HOPE TO CAN CHERRIES.

Bagley Canning Company Will If It Can Get Them.

The Bagley Canning Company is running this week "processing" a carload of prunes which will be shipped out at once. They are about ready for the season's canning operation, though some minor work remains to be done. The men are wiring for the electric motor which will be used to supplement the steam power. The motor will run the sanitary canning machines, all the available steam being necessary to do the cooking when running full blast.

Dr. Bagley states that they will can cherries if they can get enough to warrant starting up. He states that he has not had a single response to the requests made both through the public press and through other channels for information as to the amount of fruit which will be available to the cannery this year.

Dr. Bagley, as well as Ashland canners and others, states that it is impossible to successfully run a cannery without knowing crop conditions so that the manager can know what to prepare for. Canners unite in stating that it is unfair on the part of ranchers and fruit growers to expect to have their fruit handled by the cannery at the last moment if they do not let the proprietors know before hand what they expect to have. The canneries do not expect to get all the top notch fruit of the valley, but they have got to have some kind of a line on what they will have. A cannery, in order to successfully handle their output, must, after building a reputation on some product, be able to get a reasonable amount of it each year to supply their customers or they cannot hold their trade, and then when fruit is plenty and market hard to get they are left with their stock on their hands because their customers have gone to those who have been able to supply them regularly.

Speaking From Experience.

"A prophet is not without honor save in his own country," said the man who complains.

"Well," replied Farmer Corntosel, "that's one way o' sayin' it. You might also mention that it's easier for a man to sell a gold brick in a town where they don't know him."—Washington Star.

TALENT NEWS ITEMS.

The Talent Mercantile Company is somewhat crippled on the help proposition this week. Miss Linna Hanscom, their efficient and accommodating lady clerk, has been laid up nearly a week with blood poisoning on one foot. Monday morning a neckyoke gave way while Harry Mason, their driver, was out with a load delivering. The tongue dropped down and he was thrown out on a pile of rocks, injuring his back and hip severely. He is again able to be about, but is not yet able to resume his duties. The team ran about half a mile, but beyond breaking the wagon tongue no damage was done to the rig.

The Talent Commercial Club will meet next Tuesday evening. There are a number of important matters to come before the meeting, including preparations for the Farmers' Institute to be held Friday, June 20. It is earnestly requested that all members of the club be present.

The Talent baseball team has practically disbanded. Though the boys were winning games right along, they got tired of putting every Sunday in on the diamond as it left those who work every day no leisure even to go to see their girls.

WOULD CURB PROFITS.

Governor O'Hara Proposes This For Employers.

Chicago, June 10.—Enactment of a maximum profit law to curb employers who have threatened to throw the additional burden upon the consumer if minimum wage legislation is passed, is the proposal of Lieutenant Governor O'Hara, which has grown out of the vice and starvation wages probe here.

O'Hara proposes that such a law would limit the legal profits of any business to a certain percentage on the actual investment.

John Mitchell, president of the Illinois Trust & Savings Bank, who testified late yesterday, was the first to mention the maximum profit plan. He said:

"I would not be surprised if maximum profit legislation should be the outcome of this inquiry. I rather think it might be more beneficial than minimum wage legislation."

Mrs. Ella Flagg Young, Chicago's famous superintendent of schools, was also a witness along this line. She said low wages were largely responsible for the weakened moral and mental fibre of many young girls. She declared that factories which pay girls $5 a week are a "public menace which should be uprooted like weeds in a garden. And the proprietors of such places should be sent to school."

Roads and the Cost of Living.

The inefficiency arising from bad roads makes it cost something like 300 million dollars a year merely to cart our cotton crop from the fields to the railway station. I think few people realize the immense tax put on us all by bad roads and inefficient handling.

I have said that if our farmers once realized the awful tax that bad roads impose upon them public opinion would sternly demand the making and maintaining of good roads everywhere. It now costs the farmer twelve, yes, twenty or more, times as much per ton mile to move his goods to the railway station as it does to move them on the railway after they leave the station. The farmer, indeed, in bad cases and at certain seasons may have to pay as much as $1 a ton mile, while the railroad carries the freight, when it once gets it, at an average of three-quarters of a cent per ton mile.

A thorough system of good roads would strike an immense blow at the high cost of living, and this, of course, would be added to whatever motors can be substituted for horse-flesh.—William C. Redfield, Secretary of Commerce.

Human Nature.

"Why station a policeman beside this park bench?"

"It is newly painted."

"He can't keep people from testing fresh paint."

"No; but he can keep 'em in line."

The Next Best.

Master—Well, Effie, what are you going to do when you are grown up?

Effie—If I was a boy I'd be president; but seeing I'm a girl, I guess being a rich widow is as good as anything.—Judge.

Cannery for Central Point.

Herald: R. K. Hoke, who has one of the most prosperous ranches in the valley and who has had considerable experience in the canning business in other states, announces the intention of engaging in that business here this season and will begin operations with a plant capable of an output of 1,000 cans per day.

Mr. Hoke already has a suitable building on his ranch some four miles north of the city which will be utilized as a cannery and the necessary machinery will be installed within a short time and everything put in readiness to handle this season's crop. For the present tomatoes will be the main product canned but it is the intention of Mr. Hoke to enlarge his plant for another season and handle all classes of small fruit and vegetables that ranchers care to grow.

Mr. Hoke was engaged in the canning business in Florida for some time and is experienced in the business. He has for some time been working quietly on this plan for the business here and now has it where a start is assured. Once started and with a man of Mr. Hoke's experience and progressiveness behind it there is little doubt but that it will grow.

The proposition should receive the heartiest encouragement and cooperation of all business men and ranchers of this section as a guaranteed market for the produce that can be raised in this section will go a long way in the encouragement of settlers locating on small tracts and assuring a more thickly settled and heavier producing territory.
