Watch dropped! Probably pivot broken; stops. Take it to Whited, who will carefully repair it, making it good as new.

BIFF! BANG! Watch drops, but does not stop. Often something doing—a little break, a chipped jewel. Watch goes, but is continually wearing, seriously injuring the watch.

Better bring it to Whited at once, who will examine it and tell you the truth as to its condition.

EXCURSIONISTS VISIT ASHLAND

SCIENTISTS AND RAILROAD MEN VISIT THIS CITY.

WELL-PLEASED WITH TREATMENT

General Passenger and Ticket Agents Spend Some Time Here Tuesday—100 Members American Geographical Society Here Wednesday.

General passenger agents to the number of 100 or more, of the leading railway systems throughout the country, passed through Ashland early Tuesday afternoon, on a special, southbound from a tour which embraced Pacific northwest territory, on an extended itinerary from New York to San Francisco, coming and returning by various routes in order to include the greatest diversity of scenic attractions, and at the same time visiting as many as possible of the most important terminals. Charles S. Fee, passenger traffic manager of the Southern Pacific, with headquarters at San Francisco, had personal supervision of the comfort of the excursionists, assisted by John M. Scott, general passenger agent of the lines in Oregon, who accompanied the party into California territory. The genial and omnipresent W. H. Jenkins, traveling passenger agent, escorted the bunch southward as far as the Oregon boundary, at which point Assistant Superintendent Fitzgerald assumed jurisdiction. Quite a number of the excursionists were accompanied by their families. As guests of the Southern Pacific Company these travelers were shown every attention. The train equipment was strictly first class, and at San Francisco, where the party separated at will to visit various portions of California, the company tendered the use of its Overland Limited, Golden State Limited, The Owl, The Lark, and Shore Line Limited, in order that the railway agents might be accorded every convenience.

Another big excursion passed through yesterday afternoon, also southbound, accommodating about 100 members of the American Geographical Society and a number of foreign guests, who have been touring the continent and stopped in southern Oregon a brief season in order to visit Crater Lake. With the exception of New York Central baggage cars, this train equipment was entirely Pullman and loaded to the gunwales with scientists exclusively, many of them coming from the four quarters of the globe. This tour is under the auspices of Raymond & Whitcomb, personally conducted by Eugene D. Hussey of Boston. With Ben C. Sheldon, George Putnam and Professor O'Garra of Bedford, as pilots, the entire party made the trip to Crater Lake without a mishap in 33 automobiles. Returning, they made the trip in four hours and 55 minutes from the rim of the lake to their Pullmans f. o. b. Southern Pacific right-of-way, on which line and connections the party is en route to New York city via San Francisco.

These specials—the former one particularly—were met by citizens with autos, who took the transient visitors out for a spin over the Boulevard and Plaza, a few of the machines hitting the scenic drives under high pressure. Local Agent Kramer took a hand in perfecting these arrangements, while the Commercial Club saw to it that the usual gifts of fruits and flowers were forthcoming. The size and quality of fruits in this section were a revelation to the geographers, to foreigners even more so than to those of the manner born. When gazing upon some extra fine specimens of luscious Bartlett pears, the gift of Ed Estes, a phlegmatic Teuton exclaimed "Mein Gott! An Italian con was speechless; a mercantile Frenchman murmured "Mon Dieu;" while a stalwart Scandinavian capped the climax of the whole polyglot conversation by saying, "Ingen spog da billigaste de vorae al fer salge," or words to that effect. Not less appreciated than the fruits were two huge bouquets of magnificent asters and dahlias, in all the glory of their autumnal foliage, the gift to railway men and scientists respectively of Mrs. J. R. Tozer.

Transferred to Grants Pass. Lawrence B. Rich, the Klamath Falls shoe merchant who is accused of polygamy by Miss Jessie Layton, who has been known as his wife since last February, was taken to Grants Pass, Ore., for trial in Josephine county.

Announcement of this was made recently, and coincident with it came the announcement that Rich would drop his ideas of obtaining his release on a habeas corpus writ and would not fight his transfer to Grants Pass, where his alleged illegal marriage with Miss Layton took place.

Rich repeatedly refused to make any comment regarding the so-called wife No. 1, or to add in any way to the statement made last week.

Different. "All the world loves a lover, you know." "Yes, I know, unless it happens that the girl has a little brother."

Platform—More industries, more payrolls, more business and less politics. Give preference to home industries, employ more labor and circulate money at home.

PANAMA EXPOSITION PROGRESS.

Director of Works Outlines Progress Made So Far.

