CRIMINAL LIBEL COMPLAINT

TOU VELLE FILED CHARGES OF CRIMINAL LIBEL AGAINST BERT R. GREER.

CASE IS BROUGHT IN MEDFORD

The Editor of the Tidings Is Now Constructively in Durance Vile But Is Still Fighting for What He Thinks Is Right.

Bert R. Greer is now constructively in jail for criminal libel. The complaint was made by Colonel F. L. TouVelle, candidate against George Dunn for county judge.

It is a common thing for candidates to bring libel suits against newspaper men who have the courage to fight in the interest of the people. It is the last demonstration in a losing cause. It is done but to gain sympathy for the candidate.

The Tidings editor has been fighting for what he believed the best interests of the community in which he resided for the past thirty years. He has been sued for libel twenty-two times. Every time by candidates during the heat of a campaign. Fifteen of these suits were withdrawn immediately after the election and before they came to trial, thus showing that they were brought merely for political effect, five of them went to trial and resulted in a verdict for the editor, and two of them went against the editor with a penalty of one dollar and costs, which was equivalent to a verdict of technical libel, but justifiable.

Therefore a libel suit does not much frighten him. He does not expect to be frightened in the least by this suit.

As long as men hold the view that public office is a private snap, that the public treasure is legitimate spoils, that it is all right and respectable to dip into the public treasure as deeply as may be, that it is the height of political sagacity to control public officers in order that an unfair advantage may be gained to certain parts of a community at the expense of other sections, we say, so long as these exist the Tidings editor expects to continue to write on issues and candidates without fear or favor, libel suits or no libel suits.

The Tidings does not wish to do any man an injustice, but it does not intend to sit quietly by and see the citizens in the community where it circulates exploited through corruption or looted by bad management without crying out against it.

The Tidings has made no charges of corruption against any man in Jackson county, nor will it, unless it has the evidence to prove it. But it does protest against the legitimate looting of the county treasury in the interest of a locality and the laxity with which the public business is handled.

The Tidings says the building of the Ray boulevard at the expense of the taxpayers of Jackson county—a highway that accommodated practically none of the taxpaying citizens except the Gold Ray Power Company—was in effect a reckless looting of the public treasury.

The Tidings takes the position that for the county court to agree to putting $34,000 of the county money into the construction of a bridge in the corporate limits of Medford, contrary to law, while the roads of the county, upon which the money was legitimately needed to be expended, are totally neglected, is equivalent to looting the public treasury in the interest of a locality.

And be it here at once understood that the Tidings is not opposed to the building of the Medford bridge. We are willing that the city should have as many bridges as it needs or wants. For all we care it can put as many frills or furbelows on it as it pleases. It can build it of steel and concrete, one hundred feet wide, with cement chandeliers every three feet. It can equip it with street car tracks for future emergencies. It can floor it with concrete, or with battered brass, or gold, if it likes. It is a Medford city bridge, and as long as the taxpayers of Medford want it and pay for it, we have no desire to complain. But we do complain if such expense is saddled onto the taxpayers outside of Medford, contrary to law, and without their consent.

We think that to spend all of the county money on roads leading into the heart of one city is in effect looting the county treasury in the interests of one locality at the expense of every other section of the county, and it will not cease to protest against men and measures so long as such abuses exist, libel suits or no libel suits.

The Tidings does not charge Mr.

TouVelle with being a corruptionist. We do not think he is corrupt, but we do think that he has entered into a political deal with certain interests at Medford whereby he gains their support for county judge, and they are giving that support solely for the advantage they expect to gain through controlling his actions in county matters. The Tidings said that in the article of which TouVelle complains and it reiterates it now.

Mr. TouVelle has instituted criminal libel; if the Tidings has damaged him illegally the amount could be easily expressed in civil damages. However, in a criminal libel suit the county pays the costs if the suit is not maintained, whereby in a civil suit the costs would fall on Mr. TouVelle if he failed to maintain his cause of action. As a rule that is the consideration which prompts a criminal instead of a civil libel suit, and especially is this true when the suit is brought during a campaign alone for political effect.

