M. Powell, 263 Oak street, Ashland, Ore., says: "I suffered a great deal from kidney trouble and backache and sometimes I could hardly get around. On arising in the morning I was stiff and lame and the kidney secretions annoyed me by their irregularity in passage. As soon as I commenced taking Doan's Kidney Pills I improved and I am now in good health. I still use Doan's Kidney Pills occasionally, however, but more as a preventive than anything else. I always insist upon Doan's Kidney Pills for no substitute could be as effective as they."

ASHLAND HIGH SCHOOL

Personal Notes That Tell of Activities in the Realm of the Three R's.

Professor Moore delivered a little lecture, on Tuesday evening, which he termed a "pill." It was taken very good-naturedly by all the students. He began by reading an article telling how the students of the University of Alabama, objecting to a ruling of the faculty that they should not call on young lady friends, had walked out in a strike. Some of the seniors had been arrested and the disturbance quelled by state troops. Mr. Moore cited this to show with what firmness the laws of a school should be enforced. He also made some comparisons with neighboring high schools which showed that Ashland has still some room for improvement and asked for the cooperation of the students. The meeting ended with the singing of several lively songs, including "Oregon" and "Dixie."

Tuesday and Thursday nights yelling rallies were held after school, when several new songs and yells were learned for the game with Medford. Friday evening the students paraded down town giving the high school yells and discoursing lively music by the band. The band has become a permanent fixture. It consists of about twenty instruments, led by Professor Bush and Heinie Enders.

Spelling bees were the order of the day in the first year Latin classes on Friday. Leaders chose up sides and spelled down. Each pupil was given two trials at the spelling and two at the meaning of the Latin word. The students showed lots of interest and preparation. In one division one contestant on each side was still standing when the period ended.

Harry Rose arrived Friday evening from Hudson, Wis., to enter the high school here. He is a good athlete, having been fullback on the Hudson high school team. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Rose, will follow him soon. Mr. Rose has been editor, for several years, of the Hudson Star Observer, and prominent in political movements of his locality. Mr. Rose and family are friends of Professor Manion, Hudson being his home town.

Chemistry is a very interesting study, at least Jan Mowat finds it so. It allows so many original experiments. e. z. Mr. Mowat wanted to know the effect of applying ammonia to human skin. Mr. Mowat has imbibed the investigative spirit, ergo, he seizes a likely moment and empties a quantity of the liquid down Bob Spencer's back. For results of the experiment ask Bob.

Principal Moore's little boy, "Felix Jr.," has been very ill but is recovering nicely.

SOCIALISTS WONT FIGHT

Social Democrats in Austria and Russia Will Refuse to Take Part in War.

Vienna, Nov. 11.—Social democrats conducted a great anti-war demonstration throughout the provinces of Austria and Hungary, urging the masses to hamper any military movement and to submit passively to capture if they are called out as part of the army. They declare that thousands of workmen in Russia will act in the same way if the two powers come to blows.

Military men are most indignant here at Serbia presuming to defy Austria's warning not to proceed farther into Albania and to keep her hands off Durazzo, the Adriatic port which both desire.

Reports that England has quietly mobilized her fleet have also aroused the war party, and it is believed that only Germany's influence is preventing Austria proceeding to aggressive measures.

Teddy Surprises Taft.

Washington, Nov. 14.—"I was extremely hopeful that the result would be different. I was surprised at the strength shown by Colonel Roosevelt."

Thus declared President Taft here today in discussing the result of the presidential election. He added: "I had hoped we would pull through but was not in a condition of mind to be greatly disappointed by defeat."

"The difficulty I find in the progressive program is that it contemplates the impossible. If the country could stand the burden I would like to see the attempt made, in order that the people might learn the hollowness and impracticability and sham character of many of their promises."

CIDER VINEGAR AND ITS MAKING

(By P. J. O'Gara, Pathologist in Charge.)

While vinegar may be made from a number of different products, such as fruit juices and various sugary or starchy matters, this article will consider the making of vinegar from pure apple juice only. This short paper is presented for the purpose of giving information to those interested in saving the cull apples which would otherwise go to waste. The important facts concerning the process of vinegar making will be stated as briefly as possible, to be followed later by a full discussion of vinegar making which will appear in bulletin form.

It is generally conceded that not more than 60 per cent of the apples actually grown in the United States are accounted for in general statistics. The 40 per cent wholly unaccounted for are either consumed by the growers or go to waste on the farms where grown. This 40 per cent will represent the enormous total of 100,000,000 boxes, and there is no doubt that the actual waste will represent fully half that amount. Practically all of this loss could be turned into valuable apple juice, cider or vinegar.

Juice and Pomace.

It has been determined that the average water content of the whole apple varies from 80 to 86 per cent of the total weight, and the dry matter from 14 to 20 per cent. However, with the ordinary methods of crushing and expressing the juice, not much over half of the juice originally contained in the fruit is recovered. Under the very best conditions only 70 per cent of the total moisture content of the apple is extracted. With the common grater or crushing machine and the ordinary hand press 50 per cent of the total weight is about all that may be expected. A box of apples weighing 50 pounds net will yield about 25 pounds or three gallons of juice. This has been obtained from such varieties as are commonly grown in this district; namely, Baldwin, Jonathan, Winesap, Newtown, and others. It is possible that three gallons of juice per box of apples is a high average to be expected where a poor grating machine and a small hand press are used; two gallons would be nearer the average. It pays to crush the apples well before putting them into the press. As far as possible the cells should be broken so as to release their contents.

