SCHOOL FOR CHINESE

Southern Oregon Presbytery Went on Record at Medford Favoring One for Southern Oregon.

Medford Sun: At the opening meeting of the presbytery of southern Oregon Wednesday it was voted to endorse the proposed school of Rev. J. K. Howard, pastor of the Presbyterian church at Glendale, devoted to the education of Chinese residents in this part of the state. The work of the school was outlined and received hearty commendation by all members.

In the evening an interesting address was given by W. S. Holt, D. D., of Portland, Pacific secretary of the board of home missions, who talked on the "Pacific Coast Today and Tomorrow," pointing out the problems confronting the religious workers in this section of the country. Robert McClaine, superintendent of Spanish work in the southwest, gave an instructive address on work in the southwest, and Mrs. C. B. Lamkin of Montague, Cal., read a paper on the new view of missions, calling attention to the need of a vital and constructive interest in the congregation before any real good can be accomplished.

"Pertinacious good will toward foreign brothers and sisters amounts to nothing," said the speaker. "It must spring from the vital life of the church or little is accomplished." Tuesday the sermon of the evening was preached by the retiring moderator, Rev. J. K. Baille, D. D., his text being Romans 1:16. After the constituting prayer of presbytery by Rev. W. S. Holt of Portland, Ore., the presbytery proceeded to elect a moderator, Rev. H. T. Chisholm being the choice of the body, and was thereupon inducted into office.

A large number were present. George Andrews at last night's meeting sang "Nearer, My God, to Thee."

WOULD BE SECRETARY

Chief of Weather Bureau Removed for Scheming to Be Secretary of Agriculture.

Washington, April 17.—President Wilson this afternoon summarily removed from office Willis L. Moore, chief of the United States weather bureau. It was announced at the executive offices that the reason for the removal was "serious irregularities in office."

Moore recently tendered his resignation to become effective July 24, but the president refused to permit him to continue in office.

Moore's removal was decided upon at a conference today between President Wilson and Secretary of Agriculture Houston.

"Moore was removed," said Houston, after the conference, "because of gross misuse of the powers of his office. He used his subordinate and his official position to promote personal matters. This is all I care to say now."

It was learned that the president, early in March, was deluged with complaints from all parts of the country that Moore had endeavored to utilize non-professional and voluntary weather observers in an effort to build up a political machine which would insure his appointment as secretary of agriculture. The president is said to have been furnished with many instances where Moore directed volunteer observers to write to the president, advocating Moore's promotion. Secretary Houston investigated and reported to the president that the charges were well founded. He recommended Moore's immediate removal and the president concurred.

STORM IN THE BUREAU

Removal of Prof. Moore Stirs Up War of Various Factions in the Weather Bureau.

Washington, April 16.—Prof. Willis Moore, in charge of the weather bureau since 1896 and appointed by Grover Cleveland, was summarily removed from office today by President Wilson. Moore's resignation was recently accepted to take effect July 31, but after an investigation of his alleged efforts to become secretary of agriculture, the president withdrew his acceptance and issued an order of dismissal.

Later the president referred the subject to the department of justice for inquiry. Secretary of Agriculture Houston after a conference with President Wilson issued a statement in which he stated that immediately after Moore's resignation had been submitted to the president charges had been placed against him by responsible men within the service and these were of so grave a nature the secretary of agriculture called on the department of justice for an investigation.

Houston said the investigation was not complete but that "the facts so far secured and laid before the president yesterday were sufficient to warrant him deciding to withdraw his acceptance and summarily remove him."

President Wilson also has directed the secretary to suspend Charles T. Burns, an employe of the weather bureau, pending a further investigation of his case, and take such disciplinary measures with other employes as necessary where it was shown they had been unduly active in utilizing the public service for private ends.

Unofficially it was stated at the White House that a campaign to make Moore secretary of agriculture had been extensive, that members of congress in various parts of the country had been canvassed and a letter-writing campaign had been conducted among the weather employes.

Moore has also been a target for attack. A few days ago a resolution was introduced in the house calling on the secretary of agriculture to advise congress regarding the appropriations for the traveling expenses and also what amount of a lump sum in salaries was expected for the promotions of the weather bureau employes last January and February and for comparative figures for the preceding four years.

Moore tonight issued a statement asserting that "the same force which attempted to disgrace and remove Dr. Wiley" is responsible for his removal, and he branded as "infamous lies" any intimation he had coerced employes of the weather bureau in supporting his candidacy for secretary of agriculture, or that public money had been expended in his candidacy.

MORGAN NOW AT REST

Crowds Flock to Funeral Services—Episcopal Committal Services at Grave.

Hartford, Conn., April 14.—The body of J. P. Morgan is at rest. It was buried today on the crest of the Cedar Hill cemetery, the sixth of the house of Morgan to find a resting place there. Although the grave is heavily protected from ghouls, precautions were also taken by arranging to have it under guard continuously.