Further, the Tidings considers it a dangerous situation when a body of eight men can so overawe a county court that they will act contrary to a petition of eight hundred taxpayers, when the legality of their action is gravely in doubt, as the county court of Jackson county did in the bridge matter a few months ago, at the instance of a committee of which Dr. Reddy, Dr. Keene, TouVelle, Putnam, Ray, Cannon, Neff and Harmon were members. It looks as though the county court was overawed by the political power of that committee, and when it appears that Mr. TouVelle's candidacy is backed by all of the members of such a committee, we think they do it in the hope of being able to exercise just such power over him as they were able to wield over the old county court in case of his election.

TALKS ON ADVERTISING TO ASHLAND READERS.

(By Ralph Kaye.)

"How's business?"

"For the last two months business has been dull," said a Portland business man recently. "I have been here for twelve years and have never had a worse season or known business to be as dull in all those twelve years."

"Is it politics?"

"No, I don't think so. It's a cinch will be elected."

"How's business?" was asked a business man who advertises.

"Business is good," he said. "I have heard it is dull in other lines, but personally my sales for July and August of this year are ahead of last year at the same time, and that is all I care."

He advertised!

He identified his goods—gave them a name—a personality of their own, so far as the public was concerned.

He made good on his published promises; he delivered the goods—backed up his statements. The public found this out and trusts him!

How's YOUR business? Did July and August of 1912 BEAT the same months of 1911? No? Then what is the matter? Is it crops or politics? There must be some cause.

Did YOU advertise? Did you tell people of your goods—their value—their usefulness—why they should buy them and keep on buying?

In other words, have you given your goods a personality of their own? Do people ask for them by name and insist on getting WHAT THEY ASK FOR?

Men, it's not a question of "How's your business?" but WHAT'S your business? That concerns the public. Mind reading, you know, is still in its infancy.

ASHLAND HIGH SCHOOL

Personal Notes That Tell of Activities in the Realm of the Three R's.

The long-expected chemicals and apparatus for the chemical department have arrived. The unpacking was quite a task as delicate test tubes and other glass articles must be picked out of the excelsior and checked up with the list. The whole supply amounted to about $165. The apparatus is enough for 13 students. Professor Coen has been greatly handicapped in his work while waiting for the material to arrive.

The manual training department is building three dining tables for the high school, each four feet by ten. These will be used for "feeds" prepared by the girls of the domestic science department, and for receptions. Mr. Manion's proteges also have the screens for the teachers' rest room almost completed.

Miss Parker, instructor in mathematics, took up her work again Monday morning, after a two days' absence on account of illness.

Miss Madge Eubanks, secretary to Superintendent Briscoe, has begun the task of cataloguing and numbering the books of the library. A great number of splendid new books have been received lately, making this probably the best high school library in Oregon outside of Portland.

The gymnasium has been given to the boys to practice basketball on Tuesdays and Thursdays, and, although all of the first team men are still playing football, there are quite a number of the lesser lights, including some of the faculty, who are limbering up. The girls have the gym Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays. They are practicing faithfully for they have several games in sight.

The football boys turned out for practice on Tuesday evening, none the worse for their little affair with Medford except for a few bruises and "Charley-horses." It is a striking tribute to the coaching the boys have received and to their physical condition that no man was replaced during the entire game Saturday and that no time was taken out of an Ashland player. The first lineup stood throughout the game, in spite of the fact that several second team men were in the line. This game betters Ashland's chances of taking a northern trip, as both Medford and Ashland are dickering with Eugene for a game and there would be little reason for them to play a team which has already lost in its own locality. Medford, however, brought Eugene south last year and so the boys from the college town may give them the first chance. A second team game with Medford here next Saturday is in prospect. While nothing hinges on such a game it would encourage the boys who are getting out to practice the first team.

A game of football will be played Saturday afternoon at the high school grounds, between the Medford and Ashland second teams. Admission 25 cents.

SHOWED HIS CONTEMPT.

The Performance Was Costly, but It Relieved His Feelings.