The weight of an equal amount of apple juice or must is greater than that of water, the specific gravity being about 1.055. In other words, apple juice is as it is expressed from the fruit is about 5 1/2 per cent heavier than water. The total solids represent about 14 per cent; total sugar about 11 per cent; malic acid about 0.5 per cent; the remainder being water. Not all of the sugar is taken in the juice, as almost one-half of the total sugar contained in the apple is left in the pomace. The sugar content of the fruit is the important consideration, and for this reason every care should be taken to get the juice from the pomace.

It must be understood that dirty fruit or badly decayed fruit should not be used. If the apples have been lying on the ground and are covered with dirt they should be washed. If convenient, a hose with water under pressure is a good way to remove the dirt quickly. Decayed fruits should never be used, as by so doing certain organisms are introduced into the juice which will tend to spoil the flavor of the final product. Furthermore, the introduction of foreign organisms into the juice will interfere with the normal alcoholic and acetic fermentation.

The Youth's Companion Window Transparency and Calendar For 1913.

The publishers of The Youth's Companion will, as always at this season, present to every subscriber whose subscription ($2.00) is paid for 1913, a beautiful souvenir. This year it takes the unique form of a window transparency, to be hung in the window or in front of a lighted lamp. Through it the light shines as through the stained glass of a cathedral window, softly illuminating the design—a figure of Autumn laden with fruits; and all around, wreathed in purple clusters of grapes and green foliage, is the circle of the months. It is the most attractive gift ever sent to Companion readers.

Find Dynamite Near Mine.

Seattle, Wash., Nov. 13.—On the alleged discovery by a government agent of several hundred pounds of dynamite in the vicinity of Renton, where a coal strike is now pending, United States Marshal Jacoby has applied to Washington, D. C., for the right to appoint ten additional deputies. There are 18 now stationed at Renton.

SEEKS LOST SISTER.

Information Wanted as to Whereabouts of Eva Wood.

About 1886-7 a man named John H. Wood lived about two miles from Ashland, the family consisting of three daughters and a son. In 1887 the family moved away, leaving the eldest daughter, Eva Wood. Her sister, Mrs. James Stuart, of Napavine, Wash., would be very thankful to anyone who can give her any information as to Eva's present whereabouts.

Closing Work of Equal Suffrage Club.

We have every reason to believe that the work of the Ashland Equal Suffrage Club is at an end, and that we have cause to rejoice.

When we organized it was determined by the executive board that we would practice economy, be careful and accurate in every statement we made to promulgate our views, and appeal rather to the native intelligence of the voters than to gain attention by anything erratic and spectacular. We believe our views were correct in every particular, and that the public were pleased with our conservative stand.

Dr. Mattie B. Shaw was exactly the right woman for the presidency. She was always discreet, tactful and bound her officials closely together. Mrs. E. C. Gard, the treasurer, was equal to any emergency and looked after details in a painstaking way. The five vice-presidents were all excellent. Mrs. J. R. Casey was the sunshine and optimism of the cause, and when in the last days the secretary was overwhelmed with work, she not only came to the rescue but impressed her belongings to the third and fourth generation. Mrs. C. M. Rowland, though on the outskirts of the town, was ever ready to answer any call. Mrs. C. B. Lamkin was a power in herself, whether giving addresses or in superintending decorations. Mrs. E. D. Briggs showed much judgment and practical common sense and together with Mrs. Charles Gillette brought many things to pass. Mrs. J. J. McNair, our sergeant-at-arms, though a dainty bit of femininity, was a true daughter of her mother.

Our executive meetings were characterized by harmony and oneness of purpose, leaving only pleasant memories. For courtesies shown, we have many thanks not only to those liberal-minded citizens who of their own volition gave us financial aid, but to the trustees of the Chautauqua, to many of our ladies, to the fine Redief Corps, and to Mr. and Mrs. Minkler.

We believe our cause was just and that time will prove that the women of Oregon are not only as patriotic as well as intelligent as the men of Oregon.

TALKS ON ADVERTISING TO TIDINGS READERS.

(By Ralph Kaye.)

Don't burst into large space thinking that its size will enable you to "put something over" on the public. Let us consider the psychology of large space. Things out of the ordinary attract attention. Familiar objects in new garbs arouse curiosity. When we come across a page advertisement we infer it is something important—the size or immensity emphasizes it. Our attention is attracted. If, upon reading, the explanation warrants the attraction, we are impressed and glad our attention was called to it.

But what happens when our attention is misled? What happens when we spend time in reading an advertisement only to find nothing new, but old, undesirable goods being forced on us like bitter pills with a sugar coating?

Such advertising does the merchant more harm than good. What will he do when he really has something important to offer? Won't people think it's the same story of wolf, wolf?

It's the advertiser who plugs right along, telling the truth in his advertisements, that wins. People read his ads because they know he can be depended upon. When he takes large space it creates interest and business because people know he tells the truth.

Hint Election Fraud in California Count.

San Francisco, Nov. 13.—Rudolph Spreckels, head of the Wilson Republican League of California, who recently offered a reward of $5,000 for evidence leading to the conviction of any person guilty of fraud in the recent election, and Chairman Davis of the democratic state central committee left tonight for Los Angeles to investigate the counting of ballots in that city. Spreckels said he had no specific information as to the frauds, but said he intended to make an investigation to satisfy himself.