San Francisco, Sept. 18.—Harris D. H. Connick, director of works of the Panama-Pacific International Exposition, states:

Up to the present time, the activities of the buildings and grounds committee have been, in addition to the architectural plans, largely confined to acquiring the necessary lands and preparing plans and specifications for the engineering work, the construction of sewers, the construction of water supply system and of fire protection system and the construction of underground conduits for carrying the electric light and power ducts. The amount of money expended on that work will be somewhere in the neighborhood of $3,000,000. Practically all of the lands are secured now. There are a few suits pending, but they will probably be closed up within the course of the next few months.

The underground work will start immediately. The plans and specifications for the sewers to be built in the amusement section are practically complete and within the next thirty days bids will be called for this work.

The same is true of the electric lighting system in the amusement section and the water supply system for the entire grounds.

The fresh water supply system is laid out and bids will be called for the materials of pipe, valves and fittings inside of thirty days, and as soon as that material arrives the work of putting it in the ground will be taken up. The sewer work is to be cut up into several small contracts in order to expedite its construction and start them all at once, or all within a week or so of one another.

There has to be a system for the distribution of compressed air to be installed and there will be a number of exhibits in the various buildings that will require compressed air for operation.

It will also be necessary to install a system for the distribution of steam. In the machinery building, transportation, mines and metallurgy building, it will require steam for the operation of exhibits and also for heating purposes.

We have been at work for some time on the planting end of the exposition. At the present time, John McLaren has over forty thousand trees and plants for the exposition. These have been purchased from various nurseries up and down the coast and a number he has started himself. These are to be immediately moved into the exposition and into the nursery, which is to be located in the Presidio. We are going to mark off the areas devoted to parks and immediately Mr. McLaren is to take up the question of planting in these parks.

First Saw Crater Lake.

Captain O. C. Applegate has received a letter from J. W. Hillman of Hope Villa, La., the discoverer of Crater Lake, in which the writer recalls his trip to the lake 59 years ago, and the impressions it gave him at that time. Hillman was one of a prospecting party hunting for valuable minerals in 1852, and happened to be foremost of the party when the lake was found. In those days he was in business in Jacksonville, Ore., which was the principal trading point of the region, there being no white people in the vicinity. Mr. Hillman was at that time in business at Jacksonville with Alexander Martin, Sr., now president of the First National Bank of Klamath Falls, to whom he refers in his letter as "Jerry."

Among other things he says in his letter: "I was very much pleased with yours of July 13, as Jerry had mentioned you in one of his letters to me, and the postal cards were reminders of a day long past, only there was no hotel at that point when I first saw it. Wizard Island looks very natural to me, as everything connected with the discovery does."

"There is one thing connected with the discovery I have never mentioned in writing about it, although I have often spoken of it in telling of the peculiarity of the lake, and others may have imagined the same thing that all of our party did. We rode past Wizard Island, leaving it on our right, looking for an outlet to the lake. I was in the lead, and although the snow was down to the water in many places on the banks, yet opposite the island the land was bare, and just after passing the island I thought my mule flinched as though his feet hurt. I placed my hand down below my knee and called to the boys, telling them we were near fire, as perceptible heat was arising from the surface. It might have been imagination on my part, but, if so, the entire party had the same imagination, for they all agreed with me."

"I never mentioned the fact in writing about the lake, for fear of being called a visionary, and it looked so visionary that I hated to write about it, for I knew it must have been thousands of years since the lake was formed and the cooling process should have been complete by that time."

"I also think I was the first man who ever dipped water from the head of the canyon on Rouge (evidently meant for Rogue) river. It was on our return trip. This, I think, is the first time I have ever written about it, but I have often told about it, as it had some funny features connected with it, in which J. London, or Rube, as he was generally known, was concerned. If you never knew Rube I think Jerry could tell you some of his peculiarities, although it was while out in the mountains that he showed to the best advantage."

ASHLAND ARMORY NOW SURE

that several of the attorneys of the city had advised him that the proceeding was legal.

Councilman Irwin stated that he felt for the taxpayers as they had been overburdened, but he did not believe the people should hold the cent so close to the eye that they could not see the dollar. The tax would not cost the average taxpayer more than the cost of a few moving picture show tickets.

Upon roll call being ordered, Councilman Cunningham alone voted no, accompanying his vote with an explanation which he wished made a part of the record, stating that in justice to the taxpayers he believed that the armory should be re-advertised; that he had had no chance to know that the petitioners represented a majority of the taxpayers, and that he wished further time to examine the petition. That while he realized the necessity and importance of the armory to the people of the city of Ashland, that realizing the condition of the city's finances and the question of the legality of the donation he could not see his way clear to support the motion.

