Speaking of the Populist movement, John J. Ingalls, who is dead, but who is afflicted with an incurable malady; its pulse flutters; its respiration is labored; its temperature is low. The undertaker is waiting.

Coxey, who is running for Governor in Ohio, has been making his campaign speeches in Texas and Oklahoma, so it seems the old man really has tact enough to talk without irritating the people whose votes he wants to get.—[Ex.]

A meeting of people of the northwest interested in mining has been called to be held at Spokane, Wash., Oct. 21 and 22, and a general invitation to all mining men in the northwest has been extended, the object being the formation of an association to bring the mining men of the country into closer relations.

A statement issued by five of the leading smelters of Colorado for the first six months of 1895 shows an increase of 87 per cent in the production of gold. It is estimated that the total output of gold in that state the present year may possibly reach $20,000,000. One half of this amount will come from Cripple Creek. The gain in the production of silver over 1894 was but 4 per cent while lead sustained a loss of 3 per cent.

The sporting world is becoming anxious about the coming world's-championship pugilistic contest between Bob Fitzsimmons and Jim Corbett, next month. Corbett says the contest will come off on the date set, and the mayor of Dallas, Texas, where the fight is billed to occur, and where a great auditorium capable of seating over 50,000 people is being built for the occasion, says it will not be permitted. The Texas governor is still dodging the issue, and the chances are he will continue to do so until the brutal contest has settled the ownership of the belt.

The S. F. papers have been soliciting the opinions of prominent physicians there upon the effects of bicycling upon the physical being. The preponderance of opinions seems to be against the wheel as a health giving institution, principally through on account of the excesses and some "fadly" features of it indulged in. The bicycle craze may result in many crooked and diseased spines but it has so many advantages in the way of pleasurable exercise and usefulness that it will take more than a medical doctor's opinion to frighten its devotees off their wheels.

The Mineral Lands Committee of the State Miners' Association will accept the proposition to appoint a commission of two experts to settle the disputes between the miners and the Southern Pacific. A resolution was adopted declaring it the sense of the meeting that the committee decline the proposition to have only two commissioners, desiring three, and also that the committee declines to withdraw its list of selections unless the railroad company also withdraw its list of selections until the commission has taken action. Meantime it is said the railroad folks are getting quietly ahead securing title to their claimed lands.

The Yreka papers give the name of the unfortunate man killed by the cars at Montague last Friday evening as J. H. Bash, from Riddle, Or., and it is intimated that he had been drinking before the accident happened. Bash is said to have been a Mason but a telegraphic inquiry brought a reply from Riddle that he was "skipping the country."

The British tramp steamer Bawmore was wrecked off the coast near Marshfield last week. Late advices are that 28 of the crew of 30 were taken off safely. One of the crew was killed and another fatally injured. The steamer will be a total loss, as she is lying on the rocks. She was valued at $125,000, and her cargo at $60,000. There is some insurance on both.

Jeff Dodson, a resident of Warner valley, and pretty well known at Lakeview, went to San Francisco recently to be treated for paralysis of the face. After examination by Dr. Lane the trouble was found to be a tumor of the head. An operation was performed, at which time his eye was taken out and the tumor removed. The doctor pronounced it a fatal case, and he died a day or so after the operation was performed. Mr. Dodson leaves a young wife and two children to mourn his loss.

Harry Gilvin, brakeman on the north-bound freight, met with a serious accident at Glendale yesterday. The breakage of the air brake caused a sudden stoppage of his car. He threw his hand over the drawhead to steady himself while he leaned forward to look ahead, and when the car started forward struck the ends of his fingers over the drawhead and crushed them. He came on to the city and Dr. Bradley amputated the fractured bones and Mr. Gilvin is all right, save the loss of two fingers.—Roseburg Plaindealer.

The discharge from the state insane asylum last week of Dr. J. C. Read, the premier-bank robber, provokes no little comment. Rev. Read's sensational career is fresh in the minds of the public. His first act was to skip out from his parsonage at East Portland for the east, leaving his clothing on the banks of the river to indicate that he had been drowned. He was afterward located in Missouri, and, returning, he created a great sensation by "holding up" the East Portland bank in broad daylight, but his efforts were frustrated by people who discovered him from across the street. His subsequent trial resulted in an acquittal on the grounds that he was insane, confinement in the asylum following. Rev. Read is said to be just as crazy now as he ever was, though at the trial he was generally held responsible for his act in attempting the bank robbery, which was supposed to have been superintended by the reading of a blood and thunder dime novel.

