Tidings for Job Printing.

Cats.
New York has just had a cat show, which was so successful an enterprise that other cat shows are sure to be held there in the years to come. All lovers of cats will no doubt rejoice at this consideration given their pets, and we are sure, will resent the sneers recently leveled at the feline race by the one New York paper whose editor once invented and still maintains the jocular fiction that he keeps an office cat for the purpose of destroying pieces of manuscript that do not meet his views as to excellence.

The jeers at Grimalkin in question were printed in the same paragraph that spoke in praise of Fido. It appears that the master of a certain dog fell off the foot one day recently in New York and straightway became a drowned body. True to the loyal instincts of his race, the dog remained upon the dock near the place of his master's final disappearance, thus giving another example of canine fidelity and affection. This coming to the ear of the editor, he called attention to the circumstance, and then, in a spirit of invidious comparison, asked who could relate a similar story of feline devotion to a member of the human race.

Perhaps no one can, but in humanity patriotism is considered as high a virtue as personal affection, if not of higher grade, and, as every one who has studied the feline nature knows, the overmastering instinct of every cat is love of place. He is a poor coot indeed in the view of most persons who does not love the place of his nativity or of his long residence, unless that place be utterly bare of attractions, and none are more extravagantly lauded than those who go forth to do battle for home and country.

Who cannot relate stories of cats braving every danger, when ruthlessly torn from the homes they love so well, in order to return to them? Does not every school-boy know of the annual processions of home seeking cats which cross the Brooklyn bridge in opposite directions on the night of May 1, which is moving day at the Hudson's month? Indeed this remarkable propensity has been chosen as a theme for the poet, and set to music. Who has not heard the inspiring song:

And the cat came back,
For he wouldn't stay away!
For the love of home so universally displayed by the great cat family we are of the opinion that the dog for the blind affection displayed for his dead master. And at the same time, in considering the relative merits of the cat and the dog, it should be remembered that a hundred persons are bitten by dogs, vagrant and otherwise, in every city at least a hundredfold more cats than dogs.

Let us give the purring cat her just dues.

Weather Changes.
Close observers of an ingenious turn are sure that the changes in the weather were invented for the purpose of conversation. There may be something in this theory, but we are inclined to think that they are more for the purpose of giving consolation to chronic invalids. "I felt very bad yesterday, when the wind was in the east," groans the sick person, or "I feel much better today, the sun shines so brightly," or "When the wind is in the north, my rheumatism troubles me." And so they go on until at last there does come a day which not only benefits, but cures; when the doctor can be dispensed with and the undertaker observes that the gentleman has a fine day for his funeral. But all levity aside, such changes in the weather as we have had recently would be more honored in the breach than in the observance, even though they gave the invalid less to think about and hampered the person we meet in the street who uses the subject as an always timely one. It is reported that the recent frost-killed the grape crop in some large localities, ruined cherries and many other kinds of small fruits. Yet it may not be as severe as it seems. Ill news always travels rapidly and delights in superlatives.

FLINGS AT GOTHAM.
New York is a safe place for a cat show. Cats have nine lives apiece.—Chicago Record.

It is the general belief that when Mr. Roosevelt gets in good working order as police commissioner something in New York will be heard to buzz.—Indianapolis News.

New York is very progressive. It seems that she even insists upon having her own reports made to meet conditions ten years in advance of the time.—Chicago Record.

It will be an astonishing thing for New Yorkers when a detective who gets drunk and assaults women and children is not acquitted by the court while his victims go to jail.—New York Commercial Advertiser.

New York could only muster about 1,886,000 inhabitants according to her latest police census, and she counted Hetty Green and several thousand other homeless plutocrats who are prowling about Gotham trying to pick up a precarious living.—Chicago Dispatch.

GREAT BATTLES are continually going on in the human system. Hood's Sarsaparilla drives out disease and restores health.

De Witt's Colic and Cholera Cure never disappoints, never fails to give immediate relief. It cures just as sure as you take it. E. A. Sherwin.

CURRENT COMMENT.

"Tribly soda water" is sold by the glass and not by the foot.—Seneca County Journal.