Like all others of the family buried in the plot, his grave was marked with a small headstone inscribed: "John Pierpont Morgan, 1836-1913." In lieu of a headstone there towers tonight a monument of flowers, heaped in a huge pyramid over the grave. These were the last tributes of friends and relatives who came there with the body in a special train from New York after funeral services at St. George's church.

An immense crowd was at the station and the people packed the sidewalks three deep as the funeral party drove through the streets of the city to the cemetery. Over the grave there had been erected a big white tent, church-like in appearance, with a chance at one end. In the center was the grave.

When the funeral party arrived, Mrs. Morgan, leaning on the arm of her son, was the first to enter with Bishop Brewster of Connecticut.

The opening anthem, was in the Episcopal committal service as the coffin was brought in. When the services, lasting ten minutes, were over, J. P. Morgan, Jr., escorted his mother to a carriage and then went back with his son, Junius, and stood while the grave was filled.

LABOR WILL BE SCARCE

Portland Contractor Predicts Shortage in Rose City the Coming Summer.

Portland, April 17.—"Labor conditions will be such this summer that contractors and builders will have the greatest difficulty in securing enough mechanics to carry on the $7,000,000 worth of building scheduled for the year," said H. E. Deering, a local contractor.

"While men have been crowding around the jobs all winter, ready to take two or three days' work a week at minimum wages, in order to subsist merely, this summer the contractor will be sending out his cry from Portland for more workmen. The spring work in the country will begin, and the farms will begin to call scores of laborers, manufacturing industries will increase their forces and with every industry operating at full tilt, the builder will be in a bad way to find enough carpenters and mechanics to complete his work on schedule time.

"With 50 buildings, costing $7,237,500, to be completed within the next few months, and with many of these structures employing 100 and 150 men each, the number of men engaged in the construction of city blocks alone will exceed 3,500, and this does not include residences or structures costing under $40,000. The Broadway building, which I am completing now, uses 100 men, and I would estimate that the Pittock block could swallow up 100 and never notice it. There is the Morgan building, which will employ at least 150; the Northwestern building, using 200 men every day when the real construction work starts; the Bell Telephone building, which will utilize at a conservative estimate 150 men, and two score of other buildings, ranging from $100,000 to $1,000,000, which will take an aggregate of hundreds of laborers and mechanics. Carpenters promise to be especially scarce, and while there will be plenty of bricklayers and perhaps an adequate number of skilled concrete men, there is going to be a lack of steel workers and common laborers unless I am badly mistaken. Of course the fact remains that in Seattle, Spokane, Tacoma and the cities of California there is no especial building impetus, and perhaps those towns will be able to supply a large number of laborers and mechanics, but this supply will not equip Portland for the big building epidemic of which she is on the verge.

THE JAPANESE WILL MAKE TEST

feeling might be created in Japan, but he had not heard any intimations that Japan believed the United States government was at fault.

Protest in Senate.

Sacramento, Cal., April 14.—A protest direct from Japan against an alien land bill that would affect the rights of Japanese subjects in California was read in the state senate today.

It was a cablegram signed by the Osaka press and read as follows: "Japanese pay profoundest respect noble spirit America. Regret repeated appearances anti-Japanese bills your congress. We hope earnestly not pass any bill which destroy good feeling between America and Japan." No comment was made from the floor and the message was sent to be printed in the journal.

Ranchers Fruitgrowers Mechanics

We are arranging to introduce a new feature in our business. We are placing on file in our store catalogs from the various mail order houses, from the wholesale merchants in the East, and from various manufacturers, and we invite every person in Jackson county to call and inspect all of these catalogs. If we haven't in stock ANY ARTICLE IN OUR LINE YOU WANT, we will be glad to order it for you from any one of these catalogs. If we have it in stock, we will make the price as low as the lowest price given in any one of the catalogs, plus the actual freight or postage required to deliver the article in Ashland.

We came to Ashland three years ago to make this our home. We are glad we did, as anyone should be pleased with this beautiful city, with everything needful to make life worth living. We did not come to get rich. All we want is a living, and this we have tried to secure by serving the people the best we knew how, by giving good value for your dollar.

We blame no one for trying at this time to make the dollar go as far as possible, but we believe, everything being equal, people prefer to trade at home, where they can see the article. Home merchants pay taxes here, catalog houses do not. Home merchants help to support the town and community. Catalog houses do not.

Come in and let's get acquainted. Don't let the catalog houses, two thousand miles away, prejudice you into thinking that all the home merchants are robbers.

We are glad to meet you and get acquainted. We are all interested in our town and our community, and should all strive to help build and not tear down. We believe in a SQUARE DEAL.
