F. F. Geyer, the Southern Pacific brakeman—well known locally—who is in jail at Redding for shooting a hobo, has a better chance of gaining his liberty since the state's main witness has been arrested and placed in jail on a burglary charge. The witness is Fred Thompson, who bears a bad reputation—being out on parole from the reform school at the time he committed the burglary for which he is now in jail.

N. P. Hansen, mail carrier on the Climax rural route, is in Granite City Hospital, where he was operated upon this Wednesday afternoon for the removal of foreign substances from his right eye. ## C. L. and S. Circle Completes Reading Course.

The Chautauqua Literary and Scientific Circle has just completed the first book of the reading course for 1913 and 1914—Mahaffy's "Rambles and Studies in Greece." The prescribed course for the year consists of three books besides the one completed: Powers' "Message of Greek Art," Miller and Kuhns' "Studies in the Poetry of Italy," and Schmucker's "Meaning of Evolution." To supplement the work, the club members have access to books on Greek and Roman history, literature, art and architecture, from the state library. Much interesting information is brought to the homes of the club members by the weekly visitor, "The Chautauquan."

One evening has been devoted to the "Unspeakable Turk." During this evening special attention was given to the life of Mohammed, the Koran, and the joys and sorrows of the Turkish women, as revealed in "A Turkish Woman's Impressions of Europe."

Aside from the study of the classic lands of the Mediterranean basin, the club has spent one very profitable evening in Panama, another in Alaska, and a third in the smoke and din of battle in the Balkan peninsula. Last, but not least, the club recently became a political body, discussing the tariff with much warmth and some eloquence, and the public will be glad to know that the question was settled to the satisfaction of all, for all time.

Inasmuch as Ashland has been one of the western centers of Chautauqua interest for so many years, the C. L. S. C. hopes that other circles may be formed in the near future.
