

Social Realm

The ladies of the Presbyterian church who are interested in the apron booth at the bazaar next Wednesday met at the home of Mrs. F. J. Shinn on Oak street Thursday, each lady bringing her portion of a delicious lunch which was served at noon, thus avoiding a break in the work of the day. Much work was accomplished.

The ladies of Trinity Guild will give another of their popular card parties Friday evening, November 24, at the parish house. This will be the first party of the season and a cordial invitation is extended to the public. Mrs. Clark Bush, Mrs. H. G. Gilmore, Mrs. P. B. Whitney, Miss Winifred Watson and Miss Eleanor Greer will be hostesses.

Elks to Weed.

Saturday, November 25, the Medford Elks will put on their minstrel show at Weed Cal. At least three hundred Elks from the various valley towns are expected to make the trip. About one hundred will go from Medford and the Ashland lodge expects to send many. A special train may be secured.

Women of Woodcraft.

The annual election of officers of Acorn Circle No. 54 was deferred at last regular meeting on account of much new business and the joint Halloween social with the Woodmen of the World. The Circle will hold said annual election on Saturday, November 25, at I. O. O. F. hall by special dispensation from Grand Guardian Mrs. C. C. Van Orsdall. Meeting hour 7:30 p. m. Supper will be served in the banquet room and a social hour enjoyed.

House Party.

Mrs. L. Schwein entertained Saturday evening in honor of Mrs. Sarah Ganiard of Oakland, Cal. The invited guests were old friends, who spent the evening very pleasantly talking of times gone by. A dainty three-course luncheon was served at 9:30 to the following ladies: Mrs. O. B. Tiffany, Mrs. M. A. Baldwin, Mrs. S. A. Kentnor, Mrs. W. H. Day, Mrs. E. E. Giddings, Mrs. E. Walrad, Miss Cora Baldwin, Miss Genevieve Tiffany and Mrs. Sarah Ganiard.

Bazaar.

Wednesday Club Bazaar opens Wednesday, November 22. If co-operation and the generous activity of its members count at all for success, the bazaar will be one of the most successful affairs ever held in Ashland. The Elks' storeroom recently vacated by McGee's has been secured and it will be filled with attractions for all. There will be charming dolls to delight the little ones, pretty things for Christmas gifts, and useful articles to supply every need. Tea will be served in a delightful Japanese tea garden from the balcony, with dainty Japanese maidens in charge. The fish pond will be ably superintended by Mrs. Chester Stevenson. The class in basketry are each donating one basket, and they will be of interest to basket lovers. A myriad of beautiful things will be on display.

Plan Southern Oregon Conference of Parent-Teachers.

An invitation is extended to all Parent-Teacher circles in southern Oregon to meet in Medford Wednesday, November 22, at 2:30 p. m., in the educational bureau room in the basement of the public library. The object of the meeting is to form a southern Oregon conference of Parent-Teacher circles.

Believing that there are many problems which are of mutual interest to both the city and rural schools, and that the work of all the circles will be enriched and strengthened by such an organization, this meeting has been called by Mrs. E. R. Seeley, vice-president of this district. Such an opportunity for co-operation in the work that comes nearest to the hearts of all mothers—the education of their children—will surely meet with an enthusiastic response from all circles. There is such an organization in King county, Washington, which has proven to be advantageous to all.

Renew Old Memories.

A number of Ashlanders who are attending the University of California, and some other former members of the Ashland high school student body who are at present living in the Golden state, were the guests of Miss Evelyn Merrill on Friday evening, November 10, at the home of Mrs. O. T. McKendry in Berkeley, Cal. Mrs. McKendry is a daughter of Mrs. C. K. Klum of Ashland, and was formerly known by her school friends as Patia Klum. The evening was spent in enjoying music, dancing and conversation, the reunion of old friends and recollections of the days when we sang "number 48 in the blue book," being thoroughly enjoyed by all. Delicious refreshments formed a very acceptable part of the evening's entertainment.