Next to a fender, the greatest need of our electric cars is a good power brake.—Chicago Journal.

Speed more than beauty seems to be the motto of the Defender's builders. Well, "pretty is as pretty does."—Boston Transcript.

A new novel has the hero and heroine happily married in the last chapter. It never will have much of a sale.—Los Angeles Express.

An Indian girl complains because she was sold by her father instead of going away with a slice of his money like rich white girls.—Chicago Post.

In paying off her war debt China might find it advisable to raise a few thousand tons by auctioning off some of her war gods as bric-a-brac.—Washington Star.

It is the fin de siècle reader that makes the fin de siècle book. The writers of current fiction merely cater to their customers and fill the orders placed with them.—Chicago Journal.

Mrs. Perry has begun a lecture tour to get money to bring her husband home. It is not complimentary to American public spirit that she should be reduced to this expedient.—Boston Globe.

It is now thought that the World's fair medals will be ready to distribute by August next. They should certainly be worked off before the next quarter-century.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

We venture to repeat editorially that certain bicycle riders in this town are criminally careless in the way they dash at people, wagons and even trolley cars. Some day somebody will get hurt.—Hartford Courant.

The Serbian government, which is bankrupt, continues to make lavish grants to the reigning family. Presently Serbia will be wiped off the map if Austria and Russia can agree on the way it shall be dismembered.—Buffalo Express.

Opals cut round like pearls are the present craze among gems.

Wreaths of small flowers are worn around the hair at the back with evening dress.

Colored cambric handkerchiefs in pale shades of mauve, green and yellow, with triple hems of white finely hemstitched, are a new fancy.

The continued popularity of the shirt waists is greater by the demand for them, which is greater than ever before, and they come in greater variety.

A substitute for haircloth comes in a new material called gazeline. It is a kind of open canvas which holds its stiffness and can be used next to thin fabrics.

White alpaca, both plain and figured, is one of the fashionable materials for garden party gowns, and the waists are made of white satin trimmed with lace or of fancy gowns.

A very pretty tuck is given to the new striped silk blouses by making the collar and cuffs of batiste to match the color in the stripe and trimming the edges with narrow lace.

Gauze ribbon ruchings are very much liked for trimmings, especially in black on dark materials. There is nothing softer and prettier than a gauze ruching of black for the collar of a cape or a wrap.

White cloth is used to pipe overlapped seams in the skirts of cloth dresses, and white kid embroidered in persian colors is a novelty for vests of such gowns, which are usually made with short-godeted coats.

Colored linen and duck gowns, made in the coat and skirt style, are to be as much worn as they were last year, and more fancy dresses of linen are trimmed with white or colored embroidery to match the gown.—New York Sun.

PEN, CHISEL AND BRUSH.

Miss M. E. Braddon will write two more novels to complete a contract, and then retire from literary work.

Aubrey Beardsley, it is said, has written a play in which the characters are to assume, as far as possible, the forms and features of his drawings.

The London Spectator wants William Watson appointed as poet laureate. It also thinks that he should have a pension from the literary fund largely increased.

Leslie Wilson, the black and white artist, whose work adorns the pages of the best London weeklies, is one of Kent's leading cricketers and has made some remarkable scores.

M. Jules Verne, though in his seventyninth year, works for five or six hours a day. He is now engaged upon a story for 1897, but he has five manuscripts ready for the printers.

Mr. Bruce-Jay, the sculptor, exhibits a bust of Chaucer Dewey at the Royal Academy in London this year. Owing to an accident the sculptor could do but little work this year, but is now said to be fully recovered.

Nora Perry, the poetess and gifted and successful writer of stories for young girls, has a talismanic moonstone to which she attributes much of her success and good luck, and with which nothing would induce her to part.

HORSE TALK.

Peoria, Ill., is to have a new mill track. Zola, by Wikkie Collins, is the odd pedigree of a Buffalo horse.

James Gordon Bennett has become an ardent devotee of trotting.

Connor, 2:18 3/4, trotting, will be converted to the pacing gait this season.

