

CASTOR

for Infants and Children.

"Castoria is so well adapted to children that I recommend it as superior to any prescription known to me." H. A. ANGER, M. D., 111 So. Oxford St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

"The use of 'Castoria' is so universal and its merits so well known that it seems a work of supererogation to endorse it. Few are the intelligent families who do not keep Castoria within easy reach." CARLOS MATTY, D. D., New York City. Late Pastor Bloomingdale Reformed Church.

Castoria cures Colic, Constipation, Sour Stomach, Flatulency, Truss, Worms, gives sleep, and promotes digestion. Without injurious medication.

"For several years I have recommended your 'Castoria,' and shall always continue to do so. It has invariably produced beneficial results." EDWIN F. PARKER, M. D., "The Wintrop," 115th Street and 7th Ave., New York City.

NAPOLEON BONAPARTE.

Europe Prostrate at the Feet of the Conqueror.

CONFEDERATION OF THE RHINE.

Louis and Jerome Bonaparte Made Kings. Prussians Overwhelmed at Auerstadt and Jena—Allied Armies Destroyed at Friedland—Treaty of Tilsit.

[Copyright, 1866, by John Clark Ridpath.]

XVII.—MAYMAKER AND KING OF KINGS.

After Austerlitz, Napoleon conceded to the Czar of Russia the privilege of retreating! Only a month before, Alexander had been in Berlin. Out at Potsdam, on the 3rd of November, he and Frederick William had sworn a secret mighty oath over the tomb of Frederick the Great. This conjunction with the Czar did not seem to have been an expedient thing! Frederick, supposing that Napoleon was not informed of his perfidy, sent to the victor at Austerlitz a message of hollow congratulation. The Emperor, on receiving it, said that Frederick William had written the letter, intending it for the Czar, but fortune had changed the address to himself!

The treaty of Pressburg was another peace that did not pacify. Europe was prostrate before Napoleon as far as the Vistula; but England covered all sea coasts from the Atlantic to the Baltic, and the whole Slavonic race lay darkly banded on the horizon of the Northeast.

The Emperor began at once, with incredible audacity, to make a new political map for the European Powers, and to support it with his under-kings and princes, vassals of France. Influenced by the recent Russo-Austrian coalition, Italy, under the leadership of Ferdinand, king of the Two Sicilies, had hopefully sympathized with the allies. Instigated by his wife, Caroline Maria, sister of Marie Antoinette, the Neapolitan king admitted into his dominions a division of the Russian army.

The cause of offense was sufficient; Napoleon, in January of 1806, sent a corps, under his brother Joseph, to occupy Italy. On the 16th of February, having entered Naples, Joseph was proclaimed king, and the Bourbon monarchy was abolished.

Notwithstanding the intended treachery of Frederick William, the Emperor kept faith with him, and delivered Hanover to Prussia. The King was reluctant to accept the gift; for Hanover was England's, and he would fain be at one with England. The principalities along the right bank of the Rhine, even from Italy to Holland, were erected into the Confederation of the Rhine. Fourteen princes of Germany voluntarily detached themselves from their Teutonic affiliations, and carried over a population of about sixteen millions to the French Poland, extending southward into Italy and northward to the Baltic, a great number of dukedoms and principalities were created and conferred on the marshals of the Empire. Murat, husband of Caroline Bonaparte, was made grand duke of Berg and Cleves. Louis became duke of Montebello. Jotot was promoted duke of Abrantes. Bernadotte received the title of prince of Ponte Corvo. Ney got his hard-earned dukedom of Elchingen. Berthier was made duke of Neuchatel and Valangin. Soult became duke of Dalmatia. Massena took his honor as prince of Essling. Davout, after a little delay, was made duke of Auerstadt. Bacciochi, husband of Elise Bonaparte, was created prince of Lucca and Piombino. Eugene Beauharnais was given in marriage Augusta Amelia, daughter of the king of Bavaria, and the title of prince of Venice. The process of king-making and prince-making was limited not so much by the possibilities of territory as by the number of the Imperial retinue.

