Panama Weakened Medford Man

The San Francisco Examiner of recent date contained the following regarding B. H. Harris, formerly a resident of Medford and for a number of years a member of Hillah Temple, Ancient Arabic Order of the Mystic Shrine at Ashland. His sad plight was described in the Ashland Record about one year ago, at which time Hon. E. D. Briggs—illustrious Potentate of Hillah Temple—took up his case on behalf of the lodge and established communication between him and his family:
"Driven delirious as the result of hardships he endured in the timber wilderness of Panama when he became lost after being deserted by his guides while on a timber cruising expedition September last, B. H. Harris of Berkeley, formerly of Medford, is now at the United States government hospital at Ancon a mental and physical wreck.
"To be deserted by his two guides, robbed by natives and left to wander aimlessly through the dense forests of Panama until he became stark mad and later placed in stocks by the natives of another forest-bound village, was one of the experiences endured by Harris.
"The guides who deserted Harris came upon him several days later as he was in the stocks, and, securing his release, conducted him to Colon, where they turned him over to the police. He was there placed in jail, and probably would have died in a dungeon were it not for the fact that he was discovered by an American by the name of Sauer, who identified him by a Shrine emblem he wore. He was taken to the government hospital.
"Harris went to Panama in the company of E. C. Aills of San Francisco and Glen Miller of Oroville, Miller, who went as a buyer, and Aills remained at Colon. Harris pushed on to the interior, accompanied by the guides and a surveyor. The party came across an abandoned gold mine and the surveyor insisted on working.
"Harris went on with the guides, and at the first native village they deserted him. Then he was robbed. He left the place and wandered for days without food, until, in a state of delirium, he stumbled into another native village. Here he was placed in stocks. He was almost stark mad when the guides found him."

Famous Ranch Changes Hands

Realty deals involving over $100,000 worth of ranch lands lying partly in Jackson county Oregon and partly in Northern California were closed the past week. Included in them were 1500 acres of the Rufus J. Cole holdings near Coletina. The Sacramento Bee says:
"J. V. Russell has sold to Mrs. S. E. Foulke and her son, Louis Foulke, 960 acres of land just north of Gazelle for $48,000. There are water rights with the deal. It is understood that the new owners will establish a fine stock farm on the land, raising blooded cattle and hogs.
"W. J. Bray and son, George Bray, of Bray, have purchased 1500 acres in the northern part of Siskiyou county and extending over into Jackson county Oregon, paying $55,000. The purchase was made from R. J. Cole, and the land is both agricultural and grazing.
"G. L. Chase of Yreka has just closed a lease with the California and Oregon Power Company for about 2000 acres of land on the Klamath river, north of Yreka, for grazing purposes, and will place his cattle on the land. One portion of the property was formerly owned by him, being purchased for reservoir purposes by the power company. The dam that will flood it is now under construction. Chase is a pioneer knight of the whip.
"Now there should be a general cleaning up all along the line. Every alley and byplace should be properly cleaned. This should be done in order to keep the atmosphere as pure as possible, and thereby hedge against the different kinds of disease that are the outgrowth of filth and impure surroundings. An ounce of prevention is better than a pound of cure.
"This would be a grand old world if people could purchase experience on trial, with the privilege of returning it if not satisfactory."

Vigorous Kick On Toll Charges

Numerous complaints alleging exorbitant charges being collected by the Dollarhide Toll Road over the Siskiyou caused the county commissioners' court to instruct County Attorney E. E. Kelly to serve notice upon the owners not to charge more than $1 for each vehicle. Sheriff Singler served the notice Friday.
Dudley Dollarhide, who was in Ashland Saturday, says his schedule of prices was $2 for Ford cars or cars under that horsepower and $2.50 for cars upward and $3 for seven-passenger cars, and 50 cents for motorcycles. A two-horse wagon goes through for $1.50, a two-horse buggy for $1.25, and one-horse buggy $1 and a two-wheeled one-horse cart for 50 cents and man on horseback 25 cents. Cattle 10 cents per head and sheep and hogs 5 cents each.
An additional charge of $1 for each car is made for round trips. Notwithstanding Dollarhide denies charging more than the above rates, the charge is repeatedly made that he does. He partially admits discrimination in favor of those that use the road quite often.
To the suggestion that his enterprise looked very much like he was the successor of old Tip Su, the Indian chief who held forth in the Siskiyou when the white men arrived and who refused to be bound by the treaties other chiefs entered into and by his successor, a gentlemanly highwayman named Black Bart, Dollarhide smiled and remarked there were some things looked more prosperous on the face of the situation than the appearances warranted.
He says the toll road business has amounted to nothing since the Southern Pacific railroad connected up, though previous to that period it was very profitable on account of the heavy traffic. Some years the total amount of tolls did not reach $300 per year, and until the automobiles became numerous the business was worthless as it required a certain amount of work annually to keep it up whether the traffic was poor or not. "The fact that for several years it was declined by the county court for $2500 would be evidence that it was considered a poor investment by the county commissioners." Mr. Dollarhide says the above rates, except the automobile rates, were granted the original company when it was chartered in pioneer times.