At Dussaux's restaurant, in the Grand Morskot at St. Petersburg, six officers of the Imperial Horse guards sat drinking champagne. Not far from them sat an insignificant little man with a shabby coat and an unkempt beard and a glass of liquor in front of him. It was not long before he became aware that he was being ridiculed by the officers aforesaid.

By and by, as they became more and more offensive in their remarks on his personal appearance, etc., he called for the waiter and said, "Bring me six bottles of your best champagne." The waiter hesitated. "Did you not hear what I said?" asked the little man. The waiter brought the wine and six glasses. "Take these glasses away and fetch a basin, one as large as you can find." The waiter again hesitated, but obeyed instantly at the peremptory repetition of the order. "A piece of soap," was the next order. It was brought. "A towel." The waiter handed him one. "Now open the bottles." The waiter did so.

The little man now filled the basin with the contents of the six bottles, rolled up his sleeves, washed himself in the costly fluid, wiped his hands, laid a hundred ruble note on the table and, casting a look of withering contempt on the officers, strutted out of the room.—Argonaut.

THE MOON AS WE SEE IT.

Its Mountains and Craters and Its Lights and Shadows.

The visible part of the moon is about equal to the superficies of North America. It is very mountainous, and around the vast dry plains which form the dark spots seen with the naked eye are volcanoes whose funnel shaped craters resemble old wells filled in by the deposits of ages.

Maps of the moon show more than 33,000 such craters, some of them 200 kilometers in diameter.

The radius of the earth is supposed to be nearly four times that of the moon. Proportionally the moon is much more mountainous than the earth. All the lunar volcanoes are extinct.

The moon was formed after the earth was formed. It has gone to its doom faster than the earth because, as its mass is much feebler than the earth's mass, it cooled faster. The moon's light and shade are clearly seen because it has no appreciable atmosphere.

The moon has been called the "pantheon of astronomers" because its volcanoes have been named for astronomers. Riccioli gave his own name to a splendid lunar "census," and to a very small and insignificant volcano he gave the name of Galileo.—Harper's Weekly.

David Garrick's Ways.

David Garrick was a Colt and Anglo-Saxon combined, and that is why he was so successful an actor manager. That also explains why he was careful, even parsimonious at times, in small matters, but ever ready to give freely. "He had," says his latest biographer, in an almost regretful tone, "a beautiful habit of sending back L. O. U.'s with such words as 'I beg you will light a bonfire with the enclosed'—beautiful indeed, and very rare. Johnson declared that whenever he drew Garrick's attention to some case of distress he always received from him more than from any other person and always more than he expected. "Sir, he was a liberal man. He has given away more money than any man in England. There may have been a little vanity mixed, but he has shown that money is not his first object."—David Garrick and His French Friends.

The Severe Headache.

The severe headache which often follows a long railway journey or a protracted tour of a museum or a picture gallery is usually wrongfully attributed to bad air. As a matter of fact, says Dr. Sidney Stephenson, such headaches are more often than not due to the fact that the eyes have been overworked. The cure is not a cup of tea nor a bottle of smelling salts; it lies in a pair of spectacles. From exactly the same type of headache clerks, typists, dressmakers and students are great sufferers. In the great majority of these cases, says Dr. Stephenson, examination has shown that weak and overworked eyes were the cause of the trouble, which has disappeared with the use of a pair of good spectacles.—Pearson's Weekly.

The Magic of September.

September seems to me to be the fairy among the months of the year. She is so crowned with gold, so full of play and magic spells, she has no work to do, and it is she who transforms the green woods and gray marshes to wonderlands of fairy fire and brings the great pale moon back round and full night after night into the skies. Yes, September has a magic!—Hildegard Hawthorne in St. Nicholas.

Faithful to the End.

Nobody will know how many disreputable looking relatives you have until you die. The disreputable looking relative sometimes refrains from attending the wedding, but he always comes to the funeral.—Philadelphia Ledger.

The Better Way.

"Don't put all your eggs in one basket," said the ready made philosopher. "Don't put any of 'em in a basket," replied the enterprising dealer. "Put 'em in cold storage."—Washington Star.

Roosevelt Vote Looms Immense

NEW YORK HERALD POLL CONCEDES HIM VICTORY.

