinkers, and Mr. Hogan's machine measures this difference. It will take note of time down to 1-1,000 of a second.

Earlier Stages.

Although by many believed to be incurable, there is the evidence of hundreds of living witnesses to the fact that, in all its earlier stages, consumption is a curable disease. Not every case, but a large percentage of cases, and we believe, fully 98 per cent. are cured by Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, even after the disease has progressed so far as to induce repeated bleedings from the lungs, severe lingering cough with copious expectoration (includ-ing tubercular matter), great loss of flesh and extreme emaciation and weakness. Do you doubt that hundreds of such cases reported to us as cured by "Golden Medical Discovery' were genuine cases of that dread and fatal disease? You need not take our word for it. They have, in nearly every instance, been so pronounced by the best and most experienced home physicians, who have no interest whatever in misrepresenting them, and who were often strongly prejudiced and advised against a trial of "Golden Medical Discovery," but who have been forced to confess that it surpasses, in curative power over this fatal malady, all other medicines with which they are acquainted. Nasty cod-liver oil and its filthy "emulsions" and mixtures, had been tried in nearly all these cases and had either utterly failed to benefit, or had only seemed to benefit a little for a short time. Extract of malt, whiskey, and various preparations of the hypoph phites had also been faithfully tried in vain. The photographs of a large number of those cured of consumption, bronchitis, lingering coughs, asthma, chronic nasal catarrh and kindred maladies, have been

SOCIETY IMPERTINENCE.

Kitchen Odors and Plebeian Blood Offend the Daintiness of Gotham's 400. The 'season of Italian opera ended none too soon, according to some very interesting stories which reach my ears. On the last Friday night of the performances a strong smell of grease and cooking was traced to the box of a very well known ex-commodore of the New York Yacht club, and upon investigation it was found that in the goodness of his heart he had permitted his fat old cook and her staff of assistants to occupy the family places. Women in the neighboring boxes, who were decked out in all their finery, were naturally highly indignant that a party of household servants should have been thrust in among them.

People who did not wish to use their boxes for matinee performances have more than once sent their servants, which was sufficiently impertinent, but to send the cook and scullery maids to an evening performance was either that display of a total lack of savoir faire or was intended to be a direct affront upon the adjacent boxholders.-Cholly Knickerbocker in New York Recorder.

An Answer From Eli.

If international free trade is impoverishing, is not interstate free trade equally hurtful? THEODORE J. WERNER. No. There is no similarity. When we buy manufactured free trade goods from Europe, made by cheap labor, our high priced labor will be idle or work for their low pay, plus the freight. Europe will have our money, and we will have idle workmen. In American states high wages prevail everywhere. One state cannot ruin another. The high wages of Massachusetts cannot harm the high wages of Illinois. Every state grows rich, and the nation prospers. Our money stays at home. It goes into circulation. It does not go to Europe, as it would with international free trade.
