ASHLAND HIGH SCHOOL

Various Notes That Tell of Activities in the Realm of the Three R's.

Robert Spencer and Fred Garrett are expected to join the senior English class this week.

A meeting of the Annual staff was held Wednesday afternoon under direction of Editor Ashcraft.

Two large classes in sociology under Miss Parker have been organized and will begin active work as soon as a few more copies of the text book arrive.

Miss Wagner has become enthused in the Annual cause and is putting in one period a day in its behalf. Miss Wagner has been chosen faculty advisor for the '14 edition.

The new semester began Monday and all students have a clear record to begin on. The senior English class will take active steps into argumentation and debate as a starter.

The last semester cards were given out Friday, including all grades for the first four months of the school term and examination grades. There were very few failures in any of the examinations.

Reports from Klamath Falls say that although the Ashland debaters were defeated it was a close decision and that two of the judges' papers were very close. There is some consolation in that.

Among former residents of Ashland who were seen in Yreka when the teams went over were Elmer "Shorty" Orr, formerly a high school student here, and L. A. Pedersen, a well-known Ashland tailor.

The two senior English classes have been combined and will meet as one class hereafter since Miss Wagner thinks it advisable that the upper classmen should be together in at least one of their classes.

Professor Moore suggested Tuesday evening that the school applaud the freshmen for their meritorious conduct during the school hours and for not getting lost in the hallways or getting into the wrong classrooms. The suggestion was unanimously accepted.

Miss Calla Vogell, formerly a student at the Ashland Polytechnic College, is taking Miss Madge Eubanks' place as secretary to Professor Briscoe while Miss Eubanks will assist Miss Davenport with the domestic science classes. The change was made at the beginning of the new semester.

The basketball schedule which Coach Klum has arranged to date is as follows: Cottage Grove at Ashland, January 23 and 24; Corvallis at Ashland, January 30 and 31; Independence at Ashland, February 13 and 14; Dallas at Ashland, February 20 and 21; Medford at Medford, February 25 and 27; Medford at Ashland, February 26 and 28.

The task of reseating the assembly to accommodate the new freshmen was undertaken Monday morning and three rows of desks were left for their accommodation. Monday evening school was dismissed fifteen minutes early so that the young rooks might roam about the building undisturbed by any upper classmen and to enable the freshmen to find their respective class rooms.

While the high school teams were in California the freshmen and sophomores had a little game of their own on the gym floor Friday evening. The sophomores were after revenge for the football result sometime back, and from the looks of the score they got it, since the upper classmen were victorious 16 to 7. Among the features of the game were Payne's beautiful throw into the wrong basket and the official stunts pulled off by Referee Salisbury. The lineup follows:

Sophomores— Freshmen— Lilly Forward... Van Dyke Fox Forward... Beaver, Harrell Gumaer Center..... Buck Morgan Guard..... Payne Anderson Guard..... Abbott Nearly all the members of the orchestra were present at the first meeting of the second semester Monday evening. The manager and other members are in hopes that the orchestra will be enlarged by the addition of members of the new freshman class. There are members of the orchestra from nearly every class in the high school and it is hoped that if there are any members of the new freshman class who play orchestra instruments of any kind, or are beginning to learn to play, they will do their duty to the class and the high school by turning out and helping in the musical organization. Regular orchestra practice for this semester will be held on Tuesdays at 7 p. m. and on Fridays at 3:30 p. m.

The new students this semester are Theresa Branch, who enters the sophomore class; Eldon Cortnell and Morris Plymate, both Juniors and Anita Jarvis, a post-graduate, besides the new freshmen class, which includes 44 members. The names of those who are just beginning high school work are Ernest Abbott, Gladys Applegate, Miriam Banks, Leon Baughman, Charlie Brady, Albert Bryant, Grace Buck, Priscilla Carnahan, Verni Carter, Helen Cunningham, Leslie Cunningham, Earl Dahuff, Fannie Doran, Mason Doran, Cora Divet, Miller Dunn, Georgia English, Marietta Frizelle, Louise Gillette, Gladys Good, Howard Gordon, Margaret Gordon, Dwight Gregg, Ernest Hicks, J. Heston Jones, Erma Koehler, Alice Leavitt, Arthur Maxedon, Darrell Minkler, Cecil Mitchell, Edith Moody, Gertrude Moore, Reeta Morgan, Edwin Mowat, Bernice Myer, Fay Phillips, Lorena Reggins, Lyle Sams, Merritt Swing, Doris Taverner, Anna Belle Van Natta, Helen Walker, August Walruff and Claude Warren.