Havenna Wilkes, a 7-year-old green mare Red Wilkes, is said to be able to beat 2:30.

Rev. T. De Witt Talmage recently paid $1,750 for the handsome team, Phantom and Phylla.

John Kelly, Director's old trainer, thinks he has another Little Albert in Dudley Oloot, 2:18 3/4.

Cock Robin, a green one in Barney Demarest's stable at Baltimore, recently trotted a mile in 2:22 3/4.

Those who have concluded that Mascot is a back number may have occasion to change their minds before fall.

Bob Kneels has been notified that he has been acquitted by the German authorities on one of the charges against him.

When Hiram Woodruff controlled Flora Temple, she was one of the squarest of trotters, but the best she could do was 2:47 3/4, and that was the fastest heat ever trotted.

Mrs. Ina Cohen, Oakland, Cal., plays the races daily at the Bay District track. She has had extraordinary success, and, having invented a system, has decided to become a professional tipster.

"A yearling has no specific value. You might buy a Henry of Navarre for $500, or you might buy a Boker for $50,000. No body ever paid too much for a colt or too little. I paid $100,000 for St. Blaise. If he proves a failure, I will sell him for $5, or give him away," says Charles Reed.

There comes a time to all of us, when we feel mean and "out of sorts" and in a condition to invite disease. It is then we need such a remedy as Dr. J. H. McLean's Strengthening Cordial and Blood Purifier.

To persons exhausted by sickness or overwork, this invigorating influence is surprising in its power to restore health, energy and cheerful spirits. Price $1 per bottle. For sale by E. A. Sherwin.

THE MERCHANT'S DAUGHTER.

Her father was a merchant bold
Who o'er the wild Biscayan water
Still brought back the good red gold
To richly dower his only daughter.

Radiant she as rose on tree;
But, though full many a gallant sought
her,
No, no, not on all their woo
Prowled back the merchant's daughter.

Uglt, effluent from the fight
That shook the shores from France to Flanders,
Shone upon her patriot sight
The lightest of our sea commanders,
Looked her through, and from her view
Vanished smiling, on the morrow.

Ah! but she her laughing glee
Pursued for sighing sorrow.
"Fair blows the wind; the skies are blue.
Will sail with me, my winsome daughter?"
"That will I! Dear friends, adieu!"
And o'er the wave her air has caught
her.

Southward far, by sun and star,
His good ship fleets the ocean over,
When, aloft across her track
There strikes a Sable rover.

But as the pirate pressed them sore,
An' deck and hold ran red with slaughter,
Sudden round the headland hoar
A noble warship heaved the water.

Heaven above! 'tis her true love
That hath this great delirium wrought
her.
Grief, farewell, woe, marriage hall,
For our best merchant's daughter!
—Alfred Perceval Graves in Athenaeum.

Dr. J. H. McLean's Strengthening Cordial and Blood Purifier is admirably adapted to make "a little go a long way." Its curative power is largely attributable to its stimulant, tonic and nutritive properties, by which the energy of the system is recruited. It is pleasant to the taste, easily borne on the stomach and harmless under prolonged use. Price $1 per bottle. For sale by E. A. Sherwin.

An Electro-Magnetic Cannon.

This recent invention is dependent for its action upon the principle of the force of attraction and repulsion as caused by magnetism. A brass tube, 5 feet long, 2 1/2 inches in diameter and 1 inch bore, was wrapped with insulated wire along its entire length, the current flowing through different sections of the windings in such a manner as to cause the bullets to become temporary magnets, which were attracted by the magnetic lines of force ahead of them and repelled by those behind them, thus giving the projectiles an increasing impetus as they pass along the gun. The bullets are thrown forward in much the same manner as the armature of an electric motor is turned on its axis. The cannon is light, inexpensive, and its capacity for throwing projectiles depends on the rapidity of loading the same. It is estimated that a five-foot gun, requiring 500 volts and 100 amperes, will throw a one-pound ball 1,000 feet, with a striking velocity of 100 pounds.—Boston Journal of Commerce.

