1916 High School Annual Is Artistic

The 1916 issue of "The Rogue", the high school annual, is out and the edition, which was limited to 200, is sold, the demand far exceeding the supply, so far did the booklet exceed all anticipations. The annual is the most artistic appearing publication ever put out by the high school, and is full from cover to cover with "live" material. Interesting articles and replete with fine cuts. The cover is of a deckled edge material of gunmetal color embossed with the name and year in gold letters. A view of the entrance of Ashland park adorns the cover.

Through the courtesy of the Ashland Business Men's Association, who donated $100 to the annual, all advertising features were eliminated, thus giving an opportunity for the centering of the students' efforts upon the artistic features without regard to the disagreeable features of the financial end.

The annual is dedicated to the faculty. Every department of school activities is given space, departments devoted to short stories, chronology of the seniors, snap shots, personals, jokes and classes, and, in fact, the entire life of the student body is fully covered without a single page of uninteresting matter.

Miss Fern Murphy is editor-in-chief, Miss Alice Vandercamp is asstant editor, and Elbert Farlow business manager. The annual was printed by the Ashland Tidings.

DEPOT DOINGS

The territory in which the Southern Pacific company can sell liquor on its trains is constantly being decreased. The latest restriction is the prevention of selling liquor between Dunsmuir and Sisson in northern California, as this is dry territory. The Blakely county supervisors have also decided that if the company wishes to sell liquor on its trains between Weed and the Oregon line they must take out a license from the county to do so. Since it is against the law for liquor to be brought into the state, except by a common carrier such as the express company or freight department, it is questionable whether the railroad company will not have to either disconnect their buffet cars or unload the liquor before coming into Oregon.

In view of the apparent unavailability of the collision which occurred on Beach avenue recently when Agent Kramer at the throttle of his Ford suffered a head-on collision with a runaway team, the interstate commerce commission will probably not demand an investigation by a board of inquiry, as is the usual procedure when a S. P. employe is mixed up in a wreck.
