A SOUTHERN OREGON CONGRESSMAN.

The announcement that C. M. Thomas of Medford will become a candidate for congressman from this district is being received with almost universal approval throughout the southern part of the state. Mr. Thomas made a statewide reputation at the recent legislative session, at which he represented Jackson county. He was one of the strongest, if not the strongest, man in the house, and his oratorical ability, fight and powerful influence, while securing needed legislation for southern Oregon, marked him as a legislator of character and power. This section needs a man in congress. Crater Lake has never received the aid it should, and it is claimed that the discrimination made against southern Oregon in freight rates has always been an obstacle to successful merchandising on a parity with Portland and San Francisco establishments. Mr. Thomas has promised to make the race for congressman if he is shown that a united Oregon stands behind him.

THE MERCHANT'S CAREER.

An interesting feature of the recent meeting of the National Dry Goods Association at New York was the extending of honors to the ten oldest retail dry goods merchants in the United States. In the record of these men it was brought out that most of them were passing goods over the counter by the time they were fourteen or fifteen years old. It is a remarkable record when a man begins supplying human needs at fifteen and keeps it up half a century. In a period when most people are changeable, moving around from place to place and frequently changing business and professions, the retail merchant located in one place and supplying faithfully the changing needs of that place, is one of the most permanent of old landmarks. Were it not for his faithful service, many homes and many lives would go without daily comforts and conveniences. He is a mainstay of public progress, and a substantial promoter of the growth of the community.

With those suffragist pickets surrounding the White House, it was clearly a mistake not to provide the executive mansion with a secret underground exit.

Appealing to national honor is not sure to bring recruits, but wait until people are thrown out of work by interference of submarine warfare with shipments of goods!

THE BASIS OF SUCCESS.

The American boy's heart swells at the thought of success. He dreams dreams in which he sees himself the center of an applauding multitude. He imagines himself a popular military or naval hero, or else a powerful statesman or a commanding capitalist. He reads impossible tales of boys who accomplish things that few men can do. But meanwhile he is taking no steps leading to any exceptional career.

The fame attained by the late General Frederick Punston, who has been as well known as any American soldier of the present generation, illustrates about how fame and exceptional success comes to a man. Punston made his reputation by capturing Aguinaldo. It was a daring attempt, when he and his small company ventured into the rebel chief's village. Most men would have said it was impossible. But Punston had the courage, the nerve, the determination, and he did it.

In ordinary life the seeker for success is not asked to risk his life. He need not risk even his health. All he has to do is to show grit and indomitable perseverance. He has got to "keep on keeping on," as the poet said, after other people have become discouraged.

The world is full of the "It can't be done" spirit. Everyone finds plenty of opportunities for growth and expansion. In every business position there is a higher success that can be achieved. Someone is going to achieve it. But it requires devotion to duty, a concentration of one's mind, and a persistence in the face of obstacles, which most people are unwilling to give.

Most people look the obstacles over, they are baffled by them for a time, and then they quit. A large success means a long fight. Only those who are game for a persistent struggle ever get far. Success is not a matter of luck nor usually of exceptional genius, but more often it is merely the gift of sticking to a thing.

GET OUT.

- If you do not like your town. Get out.
- Do not sit around and swear. And agitate the air. But get your duds together. And get out.
- If you can not do your part. Get out.
- Do not stand around and frown. A dead weight on your town. Just pull yourself together. And get out.
- If you will not do your part. Get out.
- Do not rave and squeal. And tell how mean you feel. But pack and check your baggage. And get out.

S. P. Makes Changes At Dunsmuir

Dunsmuir News: The Southern Pacific Company building in the railway park, which has been used for years for emergency hospital duty, has been abandoned for such purposes and the fixtures and medical appliances have been sent to the S. P. hospital at San Francisco.

W. H. Marion, head carpenter for the company here, is remodeling the interior of the building and fixing up a number of offices to be occupied by company officials, probably Bob Cuveiller, road foreman of engines; W. B. Kirkland, trainmaster; O. D. Stoppage, traveling auditor, and O. E. Thomas, special agent.

As was previously stated in the News, all emergency cases will be handled at the Dunsmuir Hospital.

Rogue River Courier: The fishing the past few days has been good, the river having cleared up to some extent. While the placer miners were busy up the river the water was so muddy that only small catches of fish were made. Yesterday, however, some fine strings were brought in, some running as high as 29 steelheads. The fish are of a new run and are as bright as the summer steelheads.

Oregon City.—The fishermen's union met last night to outline a campaign for the raising of a fund for the purpose of fighting the act passed by the last legislature that would stop all gill fishing above a deadline placed at Oswego. By circulating a referendum petition to be signed by 20,000 legal voters, the act would be held over until the regular election in November, 1918, when it would be brought before the people.