Prussia now became a scene of stormy agitation. The humiliated House of Hohenzollern looked in this direction and in that. The younger element of the people and the philosophical patriots cried out against the domination of France. Meanwhile, a strange and far-reaching contingency appeared among the personal forces in Europe. Charles James Fox, successor of Pitt, became Minister of Foreign Affairs, under the premiership of Grenville. Fox would fain have peace. He was not devoid of pride as a sentimentalist, and the new political marriage was confirmed in August of 1807. He who had crowned Napoleon in Notre Dame now broke with him—and broke himself against him. In February of 1808 the angry Emperor ordered General Miollis to occupy Rome. He proceeded to punish the Holy Father by taking away the property of Ancona, Macerata, Fermo and Urbino, and annexing them to the kingdom of Italy. Still the Pope would not recede. The dispute became hot, and the Emperor wrested from the supreme pontiff the remainder of the Roman States. The Pope, in June of 1809, hurled back his defiance in a bull of excommunication. On the 6th of July the French took possession of the Quirinal palace, gently seized the Holy Father, and conveyed him prisoner, first to Grenoble, and finally to Fontainebleau.

The Spanish people were the humblest of Catholics. The accession of Joseph Bonaparte as king was strongly opposed by a counter revolution. The patriots who favored the restoration of Ferdinand VII. were headed by the Junta of Seville, and their party was inflamed by a noble religious man, Don Manuel de Arce, who summoned from Cynthiana, a small town near by, Miss Elizabeth Worland and Mollie Wilson had collided with their heads, and both fell unconscious. They were carried from the room and medicated. Summoned from Cynthiana, a small town near by, Miss Wilson was restored to consciousness soon afterward, but all efforts to restore Miss Worland have proved futile, and it is feared her injuries may prove fatal.

David Coes, a young man well known in the neighborhood, was Miss Worland's partner, and on seeing her fall to the floor ran out of the house and has not been heard of since.—Indianapolis Telegraph.

When your heart pains you, and unusual palpitation is frequent, accompanied sometimes with shortness of breath, and low spirits, you are suffering from a disordered state of the liver, digestion is imperfect and there is wind on the stomach. If allowed to remain the trouble will ultimately reach the kidneys, and then becomes dangerous to life. Steps should be taken to stay its progress on the appearance of the first symptoms. Dr. J. H. McLean's Liver and Kidney Balm is adapted for disorders of this kind. Price $1 per bottle. For sale by E. A. Sherwin.

Winter Thoughts From Billville.

We are now offering a half interest in our paper for one overcoat and a pair of snowshoes.

Our strawberry patch is a thing of the past, but we still hope to realize something from it. No strawberries in May are an unusual sight in Georgia.

Quite a number of our relations are now spending the winter and the exposition with us.

We have hung up our linen duster on a pole tree, and we have great hopes that it will thaw out before the middle of August.

People who go fishing in this weather should take a peek along with them, as it's hard work breaking the ice.—Atlanta Constitution.

Persons who are subject to diarrhoea will find a speedy cure in De Witt's Colic and Cholera Cure. Use no other. It is the best that can be made or that can be procured. It leaves the system in natural condition after its use. We sell it. E. A. Sherwin.

Really Bullet Proof.

Japan's small losses in men in the battles with the Chinese were due in part to the accidental use of a bullet proof material. Owing to the severe cold, the Japanese soldiers wore a quantity of floss silk under their clothes. This, when they were hit, was found in many cases to have stopped the bullets.—New York Sun.

We recommend De Witt's Colic and Cholera Cure because we believe it is a safe and reliable remedy. Its good effects are shown at once in cases of Cholera Morbus and similar complaints. E. A. Sherwin.

To Be Led by the Emperor

In the approaching annual maneuvers of the German army the Third and Ninth army corps will join the Second corps and the guards under the personal direction of the emperor. The army will be the largest that has ever taken part in such maneuvers.—Philadelphia Ledger.

The most pleasant little pills for regulating the bowels are De Witt's Little Ear-Risers. Cure sick headache and constipation. Small pill, small dose. E. A. Sherwin.

A Rib Roast.

In Mrs. Stanton's revised edition of General's the new garden of Eden story will be something in the nature of a rib roast.—Chicago Times-Herald.

One Way of Looking at It.

Perhaps the current belief that the new woman smokes is due to the knowledge that she is now a burning question.—Chicago Record.

There is great danger in neglecting Colic, Cholera and similar troubles. The only safe and safe cure is found in De Witt's Colic and Cholera Cure. E. A. Sherwin.

There is one medicine that will cure immediately. We refer to De Witt's Colic and Cholera Cure for all summer complaints. No delay, no disappointment, no failure. E. A. Sherwin.

