Bulletin Reviews Industrial Clubs

State Superintendent of Public Instruction Churchill has issued a bulletin which reviews the work of the Boys' and Girls' Industrial clubs during the past year. It contains pictures of the boys and girls who won capital prizes for exhibits at the state fair last September.

The pictures are accompanied by letters of explanation of the work done by the prize winners. The bulletin states that during the past year there were 277 clubs organized with an aggregate membership of 13,895. The work concerned corn growing, potato growing, vegetable culture, poultry raising, pig feeding, gardening, canning, sewing, baking, etc., and is full of interest.

Look for High Mohair Prices

There seems to be a feeling that mohair is to break all bounds this year and soar to the highest prices ever known. The statement has been made by one of the leading buyers in this state that he looks for the mohair pools to open around 80 cents a pound, a price unheard of in Oregon. In addition to this, he says he believes the market will reach $1 a pound before the season ends. The effect of such talk will be, of course, to stiffen growers' ideas as to what they ought to get and will probably cause prices to reach a point never before attained.

The local mohair dip is usually pooled. Last year a top-notch price was obtained by the mohair pool, the Rogue mohair being of fine quality.

GOLD HILL ITEMS.

John B. Hammersly, the government hunter and trapper, stationed at Willow Flat on Upper Evans creek, was here Wednesday visiting creek, was here Wednesday visiting the family of Dr. W. P. Chisholm. He reports the fall of snow this past winter in the Umpqua mountains the heaviest for a number of years. It was four feet deep at his camp during the big storm. He said: "I and the dogs have about scooped the gold dern varmits out of that neck of the woods." John has sent in his resignation as government hunter. He and other local parties have organized a company to take animal films from nature. His party and trained hounds will leave next week for the wilds of Curry county to begin operations in the new enterprise.

Robert Burch, owner of the old Pankey farm in Sams valley, left this week for Kennet, Cal. Mr. Burch is a miner of many years' experience, having taken a position in the mines at that place until next October, when he will return to the farm. Mr. C. D. Morgan will have charge of the farm during his absence. Mr. Morgan was formerly a Jackson county boy, having returned here after an absence of twenty years. He has been employed as a commercial traveler throughout the middle west for a number of years.

Several of the farmers in this district have recently had several carloads of beet pulp shipped here from the Grants Pass sugar factory, for the purpose of relieving the feed shortage. Several of our heavy alfalfa raisers on the creeks in this district who have herds of range cattle sold their crop short last season and are now compelled to buy hay at winter prices to tide over until the new crop comes on.

George Stone, manager of the Ray & Haff sheelite mine two miles north of this city, is busy installing compressors and drill machinery on the property. The machinery will be operated by electric power. The first operation on the property will be the construction of a 1,200-foot tunnel, started from the base of the hill on the east, tapping the main ledge at a depth of 600 feet. This tunnel will connect with the old tunnel from the opposite side of the ledge. The old works were constructed by the Sylvanite company, a former lessee. The old tunnel has become obsolete, due to faulty tunneling. It will be reconstructed later on by the new owners.

A series of revival meetings was held the past week at the M. E. church of this city. The local minister, Rev. Hutchins, was assisted by Rev. J. M. Crenshaw, local preacher of the M. E. church at Wilderville, in Josephine county. Elmer E. Dungey, who recently left here for Marshfield, writes his father, Walter Dungey, of this city, that he has taken a position with the Southern Pacific Company in its freight office in that city. He reports among the former Gold Hillites that he has met there are E. G. Perham, Dave G. Avery, Roy Rogue, F. L. Caldwell, Billy Dungey and Charles Tyler.

Food Resources Will Be Lined Up

The county agricultural agents of the state will combine to line up the state's agricultural resources in view of the possibility of this being a vital factor in case of a prolonged war with Germany, according to Paul V. Maris, state leader of county agents. The county agents thus organized will have the means of giving the government information on such resources and will be able to direct work looking to a greater volume of food production in case of necessity.