Ministers Met At Grants Pass

The Rogue River Valley Ministerial Association, an interdenominational organization for the betterment of religious conditions by cooperation in work and fellowship, was entertained by Bethany Presbyterian church at Grants Pass.
The program carried out comprised papers upon "Rural Work—How to Increase the Efficiency," Rev. C. L. Creevy of Central Point; "The Roman Menace," Rev. W. J. Douglass of Ashland.
There was interesting discussion of these papers, introduction of new members and routine business, punctuated at noon by a splendid dinner set by the hospitable ladies of Bethany church.
The officers of the association are as follows: President, Rev. W. J. Douglass, Ashland; vice-president, W. F. Shields, Medford; secretary-treasurer, J. Manley Spencer, Rogue River.
Among those present were Rev. J. Riley Jeffrey Jr., Rev. Williamson D. Vater, Rev. I. H. Teel of Grants Pass, Rev. C. L. Creevy of Central Point; Rev. W. A. Schwimley of Ashland, Rev. A. Coslett of Gold Hill, George Iverson of Gold Hill, J. A. McAfee, Rev. S. A. Douglas and Rev. W. F. Gloeckner of Grants Pass, Rev. J. Manley Spencer of Rogue River and Rev. W. J. Douglass of Ashland.
The association adjourned to meet in special session at Ashland on July eighth, during the Chautauqua. The next regular meeting will be held at Central Point October twelfth.

Democrats Organize County Committee

The new democratic county central committee met at Medford Tuesday afternoon to effect its organization as required by the election laws. County Chairman Porter J. Neff refused to stand for re-election as did Secretary H. D. Reed, who has since been appointed postmaster of Gold Hill under the civil service examination and feels the law disqualifies him. W. H. Canon asked to be relieved from his six years' service as state committeeman as the time and expense in attending to its duties were heavier than he felt he could afford. J. E. Barksdull was elected chairman, Mr. Heisel secretary and treasurer, W. H. Canon state committeeman, Chas. B. Wolf congressional committeeman. Thos. E. Nichols announced his acceptance of the nomination for senator, it having been written in. J. E. Barksdull announced he would decline the written-in nomination for representative as it was against his expressed wishes, that he was defeated by seven votes after a good campaign two years ago, that he could not afford to make a vigorous campaign this year and that he would not allow his name to remain there as a formality and not make a campaign. This matter as well as the attitude of H. C. Garnett, whose nomination was written in as joint representative for Jackson and Josephine counties, as well as some other items concerning the completion of the ticket, were deferred to another meeting.

Ashland Boy Pianist Praised

Last Sunday's Eugene Register contained the following in regard to an Ashland boy who is rapidly rising as a pianist:
"A notable and esthetic feature of the June commencement exercises was that of the complimentary recital given last evening in Villard Hall, in which the University School of Music presented its talented pupil, Lloyd Casebeer, pianist, in a selected program well calculated to display his mastery over the ebony and ivory of this instrument.
"Mr. Casebeer appeared to best advantage in the second group, displaying a technique of unusual brilliance and a musicianship that is very encouraging to his tutors. There was an entire lack of mannerisms and a poise that showed he was at home before a critical audience. A large and enthusiastic gathering of music lovers was present and the performer was deluged with floral tributes.
"Miss Leah Perkins, who assisted Mr. Casebeer, displayed a contralto voice of unusual richness and power. She was enthusiastically received. The following program was rendered:
(a) Presto Agitato in G minor... Mendelssohn
(b) Schuchtib, Op. 7... Mendelssohn
(c) Prelude... Chopin
(d) 'Si oiseau Petals'... Liszt
My Ain Folk... Lemon
Miss Leah Perkins,
(a) Etude in F major... Arensky
(b) Prelude in C minor... Rachmaninoff
(c) Lieberstrum No. 3... Liszt
The Ashland... Rubenstein
Miss Leah Perkins,
(a) To An Old White Pine... Macdowell
(b) March Wind... Macdowell
(c) To a Wild Rose... Macdowell
(d) En Courant, Op. 53... Godard"
Mr. Casebeer is a son of Jacob Casebeer of Ashland. His brother Chauncey graduates from the scientific department of the state university this year.