Those who partook of the hospitality of the McKendry home were Misses Aileen Bomar, Gertrude Meikle, Blanche Salisbury and Amy Stannard, and Messrs. Harold Merrill, Lawson Riley, Ralph Salisbury and Carroll Wagner.

In Recital.

Three talented young Ashland students of the violin participated in a concert given by the pupils of Edward Charles Root at his Medford studio Friday evening. Julian Barrett played a solo, "Humoreske" (Dvorak), and Chester and Harvey Woods, accompanied by their mother at the piano, played a violin duet, "Antonla Santa Lucia" (Neapolitan). The three also played in the class orchestra.

Five Hundred.

Miss Gladys Ney, who is spending the winter at the J. K. Choate home, entertained at five hundred Friday night. Two tables were played, Andrew McGee carrying off first prize in the men's division and Miss Lucile Barber the ladies' prize. Music and dancing passed the remainder of the evening and light refreshments were served. Those present besides the hostess were: Misses Lucile Barber, Hortense Winter and Ruby Palmer, and Messrs. Andrew McGee, Howard Barrett, Wilfred Carr and Lynn Mowat.

The second concert of the Medford Choral Society is scheduled for November 28 at the Page Theatre. The finishing touches on the program are now being added at the rehearsals. 52-31*

Medford Chorus Plans Fall Concert

The Medford Choral Society, one of the musical institutions of the Rogue River valley, which has given rise to the valley's fame as a musical center, and which was heard by an Ashland audience not many months ago, is planning a grand concert to be given at the Page Theatre, Medford, on November 28. The chorus now has over one hundred voices, representing the best musical talent in Medford and vicinity and some from this city, and the concert is bound to be a musical event worth hearing. George Andrews organized the chorus in a modest way over a year ago and its growth in size and ability has been astounding.

The concert to be given on the 28th inst. will be the musical event of the pre-Christmas season, and all lovers of the best in music should set that evening aside for the enjoyment of this event. The program will consist of Rossini's "Stabat Mater" and selections from Wagner's "Tannhauser" and "Lohengrin," and from Gounod's "Faust," with vocal and instrumental numbers of merit. A full orchestra will accompany the chorus and the event should be especially interesting as showing the advance made from the modest but highly successful concert of a few months ago. In this further effort of the Choral Society is shown the society's fidelity to its main object, that of the fostering and cultivation of the best in music with a view to making the Rogue River valley as famous for musical development as is Portland for its roses and Pendleton for its roundup.

Do not forget to save Friday evening, November 24, for Trinity Guild party at the parish house. 52-21

Snow Drives Out Road Builders

Because the snow was three feet deep on the level and from ten to twelve feet in the drifts, the road-building crew in Crater Lake national park under George E. Goodwin has been compelled to quit work for this year. Mr. Goodwin and crew came to Klamath Falls yesterday and left this morning for Portland for the winter.

To get out part of the outfit the men had to use snow plows, and in many places were able to get out only with great difficulty.

With the 1916 work completed, about forty-five miles of roadbed has been graded in the park, according to Mr. Goodwin. All that remains to be graded is twelve miles around the rim, and this can easily be finished next year. It will cost approximately $100,000.

When the last twelve miles are graded the work of hard surfacing the entire fifty-seven or more miles of roadbed throughout the park will be begun.—Klamath Falls Herald.

Shriners Have Many from Afar

Shriners from all over southern Oregon and northern California were guests of the Ashland nobles Saturday evening. A ceremonial, initiation and a big banquet at the armory constituted the evening's entertainment. The ladies were entertained at the Vining Theatre and Masonic hall.

Salem is to build a $20,000 home for aged women.

Mechanic's Lien Stops Auto Party

A party of four, three passengers and a driver, in a big six-cylinder car were stopped here Monday morning by the local police on word from Portland. The owner of the car left that city with a mechanic's lien for $26.75 hanging over his head, hence the arrest. While waiting on efforts of the driver to raise the cash the party took in Lithia park on foot.

Mary MacLaren, who was starred in a Bluebird photoplay at the Vining Monday night, bears a small resemblance to Blanche Sweet, and apparently is modeling her acting after Miss Sweet's.