Travelers find a safe companion in De Witt's Colic and Cholera Cure. A change in drinking water and in diet often causes severe and dangerous complaints. This medicine always cures them. E. A. Sherwin.

Got What She Asked For.

She was rebuking a trunk.
"I want one," she said, "that cannot be opened by the regulation trunk key that everybody uses."
"All right," said the dealer. "I will see that you have one."
The next day the trunk was sent home, and a few hours later the purchaser appeared at the trunk store.

"I told you," she said, "that I wanted a trunk that could not be opened by the regulation trunk key."
"That's what I sent you."
"Why, any trunk key in the house will unlock that trunk."
"You said the regulation trunk key. Have you tried a hairpin?"

Then she went home and wept when she found that she couldn't unlock that trunk with a hairpin.—Detroit Free Press.

Persons who are subject to diarrhoea will find a speedy cure in De Witt's Colic and Cholera Cure. Use no other. It is the best that can be made or that money can procure. It leaves the system in natural condition after its use. We sell it. E. A. Sherwin.

William Morris.

William Morris, the English poet, rejoices in the possession of a prodigious memory. Given a fair start on any sentence in Dickens' works, he will complete that sentence with very little deviation from textual accuracy. Were every copy of "Pickwick Papers" destroyed today William Morris could write the book almost word for word as it now stands.

We recommend De Witt's Colic and Cholera Cure because it gives relief in every case of Cholera Morbus and similar complaints. E. A. Sherwin.

Letter Day Luxuries.

Fashionable Physician—You will have to give up city life, Mr. Million.

Wealthy Patient—I will travel in Europe a few years, if you say so.

Physician—It would be better for you to stay here and conduct a model farm.

Wealthy Patient—Oh, I can't afford that.—New York Weekly.

When your heart pains you and unusual palpitation is frequent, accompanied sometimes with shortness of breath and low spirits you are suffering from a disordered state of the liver, digestion is imperfect and there is wind on the stomach. If allowed to remain the trouble will ultimately reach the kidneys and then becomes dangerous to life. Steps should be taken to stay its progress on the appearance of the first symptoms. Dr. J. H. McLean's Liver and Kidney Balm is especially adapted for disorders of this kind. Price $1 per bottle. For sale by E. A. Sherwin.

AN ELEPHANT'S TENDER CARE.

When Left to Watch Children He Will Faithfully Protect Them.

The whole family of the mahout become, as it were, parasites to the elephant, by whom they earn their living. I have seen a baby placed by its mother systematically under the elephant's care and within reach of its trunk, while the mother went to fetch water or to get wood or material to cook the family dinner. No jackal or wolf would be likely to pick up and carry off a baby who was thus confined to the care of an elephant, but most people who have lived a life in the jungle know how very possible it is for a jackal or wolf to carry off a baby when lying in a hut when the mother's back is turned.

The children thus brought up in the companionship of an elephant become familiar with him and take all kinds of liberties with him, which the elephant seems to endure on the principle that it does not hurt him, while it amuses the child. You see a little naked black child about 2 feet high standing on the elephant's bare back and taking it down to the water to bathe, shouting all the time in the most unbecoming terms of native abusive language.

On arriving at the water the elephant, ostensibly in obedience to the child's command, lies down and enjoys himself, just leaving a part of his body, like a small island, above the water, on which the small child stands and yells and yells all the more if he has several companions of his own age, also in charge of their elephants, all wallowing in the water around him. If the child slips off his island, the elephant's trunk promptly replaces him in safety. The little urchins as they grow up become first mates to mahouts and eventually arrive at the dignity of being mahouts themselves.—Omaha World-Herald.

The most pleasant little pills for regulating the bowels are De Witt's Little Early Risers. Cure sick headache and constipation. Small pill, small dose. E. A. Sherwin.

Symptoms of kidney trouble should be promptly attended to if they are nature's warnings that something is wrong. Many persons die victims of kidney disease who could have been saved had they taken proper precautions. The prompt use of Dr. J. H. McLean's Liver and Kidney Balm has saved thousands of valuable lives. If you have any derangement of the kidney, try it. Price $1 per bottle. For sale by E. A. Sherwin.
