Amusement Zone
At Exposition

Visitors to an exposition, as a rule, after having viewed the more dignified displays turn to the amusement section of any fair. Chicago had its Midway, St. Louis its Pike and San Francisco has its Zone, which represents an outlay of $14,000,000 and has already provided amusement for thousands. This aggregation of shows runs from the dignified and instructive "Creation," which is really the first chapter of Genesis reproduced in a manner that shows how the world was created, to the '49 Camp where are depicted the scenes of early days in California. Both of these shows have been well staged. It would perhaps be better to take the reader up one side of the Zone and down the other, giving briefly a sketch of the more important shows. The first attraction is the Carrousel with its many colored animals on which young and old ride. Next is the Crazy House, full of funny capers, then the Mexican Village with its gay colored hangings, its garden and fascinating senoritas; from here go to Alligator Joe's Farm, where we see many of the denizens of the southland. Next is the Underground Chinatown, which shows with accuracy this section of San Francisco as it was before the fire. Here we see the Chinaman with his fan-tan layout, his opium pipe and his theatre with its wierd and plaintive music. Next comes Toyland with its many shows for young and old. Then there is the Battle of Gettysburg and the Evolution of the Dreadnought; each of these is instructive as well as entertaining. The cost of these two productions is over $350,000.

The Hawaiian Village and the Home of the Samoans are in line as we come to the Aeroscope, a gigantic steel arm to the end of which is attached an observation car. This revolves and gradually attains great height, giving a magnificent view of San Francisco, the Golden Gate and the surrounding country. Next is Mysterious Asia, where the Turkish dancers and the sword whirlers hold forth. This brings us to the end of the street and we cross to the other side. The first object which attracts the eye is the Yellowstone Park concession, where Old Faithful, the famous geyser, may be seen at work sending up thousands of gallons of water every minute. There is the Russian Theatre and then the 101 Ranch with its wild west show, its cowgirls and dashing bronco busters; Australia with its wonderful whipmen who perform most remarkable feats with their short stock and long lash whips. Then comes the Old Plantation with its old-time darkies playing and singing the plaintive tunes of the Sunny South. Film-land, where moving pictures are taken, is next to Japan Beautiful, where dainty geisha girls serve tea while their sturdy brothers demonstrate the mode of wrestling employed in the land of the cherry blossom. The Baby Incubators with their tiny mites of humanity, each struggling to grow to manhood or womanhood while white-garbed nurses watch over them every minute of the day.

Then there is the Irish village with its pretty colleens who have all kissed the Blarney stone which is at the top of the turret of the castle. Next comes the '49 Camp with its dance halls, its miners garbed as in the days of Mark Twain and Brete Harte, its sluicing ground where one may pan for real gold nuggets. Then the Dayton Flood-realistically showing that terrible disaster which shocked the world.

Creation, the marvelous production showing how the world was made, and the Panama Canal, are the two features of the Zone. Space will not permit descriptions of these attractions as they are too large and far-reaching. Creation, like the Panama Canal, is instructive as well as entertaining. Captain Scott's trip to the South Pole is another of the wonders of the amusement lane and shows how this gallant explorer made his way to the pole. There are many other attractions, such as shooting galleries, Bowls of Joy, candy floss booths, "hot dog" stands, etc.

Taking it all in all, we find that the Zone has improved much on the old-fashioned show that we saw years ago, and many of the concessions are of such character as to be lessons for the mind of the youth or the grand-