THE DISTRICT FAIR.

The second exhibition of the First Southern Oregon District Agricultural Society will open at the Central Point fair grounds Tuesday, October 8, 1895, and continue five days. The district comprises four counties, Jackson, Josephine, Lake and Klamath. There is appropriated by the state for the use of this district in the payment of premiums, the sum of nine hundred dollars per year, three hundred of which Lake and Klamath counties receive and pay out at their fair held at Lakeview, and the $600 balance will be paid out for premiums at Central Point.

The charges for entering articles or stock for cash premiums is 10 per cent of the first and second premiums offered. The camp grounds will be free to all and admittance to the fair grounds will be through the camp ground gate. All teams will be admitted to the fair grounds the first day free of charge. The S. P. R. K. Co., at stations where they have agents from Coos and Jackson counties to Ashland, will sell tickets to Central Point and return at one and one-third fare for the round trip. On freight for exhibition at the fair tariff rates will be charged to Central Point, but on presentation of a certificate signed by J. H. Downing, secretary, that the exhibitor has been on Ashland, and will not be charged as in former years at the race track gate, but to those who wish to occupy seats in the grand stand there will be a charge of 10 cents. Girls and boys under 12 years of age will be admitted to the grounds free.

It ought not to be necessary to use argument or illustration to convince anyone of the importance of the success of these fairs. The resources of the country are varied and people who are visiting any section with a view to investment or residence, will select just such occasions to ascertain the worth of the section and the extent and value of its productions. If proper exhibits are made they will be seen, if not made then the verdict of strangers will be that we have not got them. We need and can accommodate a much larger population than we have at present, and no kind of advertising is so potent as good for this purpose as being able to show what we have instead of depending altogether upon the enterprise of real estate dealers to tell about it.

Again, competition in an effort to produce the best stimulates a greater development of our resources in a laudable ambition to outdo, and a just and honest pride in seeing one's productions admired. This depends not on the committee of arrangements, but on the loyalty, pride and industry of all the people. Nature has done something and if we do our duty we will present exhibits that will astonish even ourselves. We can vie with any country under the sun and we want the world to know it. Come then and enjoy a few days of rest and recreation where good music will cheer the ear and the products of our fair land the eye.

A Delightful Entertainment.

The Misses Webber of London, England, will appear at the Opera House, Ashland, Thursday evening, Sept. 12, under the auspices of Hope Rebekah Degree Lodge, I. O. O. F. of Ashland. The ladies are accompanied by Miss F. M. Kenrick, pianiste, a graduate of the Royal Academy of Music, London. They render a truly delightful entertainment, judging from Press notices that have been received, the program comprising vocal and instrumental selections, character songs, etc. Speaking of the entertainment the Tacoma Ledger says:

An entertainment that had the charm of novelty added to its music, the attraction was that given by the Misses Webber, of London, England, at the Ninth street theater last evening. The program was a most interesting one. The Misses Webber are three charming, bright eyed and clever young English girls who speak with a very attractive English accent, whose readings and recitations are excellently chosen, who sing and dance well and who somehow have either failed to acquire or have totally shaken off the manners and affectations of the provincial stage. Their entertainment is none the less artistic for the absence of this quality, their sketches and special songs, which are with exquisite grace and skill and have a novelty and freshness that is all their own.

Admission 25c. Reserved seats 50c, on sale at Opera House Grocery.

Schools open Monday, Sept. 24. D. L. Minkler & Son keep the books and supplies.

"Coin" on the Stage.

Chicago, Sept. 2.—Probably the most novel stage production ever witnessed in Chicago was given last night before a large audience at the Chicago opera house. It was a dramatization of free silver in politics, and judging by the remarkable circumstances attending the first public performance the piece may not unlikely attract widespread attention.

"The Silver Lining," is the name of the play. The theme was suggested by "Coin" occupied a proscenium box. The hissing of lines early in the piece, presumably by anti-silver sympathizers, caused no little excitement, which was increased when, after the second act, it was evident the piece had made a hit.
