NOTICE TO ALL WATER USERS.

The Water Committee of the Common Council of the city of Ashland has divided the city into two irrigation and sprinkling districts, as follows:

That portion of the city lying below the Boulevard and Main street is to be known as Lower District and the water users in said district are allowed to use water for irrigation and sprinkling between the hours of 5 o'clock A. M. and 10 o'clock A. M. and between the hours of 5 o'clock P. M. and 10 o'clock P. M. on Monday, Wednesday and Friday, and between the hours of 5 o'clock A. M. and 10 o'clock A. M. on Sunday.

That portion of the city lying above the Boulevard and Main street is to be known as Upper District and water users in said district will be allowed to use water for irrigation and sprinkling between the hours of 5 o'clock A. M. and 10 o'clock A. M. and between the hours of 5 o'clock P. M. and 10 o'clock P. M. on Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday, and between the hours of 5 o'clock P. M. and 10 o'clock P. M. on Sunday.

And further notice is hereby given that it is a violation to use water for irrigation or sprinkling, other than is stated in the foregoing, and it is also a violation

To allow faucets to leak. To allow water to run to waste. To allow water to run on the streets or sidewalk.

To use water for irrigation other than through a nozzle in the hand or by a set sprinkler when you are paying for sprinkling privileges only. Or to irrigate more ground than you are paying for.

And any person or persons convicted of any such violation are subject to a fine in the Recorder's Court. This order will be in force and effect July 16th, 1912.

By order of the Water Committee. J. G. HURT, City Recorder.

A Mountain Elopement

By HELEN HARWOOD

There are no mountains in the world about which there is so much in song and story as the Alps. Doubtless the reason for this is that they lie in the center of Europe and no one can go from France or Germany down into Italy or farther eastward to Austria without passing over them.

Years ago, before the Alps had come to contain fashionable resorts, there lived at Como, on their southern slope, a gentleman who, having made a fortune in Milan, retired to spend his days in peace on the beautiful Lake Como. He was a widower with one daughter, a charming girl, upon whom he doted. Italians have always arranged the marriages for their sons and daughters, and Signor Attanasio betrothed his daughter, Theresa, to a man more than double her age. Knowing that at his death she would need a protector and considering Signor Rizzuto a man of business who would take care of her property for her, he considered that he had done a very good thing for his child.

But, unfortunately for his plan, he died before the marriage could be brought about. After the funeral Rizzuto claimed his bride, who was also his ward, but found, to his disappointment, that she had a lover in the person of Giovanni Fabroni. Rizzuto was not minded to give her up to his young rival and so informed her. Having certain powers over her as her guardian, Theresa and her lover saw that if she refused to marry the man to whom her father had given her she might put her in confinement and persecute her till she consented to be his wife.

The lovers therefore decided to go away together. Southward, eastward and westward lay Italian territory in which the guardian could invoke the law. Northward was Switzerland, in which he would have no claim upon her. But to go northward meant to cross the Alps, and that at that time was a difficult and dangerous feat to accomplish. Nevertheless, taking the horses and carriage that had belonged to Signor Attanasio, Giuseppe, the coachman, and Elena, the mistress' maid, both of whom would give their lives for their mistress, they started to go as far as wheels would take them and then endeavor, if they could not find sledges, to pursue their journey on foot.

They set out after they were supposed to be in bed, and Rizzuto did not learn of their departure till morning. Being a very energetic man and spurred to the probable loss of his ward's fortune, he started in pursuit, having learned the direction the fugitives had taken. It was in the latter part of May, and he knew that this, being the season of melting snow, was the most dangerous period in the Alps. Moreover, he did not believe that the lovers could go very far in a carriage or that they could secure any further conveyances. Besides, it would be an easy matter to track them by the marks they would leave in the snow.

The lovers reached Locarno, a village on Lake Maggiore, then drove over a gently rising road to the foot of the St. Gothard pass. On this road they traveled all day and in the evening left it for concealment in a Swiss cabin. Early in the morning they started to go over the pass, leaving the carriage, but taking the horses, on one of which Theresa rode, while the maid rode the other, the men walking. After making a part of the ascent they saw the guardian's carriage coming rapidly up the valley through which they had passed.

They tolled on as rapidly as possible till they came to a point where they were screened from below and where there was a pocket in the mountains. The wind had driven the snow from here, enabling Giovanni to practice a stratagem. He sent the coachman and the maid with the horses on through the pass, while he and Theresa turned into the pocket, which led into the pass again farther on. Rizzuto, reaching this diverging point, hesitated, then went on through the pass, taking up the tracks left by the coach man and the maid.

It was several hours after this that Giovanni and Theresa reached an eminence where they could look over a narrow gorge upon the road on the other side. On this road they saw Rizzuto's carriage. He saw them and called on his driver to stop and, getting out of the carriage, called over to the fugitives to give themselves up since they could not escape him.

He was on a road that had been cut through the side of a mountain, which extended above him thousands of feet. It was one of those balmy days in spring when the air is laden with moisture, though the sun shines bright and warm—just such a day as Alpine dwellers fear the avalanche. Though Rizzuto was half a mile distant from the fugitives, his voice sounded as if he were close to them. Just as he pronounced the words "can't escape me" Giovanni and Theresa saw the whole side of the mountain opposite seem to slide slowly downward. It gathered rapidly as it sank, and in a few moments they saw it pass over Rizzuto and his party, burying them a hundred feet deep. The snow had been so evenly balanced that it required only the sound of a voice to vibrate the air sufficiently to bring it down.

The lovers retraced their steps and were married at the bride's home.

HORN BROOK ITEMS.