Metropolitan Newspaper Bitterly Opposed to Progressive Candidates Finds Small Comfort for Any Others in Contest.

Though bitterly opposed to the election of Theodore Roosevelt, the New York Herald, by its own figures, gives the strongest hope of success to the Progressive Party yet held forth. To date the Herald has held two polls of the sentiment in various parts of the nation, and the conclusion is to be drawn from both of these is that a Roosevelt landslide will occur in November.

The first poll, taken about two weeks ago, indicates that in New York Roosevelt will have a plurality of 239,000 over Taft, who will be his nearest competitor.

16,000 Over Wilson.

In Connecticut, in this same poll, the Herald concedes Roosevelt a plurality of 16,000 over Taft and a plurality of 23,000 over Taft. Pennsylvania is conceded to Roosevelt without any doubt; and in Indiana the Herald sets forth that Roosevelt will have a plurality of at least 16,000 over Taft.

So startling did these conclusions seem to the Herald that a more extensive poll was taken, returns from which were published October 6. This second review of the political situation shows Roosevelt in undisputed lead in eleven states, and puts Taft in third place in all but five states, in these five his position being second by a narrow margin. In eleven other states covered by the poll Roosevelt support is shown to be growing at a remarkable rate, and tremendous votes in his favor are indicated.

More Roosevelt States.

Details of this second Herald poll show that in Wyoming every poll and straw vote taken gives Roosevelt a big lead over all. In Montana a safe plurality is indicated, while in Colorado a landslide of ten to one in Roosevelt's favor is indicated.

The Herald concedes Oregon to Roosevelt by 12,000 plurality. In California a plurality of between 100,000 and 150,000 is indicated for Roosevelt and Johnson, with a similar victory for the state Progressive ticket.

Nebraska, in spite of the efforts of Bryan, is regarded by the Herald as safe for Roosevelt, while Pennsylvania is shown to be still stronger for the Colonel than the first poll indicated.

Twice as Many as Taft.

Michigan is set down as favoring Roosevelt to the extent of 50,000 plurality. In Kentucky the Herald believes that Roosevelt will receive twice as many votes as Taft, while Kansas is reported as being overwhelmingly in the Roosevelt column. A plurality of over 100,000 is indicated in Illinois.

Aside from these states the Herald poll shows 50,000 votes for Roosevelt in Alabama; a third of the total vote in Georgia; a large percentage of the Confederate soldiers' vote in Arkansas; from 25,000 to 75,000 democratic votes in Tennessee, and a large vote in Louisiana.

Indiana is regarded as safe for Roosevelt; 25,000 votes are conceded him in Mississippi; Missouri shows a rapidly growing strength in his favor; and Maine and New Jersey are regarded as fertile soil for the growth of Roosevelt sentiment.

The Herald finds that in Massachusetts the fight is entirely between the Progressive Party and the Democrats, and Roosevelt is regarded as a favorite.

This report from a paper avowedly opposed to Roosevelt, is regarded as being one of the most striking indications of the strength of the Progressive Party leader.

Many Brokers in Line.

While speculators and capitalists are not in sympathy with Theodore Roosevelt or with the Progressive Party, it is interesting to note that in a poll taken of brokers and dealers in the New York stock exchange, 34 men were found who declared with vigor that they were for the Colonel. Three of these brokers said they were out and out Bull Moosers; 29 declared that they were Republicans who were going to vote for Roosevelt, and two said they were Democrats, but were going to vote for Roosevelt for president.

Travelers Favor Colonel.

Travelers from The Dalles to Portland upon an O-W. R. & N. train were polled for an expression of political preference on October 7, and the balloting showed a good lead for Colonel Roosevelt. The vote stood: Roosevelt 74, Wilson 21, Taft 20 and Debs 4. Just before the train left The Dalles a poll was taken in one of the leading hotels, and showed the three leading candidates about evenly favored, the figures being 21, 20 and 19.

Roosevelt is Favored.

Employees of the commercial department of the Portland Railway, Light & Power Company are more than two to one in favor of Roosevelt for President, according to a straw vote taken recently.