Councilmen Butler, Worth, Gowdy and Irwin voted yes and the motion was declared adopted.

Mr. Mullit, in his telegram to Adjutant General Finzer, was asked to state that it was the wish of the council that the contract be let to the local bidder, Charles H. Veghte.

The fire and water committee reported favorably on claims for refund of water rent to E. E. Cook and T. W. Hudson, and reports were accepted and recorder ordered to draw warrant for same.

The fire and water committee reported unfavorably upon the petition for water mains on Beach street and on motion the report was adopted.

The same committee recommended that the irrigation contract with W. W. Boyd be annulled. This was a case where the land was not used and no water used, nor had any money been paid on the contract.

The fire and water committee also reported recommending that the Stephenson building on East Main street, recently gutted by fire, be condemned and ordered removed within ten days. After some discussion regarding the situation, the report was approved and the recorder instructed to prepare the proper notices.

In the matter of a culvert petitioned for on Oberlin street, the street committee reported favorably and the street commissioner was instructed to install same.

The street committee also reported recommending that curbs and gutters be not constructed on Mountain avenue this year because of the remonstrance of taxpayers. Report approved.

A petition had been presented from property owners on a portion of Auburn street asking that 10 feet be vacated on each side of the street. In view of the fact that that portion of the street was but 10 feet wider than the adjacent portion, the committee recommended that but five feet on each side be vacated. The report was approved and the recorder directed to institute necessary proceedings.

The electric light committee reported favorably upon the petition of the employees having offered to do the work of construction without additional cost to the city if it would furnish the materials to the amount of $55.

A lease to Thomas Simpson for a piece of ground on the Goble place for a powder magazine was presented for the approval of the council and was ordered executed by the mayor and recorder.

The usual grid of claims which had been approved by the various committees were ordered paid.

The claims of E. G. Owen for $2 for refund of water rent and of Dr. Gregg for $4 for professional services were referred to the fire and water committee.

The official bond of Fred Rosecrans, as superintendent of waterworks, in the amount of $1,000, with Thomas H. Simpson and E. F. Smith as sureties, was approved.

Mayor Neil presented the names of Mrs. H. S. Mullit, Mrs. C. W. Nims and Mrs. R. L. Burdick to succeed themselves as members of the library board for three years. On motion the appointments were confirmed.

In the matter of the paving assessment against the Smith property at Mountain avenue and B street, which had been hanging fire for some time, it was ordered that the council meet in committee of the whole at 10 o'clock this morning to proceed to the property and try to straighten out the tangle.

The fire and water committee was authorized to sell 300 feet or less of damaged water pipe to George Stephenson for 25 cents per foot, the pipe to be selected by the water superintendent.

The council then adjourned until next regular meeting.

FAIR NOTES.

All committees of the District Fair are requested to be present at the Natatorium ready for business next Tuesday morning. Mrs. Vaupel also asks the Tidings to correct a wrong impression that seems to have gone forth, that no article that has not been produced within the past six months is eligible for entry for premiums. The rule is that any manufactured article can be entered which has never been entered for a premium before, providing the maker is a resident of Jackson or Josephine counties.

It is particularly desired that there be a large display of curios, relics and the like, and especially of stuffed animals. These are merely for display, though should the gate receipts warrant, it is the intention of the management to give additional premiums. The best possible care will be taken of exhibits and so far as possible they will be placed in glass cases.

CHINA PHEASANTS INCREASE.

Grouse Are Especially Plentiful in Northern Linn County.

Albany, Ore.—With a closed season last year, China pheasants have been increasing in number rapidly and farmers report that the birds are becoming plentiful in this part of the state. There is no open season for them this year either and it is expected that they will be numerous in 1913, when the ban will be lifted unless the present law is modified by the next legislature.

Grouse are especially plentiful and in some places in the northern part of Linn county there are more this year than ever before. The open season on grouse this year is from October 15 to November 15.

Refuse to Be Disturbed.

Topeka, Kan.—With a ton of fireworks this city has begun a battle against the thousands of blackbirds that have infested the great elms and made the streets here dangerous and unsightly. Professor L. L. Dyche, state fish and game warden, told the city officials that roman candles would drive them out. Recently four men spent several hours firing the candles singly and by volleys into the trees.

As the flying balls of fire swept through the trees the birds fairly screamed at their disturbers. A few took wing and flew to nearby trees, but most of them had their roosts and chattered noisily.

Finally the firing squad gave up the effort.
