Colonel Tou Velle of Medford was in the city Thursday shaking hands with his friends. Colonel Tou Velle's friends in Ashland are by no means numbered by the votes he received at the recent election and he will have the solid support of Ashland for all efforts for the upbuilding of Jackson county, the building of good roads and the maintenance of the county's credit.

Martin J. Geary, general agent passenger department, Rock Island system, with headquarters at Portland, was in the city early in the week calling upon Agent Kramer and other members of the local Southern Pacific staff, and incidentally renewing the acquaintance of friends formerly from Iowa. Mr. Geary literally grew up in the service of the Rock Island railway.

Rev. Frank Lindblad and family arrived Tuesday from Sunnyside, Wash., to make their home, Mr. Lindblad having accepted the pastorate of the First Brethren church at the corner of Fifth and East Main streets. They have rented a house on C street, just east of that occupied by Rev. T. G. Bunch, and will take up their residence there soon. At present they have been at the home of W. N. Grubb on the Boulevard.

How would you like to put on your office or store floor a dressing which would be dustless but still retain the original color of the floor? We have the agency for the Ramola Floor Dressing, which will do this. It is made of beeswax, paraffine, linseed oil with other ingredients, skillfully treated with chemicals, making it a thorough disinfectant. We believe it to be the best of floor dressings. If you wish to make your office or storeroom look neater, see us, Carson-Smith Lumber Co.

Everett Pendleton Lost Most of One Hand Saturday From Dynamite Cap Explosion.

Everett Pendleton, a six-year-old boy living with Mrs. F. M. Winslow and her brother-in-law, W. R. Garrett, at Buncom, met with a serious accident last Saturday which entailed the loss of a part of his thumb and two fingers, says the Post.

Everett, in company with a small playmate, discovered a box of giant powder caps which Mr. Garrett had placed on a high shelf in an outhouse for safe keeping. With the aid of a long pole the boys succeeded in knocking the box to the ground, and deciding the contents were come kind of fireworks, at first tried to explode them in a toy pistol. Falling in this attempt, Everett touched a lighted match to one of the caps while holding it in his fingers. The cap promptly exploded, blowing off a portion of his thumb and two fingers and burying one piece deep in the palm of his hand.

WELCOMES EDITORS

New Department of Journalism Open House for Moulders of Public Opinion.

University of Oregon, Eugene, Oct. 23.—The department of journalism held open house for editors, reporters and all newspapermen during the recent Oregon electric celebration.

The rooms on the campus were decorated, and all cloistered traditions were violated by an enormous sign on the windows inviting visiting newspapermen to come in. The head of the department went down to the station to meet the editors on the incoming trains, and had posted a sign in the Commercial Club rooms directing the scribes to the university. The editors of the Eugene papers also passed on the university's cordial invitation to all to come out and inspect the department's work.

The Oregon electric had a big seven-passenger automobile, which L. M. McDonald, of the Hill lines' publicity department, placed at the disposal of the editors, and with which he brought his guests out to the university, where the aims and methods of the courses in journalism were explained by Mr. Allen, the instructor.

WAGNER CREEK ITEMS.

Mrs. Ott of Ashland was visiting Mr. and Mrs. Wheeler last week.

Philip Bochnak, a former resident of Yank creek, left Saturday for Washington and expects to make his home there.

County School Superintendent J. Percy Wells was a visitor at the school Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. Twidwell, who are still at the Medford hospital, are gaining health fast and expect to return home soon.

Butterfield-Knotts Wedding.

Albany Democrat: One of the prettiest of the late October weddings was solemnized at the home of Mr. and Mrs. I. G. Knotts at 1140 East First street when their daughter Edna Bertha was married to Hayden G. Butterfield of Ashland.

At the appointed hour, with Miss Wilma Zeigler as accompanist, Miss Sara Ella Pratt sang "Beloved, It Is Morn'" by Florence Aylward. The singer's sympathetic interpretation of this beautiful solo created a perfect atmosphere for the ceremony.

The hush that followed was broken by the strains of the wedding march from Lohengrin. Rev. Knotts, who read the service for his daughter, preceded Mr. Butterfield to the bower of delicate vines and blossoms, where they awaited the approach of the bride. She came preceded by her sister-in-law, Mrs. Ralph Knotts, as matron of honor, and accompanied by her brother, Ralph Knotts, who gave her away. The beautiful and impressive ring service was used in the plighting of their troth.

After the prayer and benediction, Mr. Knotts spoke a few words of tender congratulation and presented Mr. and Mrs. Butterfield to the guests. While they expressed their felicitations, Miss Wilma Zeigler, again at the piano, rendered Mendelssohn's beautiful wedding march.

The bride was very lovely in her simple but exquisite gown of white voile and valenciennes lace. She carried a beautiful arm bouquet of bride's roses. Her matron of honor was gowned in a very delicate pink voile with passementerie fringe. Her flowers were pink carnations. When congratulations were over Mrs. Knotts called all the young women together, and Mrs. Butterfield threw her bouquet. It was caught by Miss Myrtle Worley.

The decorations for this wedding were very effective, having been arranged by friends of the bride. The wedding gifts were many and very beautiful. During the evening fancy ice cream, assorted cakes, coffee and mint wafers were served by young women, friends and cousins of the bride, each of whom wore a dainty lace-trimmed serving apron embroidered with the initial of the wearer. These were the gifts of the bride and her mother, Mrs. I. G. Knotts.