There are so few unemployed in Portland that the Scadding house has been closed since last May, and it is felt that no necessity exists to keep the house open except possibly during a few months of the winter. Such are the facts as contained in the third annual report of the superintendent of the Social Service League of the Episcopal church, relative to the only charity house for "down and out" men.

Salem Statesman: The first complete carload of flax fibre seed ever sent out of Oregon left Salem last night when the state board of control shipped from the penitentiary flax plant 1,500 bushels of seed consigned to Conrad, Mont., where it is to be sown for flax fibre production. The buyer is the Northern Flax Fibre Company, which has headquarters at Great Falls, Mont. The price paid the state is $2.75 f. o. b. Salem.

Lake County Examiner: Since the rabbit bounty law went into effect County Clerk Payne has issued warrants to the amount of $1,515.45. This means that a total of 30,309 rabbit scalps have been presented for the bounty. The largest number that has been presented at any one time was 1,940. These were sent from Plush by John Petty. The greater amount of the scalps have been sent in from the Plush section and from the vicinity of Port Rock, with only a minor part from the Goose Lake valley.

Molalla, Ore.: H. H. Palmer, who purchased the Molalla Pioneer about four months ago, received word last week that he had fallen heir to several hundred thousand dollars through the death of his mother. He received an advance draft of $5,000 to defray expenses of his eastern trip. He left Tuesday, accompanied by his wife, who will go as far as Washington, D. C., while Mr. Palmer goes to New York. Gordon J. Taylor, who was on a lecturing tour in the state of Washington, was compelled to cancel dates and is now in charge of the Pioneer. He was the former owner.

Klamath Record: The first commercial shipment of rabbit skins from Klamath Falls to the east was made today, when R. A. Ward, local government biologist, shipped 500 rabbit skins to Jonas & Lombard of New York city, where they will be used in the manufacture of hair felt goods.

Roseburg News: A petition has been circulated for the past few weeks by several prominent residents of this city, addressed to the city council of Roseburg, asking that under the city charter as amended by a vote of the people on May 7, 1907, the city use the bonds that have already been authorized, amounting to $250,000, for the construction of a system of water and lights to be owned and controlled by the city. This has been agitated and promoted a number of times previous, but strong action is being made at the present time to sign a large number of the taxpayers here. The petition at this date has two hundred names and its circulation will be continued for some time, according to the petitioners.

Wanted—One hundred families to colonize as many garden tracts near The Dalles. This, figuratively, is the appeal that will be made during the next few weeks by the colonization department of the Union Pacific system and The Dalles Chamber of Commerce. These two institutions are co-operating and have arranged for the purchase of the E. F. Sharp farm in the Three-Mile valley, near The Dalles, and are trying to get enough people settle on the property so that it can be cut up into small fruit farms and garden tracts. Liberal inducements will be offered to settlers. A ready market is available for their products. The big canneries of Libby, McNeill & Libby and the Dri-Fruit Company at The Dalles can stand 5,000 tons more of fruits and small vegetables every year than they are now using.

East Oregonian: A carload of Oregon-made hardwood single-trees, double-trees and wagon reaches will be shipped into Pendleton in the near future from Marion county, to be sold to the farmers of this county at auction. L. F. Evans of Salem, the manufacturer, is here today making arrangements for the sale. His products are made of Willamette valley grub oak, and is seasoned in sawdust so that there is no checking or warping. His industry is a unique one but is thriving, he states, inasmuch as he is able to sell for 50 per cent of the cost of eastern products. If the first sale is a success, he plans to hold others.

"Come on Over, See My Corn Fall Off!"

"See—all you have to do is to use your two fingers and lift the corn right off. That's the way 'Gets-It' always works. You just put on about 2 drops. Then the corn not only shrivels, but loosens from the toe, without affecting the surrounding flesh in the least. Why, it's almost a pleasure to have corns and

Pullman Team May Compete at Chicago

Spokane, Wash., March 8.—The Washington State college basketball team, champions of the northwest conference and probable title holders in the Pacific coast conference, will compete in the National Amateur Union championship tournament in Chicago this month, for the premier honors of the United States for 1916-17. An invitation from the A. A. U. to take part in the Chicago tournament has been acted upon favorably by the athletic council of the college located at Pullman, 85 miles south of Spokane. According to the plans Coach Fred Bohler and six players will be sent to the tournament. The dates for the annual championships have been set for March 15, 16 and 17, and the Northwest's best team will be sent to Chicago in time to get some practice on the Central Y. M. C. A. floor, where the tournament will be staged, to accustom the players to the angles of the playing court. The W. S. C. team suffered but one defeat during the season. California won a game from the state college quintet in Berkeley, but Washington evened up by taking the second game of the series from the U. of C. five. There is no chance to figure W. S. C. out for less than a tie with California for the Pacific Coast conference title, and if the honor is awarded on a basis of game won and lost Washington State will get the title as it has competed in many more college games than California.
