GYPSIES BID FAREWELL

Nomads Prove Undesirable and Are Asked to Move—Spent Two Days as Guests of City.

Last week was marked by the introduction of a band of Gypsies into Ashland, a dozen or more of these popular nomads blowing in contemporaneously with the Wild West show. They lasted just two days, being told by the authorities on the morning of the third day that their presence was no longer desired. During those two days, however, they made themselves familiar with the business section of the city and had secured a good start on the residence sections. Thinly clad, untidy and possessed of a goodly supply of initiative, they entered stores and offices at will and plied their trade with the diligence and persistence of a mosquito.

The band had paid their license fee of $15, which entitled them to the freedom of the city for thirty days, this class of mendicants being covered by a city ordinance which stipulates the license fee. But complaints were so numerous and so strenuous that the authorities decided to take the matter in hand and the band departed Thursday morning, packed several deep in their three small wagons. Whether they were bound no one knows. They started east and are likely in California or eastern Oregon by this time.

The story is told of one man who submitted to the entreaties of a member of the band for a chance to tell his fortune. The price asked was only a nickel and the subject thought his fortune was made. But he pulled out a five-dollar gold piece instead of the nickel and the bronze lady was about to make way with it. It required all the wits of the victim and two others to hold the Gypsy until the police could be summoned. As it was, the gentleman gladly gave up a half dollar in return for peaceable surrender of the five. Many similar experiences could doubtless be related.

STRIKE ARTESIAN FLOW.

Klamath Falls Company Gets Water at 74 Feet.

Ample artesian water has been developed by the Klamath Falls Light & Water Company on its property on Conger avenue, acquired from Evan R. Reames, to assure it a supply ample for the city. Two 12-inch pipes driven down 74 feet reached the flow, which proved such as to gratify the water company officials. Notwithstanding the good supply obtained from these two pipes, the company will continue its efforts to get additional water from boring for artesian water at a spot 100 feet back on the lot from the two pipes, the latter being where the old springs were, comparatively on the front of the lot.

The two pipes brought so much water up that a test made by the company Wednesday with its two city pumps and an additional 4-inch pump, worked to full capacity, failed to reduce the level of the water in the basin. These three pumps pulled about 1,500 gallons of water per minute. The company will construct a concrete pit or basin at the mouth of the pipes, which will be 15 feet deep and 20 feet in diameter, and hold about 45,000 gallons of water, from which the pumps will draw. It is better for pumps to get their supply from a still quantity, for rushing or moving water when pumped often permits considerable air in the pipes, which is a disadvantage, especially to centrifugal pumps, and also bad for the pipes, which get shaken up. RANCHERS WANT POWER.

Oregon-California Company Plan to Extend Their Line.

The farmers and fruit growers of the entire valley are becoming alive to the importance of electric power in its application to the farm, especially as it is used by the irrigator in raising water to his land. Monday night the farmers of the vicinity of Applegate met with representatives of the Oregon-California Power Company. Tuesday a meeting was held at Provoit, and Wednesday Williams was the scene of a meeting. Thursday the citizens of Murphy discussed the electric question.

The power company proposes that if enough encouragement is given by the people of the Applegate and Williams counties, the line will be extended, and a service of current for power and lighting given. The people here are enthusiastic, and many are already signing up contracts, a number having agreed to take current for large motors for running pumping plants, so that there is little doubt about the building of the line.

Girls Are Beaten.

St. Anthony, Idaho.—More than 14 girls told Thursday of floggings with heavy straps at the state industrial school investigation.

Iva Horrigan testified that the superintendent beat her with a strap as she lay over a counter with her body bared from the waist down. Gladys Chapman swore that her hips had been beaten black and blue by the matron, who hung her over a bathtub.

Cayenne pepper was used by Miss Leary, a nurse, to inflict punishment, according to witnesses.

"Flying Switches" to Cease.

Salem, Ore.—"Flying switches," practiced on loaded passenger coaches at the Jefferson street station of the Southern Pacific, will be discontinued in the future, according to a letter received by the state railroad commission. The commission objected to the company allowing switching in this manner, charging that it was a common practice at that point.