The two Ashland-high school basketball teams took a trip to Yreka last Friday to play the teams of that city. Those taking the trip report a most enjoyable time and every minute was one of fun; even those six long hours spent in Montague were put to the best advantage. In Yreka the high school students of that city showed the visitors a good time at the dance in the evening after the game and at other times during the stay. The journey through the different towns left a trail of songs and yells, and especially were shouts of glee sent up when "that midnight choo choo" pulled into Montague. The most enjoyable part of the trip to Ashlanders, however, was the realization of the "little phrase, "Yreka, it can't be did." Those players who were in for the trip were Margaret Patterson, Oneta Barnard, Alene Bomar, Eunice Grubb, Margaret Hodgson, Marie Homes, Bob Spencer, Gravy Plymate, Dana Frame, Lawson Riley, Milton Fraley, Ralph Harris, Howard Frame and Kenneth Cummings. Coach Klum, Miss Powers, Mildred Applegate and Yeri Barnhouse accompanied the teams.

Pioneer Passes On.

Powles William Blackert, a prominent rancher on Galls creek near Gold Hill, was stricken with heart failure recently in his seventy-sixth year. He was born in Berlin, Germany, where he grew to young manhood. During the Crimean war he enlisted in the British army at Aldershot, England. In 1856 he sailed for America, and after a few months' residence in Maine took passage around the Horn for San Francisco. Arriving in San Francisco he enlisted in the regular army, and during his term of service saw much active duty against the reds in Oregon and at the Walla Walla uprising.

At the close of his enlistment he came to Jacksonville, Oregon, when in its heyday as a prosperous mining camp, and opened a butcher shop. Here he was wedded to Miss Sarah Shoemaker. Two years later he became interested in the once famous Alder Gulch placer mines, and located on Galls creek, where the rest of his life was spent. He is survived by his wife and four children, Gus and William Blackert, of Gold Hill, Mrs. Mary Jordan of California, Mrs. Matilda Garrett of Galls creek,

The papering of three rooms in the city hall was placed in the hands of the chief of police. The building committee was authorized to sell old doors at the city hall.

The chief of police was instructed to notify the city librarian of any case of contagious disease coming to his knowledge.

Dr. Swedenburg stated in connection with the scarlet fever scare that he doubted if there had been a case in the city this fall, and further stated that Dr. Gregg, who had most of the cases, was also in doubt but had quarantined as a matter of precaution.

Councilman Ware brought up the matter of the Pacific Highway and moved that a committee of three be appointed to take up matters concerning the highway. Councilman Cunningham moved to amend by making the committee consist of the members of the council and the mayor. The motion was carried as amended.

Mr. Billings asked if there was any ordinance prohibiting placing advertising on city property. He was informed that there was.

Councilman Cunningham moved that this ordinance and that regarding pool halls be published. Carried.

Indians Send Delegates.

The Indians of the Klamath reservation have decided to send a delegation to Washington to consult with the head of the Indian department. They are anxious to get their tribal matters settled, and the matters to be taken up will be the sale of Indian timber and the opening of the Williamson and other rivers for logging. They will also take up the disposition of the lands that are being reclaimed on the reservation. They have concluded that they can get more satisfactory action on their affairs by being represented at the national capital by a delegation chosen by their council.

Stage Holdup Near Yreka.

An old-fashioned stage holdup occurred on the mountain road between Yreka and Walker last week. Two masked men in ragged overalls sprang out from a clump of bushes, covered the driver and ordered him from his seat. They rifled his pockets, securing forty-five dollars, tied his hands together and placed him inside the coach. There were no passengers and the mail was untouched. Before leaving the bandits started the horses down the mountain, but the driver got his hands free in time to prevent an accident. There is no clue to the highwaymen.
