FIVE P. O. ROBBERIES

Series of Burglaries in Lower Valley Puzzles Officials of Various Towns.

The fifth postoffice robbery in the past two weeks occurred last week at Rogue River, when thieves entered the postoffice by means of skeleton keys and secured several dollars in pennies. They also broke into the Southern Pacific depot, securing $4 from the cash till. Entering Murray's jewelry store, they stole four gold watches, a gold chain and stickpin. Forcing an entrance into the city recorder's office, they opened the desk, but secured nothing. They ransacked McClain's hardware store, but apparently took nothing. Breaking into the railroad shed, they stole a "speeder" and made a get-away, as they did two nights before at Gold Hill.

Postoffices at Medford, Eagle Point, Talent, Gold Hill and Rogue River have now been robbed of stamps and pennies, and these threaten a shortage of pennies in the valley. Both at Gold Hill and Rogue River large quantities of stamps were handled by the robbers, but left untouched.

The men were seen at Rogue River and a good description secured. There are two of them, one 5 feet 9 inches, smooth shaven, thin, long face, shallow complexion, like a dope fiend, walks with a slight limp. The other is about 5 feet 6 inches, thick set, weighs 160 pounds, prominent upper lip.

The men work with false keys, chisels and glass cutters. They make no noise and do not blow safes. They have railroad switch keys.

Messrs. Sandry and Woodcock left Rogue River early this morning in pursuit of the thieves. M. Johnson, proprietor of the cafe at Rogue River, was one of those who saw the robbers about 10 o'clock Wednesday night and, having read the postal warning, recognized the description and called the town marshal's attention to them, warning him to be on the lookout. The warning was apparently disregarded.

The series of burglaries started when the Medford postoffice was entered December 27, and since that time the postoffices at Eagle Point, Talent and Gold Hill have been entered. In addition the burglars "touched" the Southern Pacific station at Talent, Burdick's store at Talent, a jewelry store at Grants Pass, and Jennings' saloon and Lance's store at Gold Hill.

Foreign Population of New York City.

New York is the second largest Italian city in the world. As a Russian town it is third in population and as a Hungarian settlement it is more than half the size of Budapest, the capital of Hungary, and next to Vienna the largest city in Austria-Hungary. Its Italian population is 532,064. Ten years ago there were only 229,349 Italians in New York. In other words, the increased Italian population is more than the entire population of Genoa. It is larger by 50,000 than that of either Rome or Milan. It is only surpassed by Naples, and then by not a great number. The number of Jewish people living in Greater New York is placed at 1,265,000. In comparison this population is about half the size of St. Petersburg and outnumbers by 300,000 the residents of Odessa, the biggest city in southern Russia. New York's Austro-Hungarian population is 398,079, an increase of more than 234,000 in 10 years. This increase would make another city of the size of Prague.

The great influx of immigrants to New York in the last 10 years is taken as an indication of the city's prosperity, for had not New York been an attractive place for employment these millions of foreigners would never have come to our shores. As proof take the days of the panic when business began to fall off in volume. After it was discovered that the hull in employment was to last for some time there was a great rush among the foreign population to get back to their native lands. Every ship sailing for Mediterranean ports in the early part of 1908 carried many steerage passengers, laborers running away from dull times. However, the tide has been the other way for some time.

There is no better indication of the prosperity of a city or a country, according to economists, than the movement of immigrants. The immigrant only follows roaring trade.

Missionary Union Meeting.

Mrs. J. P. Dodge was hostess to the members of the Woman's Missionary Union and the ladies of the Congregational church at their home on the Boulevard December 31. For four years Mrs. Dodge has received the ladies of the church on the last day of the year, and each year the reception grows in popularity. A large number of ladies were present and enjoyed the splendid program prepared by the missionary society. A review of missions was given by Mrs. R. S. Harris, followed by a talk upon "The Needs of Missions" by Mrs. W. A. Schwinley, who closed her address by reading a most interesting and appropriate story entitled, "Mrs. Gray's Opportunity." A ladies' quartet, Mesdames Dickerson, Howard and Schwinley, and Miss Norma Minkler, gave the musical numbers of the program. The chief feature of the program was a talk upon the mission work among the southern negroes, given by Mr. Webster, who held the first pastorate in the Congregational church in this city. Mr. Webster has a sister who is a missionary in the south. After the program dainty refreshments were served by the hostess, who was assisted by her daughters, Mesdames Louis and Will Dodge.

Parent-Teachers Circle.

The West Side Parent-Teachers Circle met at the west school Monday afternoon. After the reading of the minutes an instrumental duet was given by Madam Sylvia's orchestra. The president read accounts of what is being done by similar associations in other places, especially of the work in the south. The subject of the dependent widows' bill, which is to come before our next legislature, was brought up. A petition asking legislators to vote for it was circulated and generally signed. It was suggested that the time for the election of officers for the circle be changed from June to March, in order to give the incoming officers time to plan for the social doings connected with the close of school.

It was announced that a lecture along child welfare lines will be given at the library Monday, January 19, by Mrs. Julia LaBar of Portland, who is a well-known worker in the cause.

Dr. Gregg gave an interesting and instructive talk on "The Cigarette and Youth," giving both the physical and moral objections to the use of the cigarette, and also giving suggestions to parents in the way of arguments to use in persuading the boys to let it alone.

The meetings of these circles are worthy of a much larger attendance on the part of the parents. Judging from the number of parents present in proportion to the number of teachers, one must come to the conclusion that the teachers have more interest in the children than their parents have. It is being said now, on all sides, that the child is the nation's best asset. Let us act as if we believed it and give one hour each month to the consideration of problems concerning his welfare.

St. Cecilia's Club.

The St. Cecilia Club had a pleasant musical afternoon last Saturday at the home of Mrs. Butler Walker on East Main street. The following program was rendered: On the Lake.....Strelezki Allen Walker. Youth and Old Age.....Necke Minnie Richman. The Snowdrop.....Powell Helen Moyer. Remember Me.....Brinkman Alice Poor. The Golden Rod.....White Neva and Mildred Gearhart. Frolic of the Butterflies.....Bohm Louise Gillette. Flower Fairies.....Fearis Mary and Alice Walker. March Grotesque.....Sinding Maud Putnam. Adieu to the Piano.....Beethoven Stella Stahlman. Husaren March.....Gurlitt Louise Gillette, Esther McLane and Alice Poor. Moonlight on the Hudson.....Smith Maud Putnam and Stella Stahlman. The program was varied and showed conscientious work done by the pupils. Then followed a brief review of Beethoven's life and works, after which the biography of St. Cecilia was written.

"No, no, papa, don't take that --- mama said to get Golden Rod Oats" All Grocers

Dainty refreshments were then served by the Misses Walker, after which the club dispersed, having had a very profitable as well as delightful afternoon.

Besides, the members, the following were present: Juanita Livingston, Leta Walker, Isabel Barron, Elsie Grubb, and Mesdames Frank Walker, Poor, Perry, Gearhart, Barron, Butler and Mary N. Walker.
