Too Much Ma.
 (By Dorothy Dix.)

The lists of old maids are recruited from the ranks of girls with too much mother. Sometimes it is a mother who is so selfish that she wants to keep her daughters with her. Sometimes it is a mother who is so jealous of her daughter's affection that she deliberately drives every man away who comes to the house.

Often the reason girls don't marry is simply because there is always too much mother on the scene. There are women so stupid and with so little tact that they think that the only way to chaperone a girl is to always sit bodily over her as if they were doing perpetual police duty.

When a young man calls they are to the front. When a young man wants to take their daughters out they tag along. They never give Cupid a chance.

Now, in this free and untrammelled country, where a nice young man is a nice young man, and a good girl is chaperoned by her goodness, too much mother is a scarecrow that will frighten any youth away from a girl.

He doesn't dress himself up in his best to go and talk to any middle-aged, stout lady. Nor does he propose to spend his money for any girl's relatives. Therefore, he passes up the girl with too much mother for the one who has perhaps too little mother. Many women wonder why their daughters have no attentions from men. Most of them can find the answer by looking in the mirror.

The effect of too much mother on the girl herself is also blighting. If she is of a gentle, mild nature the dominance of mother fades her to a pale shadow. She has no conversation, no opinion, no taste, because mother has never allowed her to have any. If, on the other hand, she is of a strong and vigorous nature, she chafes under mother's autocratic rule. She wants more individual life of her own, which she can never have at home, and I have heard more than one woman who made a bad match say that she married the first man that asked her so as to get from under her mother's thumb.

That too much mother is at the bottom of the great majority of divorces is a matter of statistics. A celebrated divorce lawyer said not long ago that in 75 per cent of the cases that came under his knowledge he was satisfied that the couple would have got along well enough together if it had not been for the mother-in-law. When a woman's son or daughter marries she can't realize that her right to boss him or her or his or her affairs has ceased.

She's got to have a finger in her children's domestic affairs, and when she puts it in she stirs up trouble.

Conscientious women think that being a good mother is one of the virtues that cannot be overdone. This is a mistake. The art of being a good mother consists in knowing when to get off the job and give the child a chance.

No mothering can atone to any one for the lack of individual opportunity for self-development and self-expression and personal liberty.

Hours of Service Law is Upheld. Washington.—By declaring valid the federal "hours of service law," which prohibits railroads from working trainmen more than 16 consecutive hours, the United States supreme court confirmed today the convictions of the Missouri, Kansas & Texas railroad for alleged violations of the act at Sherman, Texas.

"It is a hopeless fool that tells all he knows," says a paragon. More hopeless the one who tells much that he doesn't know, and isn't so.

THE THRICE-A-WEEK EDITION OF THE NEW YORK WORLD

Practically a Daily at the price of a Weekly. No other Newspaper in the world gives so much at so low a price.

This is a time of great events, and you will want the news accurately and promptly. All the countries of the world steadily draw closer together, and the telegraph wires bring the happenings of every one. No other newspaper has a service equal to that of The World and it relates everything fully and promptly.

The World long since established a record for impartiality, and anybody can afford its Thrice-a-Week edition, which comes every other day in the week, except Sunday. It will be of particular value to you now. The Thrice-a-Week World also abounds in other strong features, serial stories, humor, markets, cartoons; in fact, everything that is to be found in a first-class daily.

The Thrice-a-Week World's regular subscription price is only $1.50 per year, and this pays for 156 papers. We offer this unequalled newspaper and the Tidings ($2.00) both for $2.75.

W. C. T. U. Meeting.
 The W. C. T. U. held a very interesting mothers' meeting at the home of Mrs. Patrick's Tuesday afternoon. About twenty ladies were present. All enjoyed the program, which can always be relied upon to be first class, with our much-loved president, Mrs. Ashcraft, in charge. There was a duet by Mrs. Britsen and Mrs. Slingerland. These singers feel and make others feel the fine sentiments of the songs they sing. Mrs. Slingerland read a very able prepared paper on the responsibility of living, which showed that she believes with Longfellow that "Life is real, life is earnest." Quite a number of clippings from papers were read and discussed. Miss Hathaway gave a very enthusiastic talk along the lines of teaching temperance to the young, and urged that we do more temperance teaching in our Sunday schools. Mrs. Walters gave a short talk comparing women's dress of today with the fashions of past ages. Mrs. Ashcraft pointed out that it was the woman that was busiest in her home that could be relied upon to carry forward public improvement work.

Women's hats, says a headline, are "more strange than ever," which is certainly paying a compliment, of a sort, to the ingenuity of their inventors.

Good shooting is reported in the Colorado mine strike, and sportsmen don't have to take out a hunters' license either.

Cake.
 One cup sugar, 1 cup lard or other shortening, 1 cup sweet milk, yolks of 2 eggs, 2 heaping teaspoons baking powder, flour to make fairly stiff. Bake in layers. For filling make boiled icing, using whites of 2 eggs, well beaten with this syrup: One cup sugar, ½ cup water. Boil till it threads. Flavor icing with ½ teaspoon each vanilla and lemon.

Bread.
 Scald 1 quart of fresh milk at night. Pour one-third of it over 1 ½ quarts of flour while hot and set the rest to cool. Add the rest of the milk when lukewarm and beat thoroughly, adding a soaked yeast cake. Add salt and sugar and work down hard in the morning. Knead three times, making into loaves the third time.