Long Litigation On Golden Drift

The litigation in the Golden Drift case—heard before Judge Calkins in Ashland about two years ago and discussed in this paper at various times—has been settled by stipulation of the attorneys and taken out of the hands of the supreme court.
After the decision of the circuit court the Rogue River Public Service Corporation became the owner of the Golden Drift property, consisting of about 1500 acres of land, the big dam and pumping plant three miles east of Grants Pass and the oldest water right on Rogue river for power and irrigation purposes.
Under the terms of the settlement the Rogue River Public Service Corporation becomes the owner of approximately 500 acres more of land heretofore owned by C. G. Ament and non-resident associates, which lands were outside of the decree of the circuit court, and the settlement also clears up the service corporation's title to over 1500 acres of other lands. The settlement brings the corporation's land holdings up to about 2800 acres, of which 2100 acres are in Josephine county and 700 acres in Jackson county. The new lands consist of about forty acres within the city limits of Grants Pass and about 150 acres, having one mile of river frontage from just east of the city limits, and about 300 acres down the river adjoining the Leonard orchards.
The land of which the title was cleared up embraces sixty acres surrounded by Tokay Heights and is just east of the city along the Southern Pacific railroad, and about 900 lots in South Grants Pass, the railroad addition to Grants Pass, the other lands being orchard lands near town along and near the Crescent City road.
The settlement has resulted in stopping litigation and the turning over to the Rogue River Public Service Corporation of the lands above described, securities of the Golden Drift Mining Company, consisting of capital stock to the par value of $975,535, bonds to par value of $142,500, and notes to amount of $31,920, and the capital stock of all subsidiary companies, aggregating more than $1,200,000 par value. All stock of the Josephine County Irrigation and Power Company, owned by the Aments, amounting to 4780 shares, was also transferred to the Public Service Corporation.
In consideration to this the service corporation deeded back the Ament home, on Eighth street, to Mrs. C. W. Ament, who pays C. W. Ament $25,000 clear and allows him to retain thirty-five acres situated where the municipal railroad crosses the county road; C. G. Ament receives $45,000, out of which several small land mortgages will be paid; M. C. Ament will receive $10,000. The corporation releases all the judgments had against the Ament family, aggregating approximately $105,000, and also pays the unpaid court expenses.

Alaska People to Spend Summer Here

E. F. Greenman of Ashland is in receipt of the following letter from Frank Harvey—an old Iowa friend who spent some months here with his family a year ago and then went up into Alaska:
"Mrs. Harvey, her mother and the boys will leave Juneau about the twenty-ninth or thirtieth of this month to spend the summer in Ashland. Mrs. Harvey is pretty well run down and the doctor said for her to get out of town as it was the best thing she could do for the summer, so she picked Ashland, and we found out from a friend that lives there that the cost of living will be no greater for the month for the two families, with me here and they in Ashland.
"They will get a furnished house and live on the fruits and vegetables and enjoy themselves. The weather is ideal here. My partner has an auto and we go out along the beach and have a picnic supper nearly every night."

Keene Creek Irrigation Coming

The waters of Keene creek will be brought over the divide ready for irrigating part of the project east of Ashland this season according to the best information in possession of Civil Engineer T. W. Osgood of the Foothills Irrigation Company at this time. Mr. Osgood had considerable work done at Hiatt prairie, the storage point, last fall and the work demonstrated the feasibility of the enterprise.
The storage reservoir will cover 1000 acres at an average depth of twenty feet, making 20,000 acre feet. One mile of canal will be necessary to throw the water over the summit into the Emigrant creek watershed at a point sixteen miles from Ashland, and it is believed the project will be sufficiently along to irrigate some of the upper valley this season. The project will pass through Ashland and Talent and the total irrigation capacity will be 8000 acres. It will certainly be a great boost for Ashland and the south end of the county.

Siskiyou County Road Work Started

W. H. Mason of Klamath Falls and Fred Fradenburg of Henley and well known in Ashland are getting ready to push the work of grading the California state highway on the contract awarded them between Hornbrook and the state line connecting up with the Jackson county highway over the Siskiyou mountains. The distance is eight miles and the contract price $29,514. J. W. Sweeney, the contractor of the Jackson county section, was the next lowest bidder to Mason and Fradenburg. T. A. Bedford, engineer of the California highway commission for the division of Northern California, and Engineer N. E. Graves of Siskiyou county met with the members of the Jackson county commissioners' court and Oregon highway commission engineers a few days ago in a conference over the matter. Both contracts will be completed about the same time.
Mr. Kittredge says the county highway between Central Point and Medford will be completed by July 15 and open for traffic about the first of August. This is the latest date for the completion of the road before then. The concrete has been laid from Central Point to about one and three-quarter miles from the Medford pavement.
Rapid progress is now being made on both the Central Point and Ashland roads and there will be a second concrete-mixing machine received by the first of July to start laying the pavement from Phoenix to Ashland.
When the Central Point road is completed the present mixer will be put on the road from Medford to Phoenix and Mr. Kittredge says that the highway between Ashland and Central Point will be completed and open for traffic before the fall rains begin—probably by the middle of October.
Meanwhile the excavation over the Siskiyou will be finished and allowed to settle through the winter ready for the construction of the permanent surface in the spring and summer of 1915.

Elks' Stolen Silverware Found

On June 7 Marshal John Williams of Dunsuir arrested a tramp and recovered an assortment of silverware, consisting of knives, forks and tablespoons. The tablespoons were found to belong to the Ashland B. P. O. E., and had the imprint on the handle. The rest of the silverware was found to belong to Mrs. W. R. Lee of Hornbrook.
The tramp said that he found them in the brush a few miles north of Dunsuir. The value of the silverware was estimated at $30.
