This year we shopped with particular care when we bought our Xmas goods.

We got all we could for the money.

And we in turn shall let you people own it on the same terms.

You may shop today if you wish with all the advantages of stock completeness, and with none of the annoyances incident to the rush that's sure to come later.

Buy your Christmas remembrances here, now, and buy in comfort.

Always bearing in mind that Jewelry is the gift of gifts.

We are showing the largest and finest stock in our new store that has ever been shown in Medford.

PARAGUAY'S FLOWER TREES.

Thousands of Square Miles of Forests Blaze With Blossoms.

A great many of the big trees of Paraguay—the giants—flower in the spring and summer, and vast masses of the most gorgeous blooms are at the disposal of the bees. In fact, it was difficult for one who has never seen it even to imagine these thousands of square miles of forest ablaze with gold and heliotrope, white, yellow, pink and green blossoms during the flowering season.

Curiously enough, the two trees which attain the greatest size and almost invariably stand head and shoulders above the general mass bear the most beautiful flowers. They are the lapacho and lapacho cresspo, the former having large heliotrope and purple blooms—something like Canterbury bells—clusters of which grow at the end of each twig. The lapacho cresspo has a bloom exactly similar in shape, but of a rich golden yellow color. Both these trees array themselves in full regalia of bloom before a single leaf appears, and it is only after the flowers begin to fall that the foliage commences to appear.

When all the other trees have ceased flowering there remains the bitter orange, of which the forests are full and the blossom of which imparts to the honey a particularly delicate flavor.—Wide World Magazine.

FREEDOM IN FRANCE.

No Country in the World Where Individual Liberty is Greater.

I believe that there is no country in the world where there is greater individual freedom than in France. Every one apparently does just about as he pleases. The gendarmes are not watching for infractions and never seem to interfere with anybody. People tumble their dogs into the public fountains and enjoy the parks with a freedom that would not for a moment be permitted in New York. Yet no one does anything really harmful. I mentioned these things to the American consul, who said:

"Yes, the French have great individual license and are too proud of it to abuse it. Whatever they lack in political freedom they make up in personal liberty. That is the chief article of their faith. The gendarme seldom lays hands on a citizen. Where something really serious happens there are usually serious consequences, but it does not often happen."

Then he told me of a runaway youth whom he wished apprehended and held for American advices. The authorities said: "We will watch him for you, we will keep you posted as to his comings, his goings and his doings, but we cannot lay hands on him. There is no warrant for so serious a step."—Albert Bigelow Paine in Century.

Smoke Consuming Schemes.

The most ingenious scheme ever invented for doing away with the smoke difficulty with steam locomotives was tried some years ago on the Metropolitan railway of England. "Between the rails a trough was laid, and the engine carried a sliding shoe device adapted to slide over this and to open doors as it passed whereby smoke let from the stack to the shoe was enabled to pass into the trough, thence being exhausted to a collecting plant." Another scheme for solving the smoke difficulty was to construct a series of smokestacks leading to the back of the train. This would have kept the cinders out of the passengers' eyes possibly, but would hardly have been sufficient to make the smoke settle on the company's right of way.—Indianapolis News.

The Mocking Bird.

Because of its incomparable melodies and imitative powers the mocking bird is the most renowned singer of the western hemisphere. Its place in the affections of the south is similar to that occupied by the robin in the north. It is well that this is true, for the bird appears not to deserve protection strictly from an economic standpoint. About half of its diet consists of fruit and many cultivated varieties, such as oranges, grapes, figs, strawberries, blackberries and raspberries, are attacked. One-fourth of its food is animal matter, and grasshoppers are the largest single element.

When Writing Was Undignified.

The years have brought a change in the estimation of authors and authoresses. A century ago to be "literary" in public spelled social disaster. When Lady Scott, for instance, published her novel "Trevelyan" in 1833 it was remarked that "of course nobody from London would call on her now." This was a view typical of the period. Now even butlers write poems.—London Express.

Title to Berkley Spring Now in City

Title to the Berkley hot sulphur spring is now in the hands of the city. The springs commission today paid the sum of $250 to Mr. Berkley and secured the title. The council advanced the funds for the purpose. This is the first actual title step in the mineral springs development and might be referred to as the title. It is hoped that a favorable sale of the bonds will be consummated next week and that work on the project will be begun about the first of the year.

The contracts on the other mineral springs do not mature until in April of 1915.

Soldiers To be Given Apples

Thousands of English, French, Russian and Indian soldiers engaged in the European war will be given Rogue River Valley apples as a treat from the English government Christmas day. According to a report received in this city, which is authentic, small baskets of the fruit will be given to each soldier. Rogue River Valley apples will be placed in each basket. A carload of fruit will be shipped from the valley immediately. Three dollars will be received for each box. Already several hundred boxes of Rogue River apples are in London.

Bonds May Sell Next Wednesday

Mr. Woody, representing the bonds department of the Portland Trust and Savings Bank, spent Thursday and Friday in Ashland in conference with the springs commission, local bankers and citizens going over the bond situation. He is in the market for the bonds but claims that the market does not justify a par bid. He returned to Portland Friday evening and will take up the matter further with his principals, making us a final proposition on next Wednesday.

Old Resident Buried Saturday

Mrs. Louise M. Parslow, aged 68, died last Thursday, December 10. Funeral services took place Saturday afternoon from Stock's undertaking parlors. Many friends were present and brought beautiful flowers. The services were impressive and beautiful. Mrs. Parslow has lived in Ashland for many years and is well known here. Interment took place in Hargadine cemetery.

Observer Dodge reports the temperature to have been 17.5 degrees this morning. This has been an appropriate day for "When the frost is on the pumpkin and the fodder's in the shock." The little pond in the city park had enough ice on it to allow the hazardous skating of school boys.