GREAT BATTLES are continually going on in the human system. Hood's Sarsaparilla drives out disease and restores Health.

driven back by Wellington. A division under Marshal Momey, marching on Valencia, was defeated, as was also General Dupont, in the battle of Baylen, in Andalusia, where the French losses amounted to nearly 20,000. In August of 1808 occurred the siege of Saragossa, memorable alike in history and poetry. Not until February of the following year was the stronghold surrendered to the French, whose losses during the siege are said to have exceeded 50,000!

It was just after these events that the hollow congress was held at Erfurt. By the first week of December, 1809, Napoleon had returned to Paris. During his recent stay in Vienna—perhaps in his conferences with Emperor Francis at Schonbrunn—he had had a thought. There was at that time in the palace of the Hapsburgs a girl just eighteen years of age. Josephine was forty-six and a half!

Symptoms of kidney trouble should be promptly attended to; they are nature's warning that something is wrong. Many more victims of kidney disease who have been saved had they taken proper precautions. The prompt use of Dr. J. H. McLean's Liver and Kidney Balm has saved thousands of valuable lives. If you have any derangement of the kidneys, try it. Price $1 per bottle. For sale by E. A. Sherwin.

SWALLOWED A SNAKE.

The Reptile Grew, but the Child Lost Flesh Until Relieved.

Last June the 7-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Bobben, residing near Gurley's, O., took a drink of water from an open well, and as soon as she had taken it ran to the house and informed her mother that she had swallowed something alive. From that time until last Saturday the child suffered and gradually grew thinner in flesh.

Mrs. Sager of Agosta and Feaster of La Rue were called to the aid of the child. In the meantime the well from which the water was obtained was examined by Mr. and Mrs. Albert Bobben, residing near Gurley's, O., took a drink of water from an open well, and as soon as she had taken it ran to the house and informed her mother that she had swallowed something alive. From that time until last Saturday the child suffered and gradually grew thinner in flesh.

This investigation strengthened the child's story of having swallowed a live object, and she was treated accordingly. There were alternating hopes and fears in her case, and consequently much rejoicing when the treatment proved successful and the little one was relieved of a snake, which measured exactly 12 inches in length, suggesting the evident growth of the young reptile in the year it had inhabited the stomach.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

Travelers find a safe companion in De Witt's Colic and Cholera Cure. A change in drinking water, and from one climate to another, and dangerous complaints. This medicine always cures them. E. A. Sherwin.

Fatal Collision at a Dance.

What may prove a fatal accident occurred at a country dance at Shelbyville Saturday night.

A dance was in progress at the residence of Daniel Meyer, and the merry dancers were enjoying a quadrille when suddenly two of the participants fell to the floor. Miss Elizabeth Worland and Mollie Wilson had collided with their heads, and both fell unconscious. They were carried from the room and medicated. Summoned from Cynthiana, a small town near by, Miss Wilson was restored to consciousness soon afterward, but all efforts to restore Miss Worland have proved futile, and it is feared her injuries may prove fatal.

David Coes, a young man well known in the neighborhood, was Miss Worland's partner, and on seeing her fall to the floor ran out of the house and has not been heard of since.—Indianapolis Telegraph.

A Paternal Lullaby.

Rock-a-by, baby, on the tree top. Papa will soothe your weeping to sleep; Mamma is anxious to vote like a man, And we've got to hush the best that we can.

Rock-a-by, baby, on the tree top. Mamma is busy electing a Pop; Sister is hunting the pattern she'd like. For bloomers, and grandma is riding a bike.

Rock-a-by, baby, and when you're asleep. Father his dates at the office will keep. For his place he will lose if too long he delays, And he'll tend babies the rest of his days.

—Washington Star.

Dr. J. H. McLean's Strengthening Cordial and Blood Purifier is admirably adapted to make "a little go a long way." Its curative power is largely attributable to its stimulant, tonic and nutritive properties, by which the energy of the system is renovated. It is pleasant to the taste, easily borne on the stomach and harmless under prolonged use. Price $1 per bottle. For sale by E. A. Sherwin.

For Over Fifty Years.

An old and well-tried remedy.—Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup has been used for children by millions of mothers for their children while teething, with perfect success. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain, cures wind colic, and is the best remedy for Diarrhoea. It is pleasant to the taste, sold by druggists in every part of the world. Twenty-five cents a bottle. Its value is incalculable. Be sure and ask for Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup, and take no other kind.