There was an extra large attendance at the tea given by Mrs. Dr. Pimell at her home last Wednesday. The people expect an extra good time when they go there and are never disappointed. Mrs. Pimell had the gospel measure of good things for the ladies who came.

The famous Indian Girl mine eight miles below Hornbrook is showing greater values than ever and promises to be one of the best gold producers in the country.

Mr. Lewis Niles, Mr. Joe Niles and Henry Walters, who are working, one of them in Hilt and the other two nearby, were visitors at Hornbrook Saturday night and Sunday. On their return to Hilt Sunday evening Miss Eda Mae and Elmer Walters accompanied them. The crowd took a trip to Soda Bar. Miss Eda Mae and Elmer Walters returned home on the 7 o'clock train.

Mr. and Mrs. Gillette of Garvey Bar were visiting in town last week. Mrs. Hawley of Yreka was visiting with the A. B. Smith family on Camp creek recently.

Mrs. Myrtle Strobeck has returned to Beswick to finish her term of school.

The Calvin mine on Hungry creek, in the Cottonwood mining district, was sold last week to capitalists from Portland, Ore. The price was not given out.

Mary Jane Galpin came up from Montague to visit relatives.

Hornbrook baseball boys played with Yreka at Hornbrook Sunday. Yreka had some fine players, and yet our home team gave them a tussel. It was a close game, 7 to 5, in favor of Yreka.

It is reported that three tumors were taken from George Rader's head and that he is improving nicely. He has been in Grants Pass, under the care of a specialist.

Mr. and Mrs. Wood of Nolton came up on Wednesday and took the train for Ashland to visit Mrs. Wood's mother, who is 96 years old and ill.

Forest Ranger James T. Richardson, who has had charge of the Goose Nest district of the Klamath forest, and Russell Walker bought the Hornbrook-Hamburg stage line last week from Quigley Brothers. Mr. Richardson has resigned from the forest service to take charge of the business.

Mrs. M. Van Victor and daughter Mildred and Mr. E. R. Greave and Mrs. Greave and their daughter visited Ashland to take in the Chautauqua last week.

Alfred Clawson accidentally shot himself through the right hand with a .38-calibre pistol the first of last week. The ball went through the palm without breaking any bones.

It is reported by friends that T. Jones and Gordon Jacobs and their wives will make an auto trip to Bend, Ore., Crescent City and home by way of Grants Pass. D. M. Horn will be the chauffeur.

G. A. Johnston, Dr. Richardson, Gordon Jacobs, Sam Meeker and Bud Wilson were on a fishing trip on Jenny creek and Fall creek last week. The catch is reported to be 300 fish.

Jack Shultz and Don Drake have gone to Scott's Valley, where they expect to find work in the summer.

R. B. Bishop has gone to Fort Jones, where he will be employed at the Golden Eagle Mine.

Roy Drake has gone to Medford to work for L. J. Miksche.

Miss Hallie Hobson, who has been working for some time at the Hotel Montague, has returned home.

Mrs. E. Hobson has accompanied Mrs. J. O. Jillson to Ashland, where they will visit friends.

Mrs. Spannaus has been entertaining her cousin, Mrs. Blakley, a few days.

F. M. Smith returned on Wednesday from San Francisco, where he had gone with his daughter Mildred, who is visiting her sister Martha. On his return he stopped at Dunsmuir to visit his son, S. J. Smith, and at Yreka to visit his daughter, Mrs. Eugene Dowling.

Ruth Niles of Montague was a visitor in Hornbrook Sunday.

Mr. F. Niles and Mrs. Niles were in Hornbrook Sunday, visiting with the Rev. Walters' family.

Mrs. H. Dosier of Hilt and Bell Dohlhide of this place, who is spending some weeks with Mrs. Dosier, were visitors in Hornbrook Sunday.

Mrs. N. D. Chase and Arthur and Ruth Chase were visiting Mrs. D. Stalleup of Henley, Saturday.

It is known among a few of Mr. Joe Niles' best friends that he was carrying a secret sorrow about with him last week. It was not a matter of the heart, as one might well suppose. It was much more painful.

Now these good friends would not have this get out for anything, so if the editor will promise not to mention the matter—well, here goes: It's a boil.

When the Siskiyou Electric Power & Light Company purchased the Harrison Ward ranch, on the Klamath river, it was found to contain a small cemetery of about a dozen graves. When the surveys were completed it was shown that the graves will be covered with water when the dam is completed. At the request of the relatives of the deceased, the company has decided to have all the bodies removed to the Hornbrook cemetery. Scofield & Herman Company have the contract and have sent H. G. Brantlatch to Hornbrook to secure the lots and dig the graves. Mr. Brantlatch went to Ward on the 13th and buried the remains at Hornbrook on Tuesday, July 16, at 2 o'clock p. m. Following are the names of decedents to be removed: Harrison Ward, Henry Hoover, Ben Davis, Henry Ampter, Frank Picard, Mrs. Frank Picard, a son of Henry Ampter, a son of Mrs. V. T. Dorris, and an Indian named Alum.

Is trying, and we believe successfully trying, to do for the moral, intellectual and the physical welfare of its boys what thoughtful parents most wish to have done. Contributive to this end are the location of the school, removed from the temptations and distractions of town or city, the fineness of its climate, the excellence of its buildings and other equipment, and the beauty and extent of its grounds, with the wide range of foothills surrounding them. We are glad to have our patrons and graduates consulted. For catalogue and other specific information address the Head Master.

If you are a housewife you cannot reasonably hope to be healthy or beautiful by washing dishes, sweeping and doing housework all day, and crawling into bed dead tired at night. You must get out into the open air and sunlight. If you do this every day and keep your stomach and bowels in good order by taking Chamberlain's Tablets when needed, you should become both healthy and beautiful. For sale by Poley's Drug Store.
